NOT READY FOR WEEKS.

PARIS FILLED WITH VISITORS

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE BY GRACE CORNEAU.]

PARIS, April 13.—More than 50,000 visitors have poured into Paris the last forty-eight hours to witness the ceremonies tomorrow which will inaugurate the exposition. The influx is so sudden and so great that the Prefect of Police begins already to foresee difficulty in housing and feeding them all. The exposition authorities are delighted with the throng, and declare that it is the forerunner of the great army of visitors that is to insure the success of the fair.

A tour of the exposition grounds made late today shows the exact state of the buildings and grounds to be extremely unsatisfactory. The large Art Palace has not yet been roofed, the central staircase—one of the notable architectural features of the building—is scarcely half finished, and no exhibits are ready. Even the little Art Palace is incomplete, although some of the exhibits are in place. Neither of the art palaces will be open before May 1.

Alexander Bridge Incomplete.

The great Alexander bridge, one of the chief glories of the exposition, lacks a large part of its artistic ornamentation.

The esplanade of the invalids' buildings is still surrounded by scaffolding, and nothing has been installed in the interior.

The exterior of the Palace of the Armies is far behind, and the façade will be all that will be built. The Salle des Fêtes, on the Champ de Mars, is in a fearful state, few of the buildings being finished. The Château d'Eau is still in the preliminary period of its construction. A better state of affairs exists at the Trocadero.

Not Ready for Six Weeks.

At least six weeks will be required before the exposition is complete in all its details and ready for the enjoyment of visitors. Owing to the almost herculean efforts of Commissioner Ferd W. Peck and his colleagues the American exhibit is one of the principal features of the exposition ready for the opening day. As a mark of friendship to the United States, a prominent place has been given to the American flag at the Champs Elysées entrance gate to the exposition.

Clash Over the Program.

The friction between Premier Waldeck-Rousseau and M. Millerand, Minister of Commerce and Industry, has resulted in a clash over the program of inauguration. M. Millerand, by virtue of his office, had charge of the preparation and printing of the programs, and he left the Premier's name off. Neither is the address to be given in the name of the government mentioned in the list of speeches. As a result Premier Waldeck-Rousseau was tonight compelled to issue an official note saying that by error his name had been left off the program, but that he would make an address after that delivered by President Loubet.

All army and navy officers and public functionaries are requested to be present tomorrow in full uniform, while civilians participating in the opening ceremonies will be expected to wear dress suits.

Program for the Ceremony.

The ceremony of the inauguration of the exposition will be held at 2 o'clock in the grand "Salle des Fêtes" in the Machine Gallery on the Champ de Mars.

President Loubet will drive to the hall from the Elysée Palace in his new gala carriage, painted a dark blue striped with red lines. It is adorned with the arms of the French Republic and will be drawn by four horses ridden by postilions with Montjarret, the chief piquer, ahead. The footmen and coachmen will be in blue livery and will wear red, white, and blue cockades. The President will be accompanied by General Bailloud in full uniform and members of the civil and military household, the Ministers, and other prominent officials.

Loubet to Preside at Ceremony.

Upon arriving at the hall he will be conducted to the Presidential tribune, where he will have as guests the members of the Cabinet, the Presidents of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies, other prominent functionaries, and the full diplomatic corps in their gorgeous state ceremonial uniforms.

M. Millerand, the Minister of Commerce, will make the opening address, at the same time handing over the exposition to the President as representing the people of France. In the course of his discourse Minister Millerand will emphasize the triumph of industry and commerce in promoting the peace of Europe, and will pay a high tribute to the Commissioner General, M. Picard, and his co-laborers on the exposition.

Will Welcome All Nations.

President Loubet will reply, thanking Minister Millerand and expressing for himself and the people appreciation of the great work accomplished as another triumph for France. He will welcome the nations of the world participating in the exposition, and the President will then solemnly declare the exposition to be open.

Salute of One Hundred and One Guns.

An opening hymn will be sung by an immense chorus and a 101 cannon salute will be fired from the galleries to announce to

ANOTHER RAID IN GEMS.

PORCH-CLIMBERS GET $2,000 AT A. M. ROTHSCHILD'S HOUSE.

Men Who Looted the O. W. Potter Residence Suspected — Family Dines While Thieves Ransack Upper Floor —Overlook a $7,500 Necklace—Lake Shore Drive Booty Reported in St. Louis and St. Paul, but Authorities Deny Story.

While the family of Abram M. Rothschild were at dinner porch climbers entered their residence, 3725 Michigan avenue, and carried off diamonds and other jewels valued at $2,000. The thieves were frightened away before they had completed their search of the rooms on the upper floors, and one of them was seen as he was making his escape from a portico at the rear of the house.

The burglary took place on the evening of April 5, and, though immediately reported to the Stanton Avenue Police Station, no clews to the identity of the robbers have been obtained. News of the robbery was suppressed until last night. Lieutenant Murphy has a special force of detectives detailed in the investigation of the case.

From the methods employed in the burglary it is suspected that the jewels were stolen by the same gang who entered the Orrin W. Potter residence last Monday night and conducted several previous raids of like nature.

List of Jewels Stolen.

| | |
|---|---|
| Pigeon blood ruby brooch | $750 |
| Two pearl stick pins | 200 |
| One diamond solitaire ring | 500 |
| Three sapphires | 500 |
| Diamond-studded woman's watch | 250 |

The jewels taken had been worn the evening before by Mrs. Rothschild, and lay on a table in her dressing-room. The robbers could not open the strong box, in which valuables amounting to several thousand dollars are stored, but drawers and closets in all the rooms were found in the utmost confusion after the departure of the burglars.

A pearl necklace valued at $7,500 was partly disclosed among some papers in a desk when Mrs. Rothschild entered the room, but the robbers had failed to notice it.

Enter by Rear Porch.

Entrance to the residence was gained by climbing to the roof of a bay window at the rear of the house. This roof is used as a promenade in summer time, and the gardener had been preparing it that afternoon for some rustic benches. It is thought that one of the windows opening out on this retreat had been left unfastened and that the men entered with little trouble. No marks of a "jimmie" were found on the window sill.

During the dinner hour the upper rooms of the house were deserted for nearly two hours, and the porch climbers seemed to have worked with the leisure which knowledge of that fact assured. Four rooms, including the study and three bed chambers, were ransacked and the contents left in confusion on the floors. Trays from trunks and drawers from desks stood on chairs, with papers and gowns and trinkets heaped together. Even some large brown envelopes in Mr. Rothschild's private desk were ripped open in the search for valuables.

It was nearly 8 o'clock when Mrs. Rothschild left the drawing-room and started upstairs. At that moment she felt a gust of wind sweep through the house from the upper rear rooms, and when she reached the landing she hastened to close the window which she believed to be open. All the windows were closed, however, though one in the center of the bay window was unfastened.

Catches Glimpse of Robber.

A shadow as of some object falling from the portico outside caught Mrs. Rothschild's eye as she stood at the window, but she thought no more of the matter till she entered the other rooms and met the scene of confusion which the thieves had wrought. The shadow, it is thought, was cast by the last robber as he slipped to the ground.

At least two and perhaps three thieves are believed by the police to be in the gang.

Mrs. Rothschild immediately gave the alarm and made a hurried inventory of the valuables in the house. The strong box was found intact, and after a careful search Mrs. Rothschild decided none but the jewels enumerated in the foregoing list had been stolen.

All the Stanton avenue detectives were hurried to the house and the neighborhood scoured for several hours without result.

"I am afraid that publicity will not recover the jewels," said Mrs. Rothschild, "though it may assist the thieves to escape. However, I am annoyed by the loss of the gems, which had more value to me as heirlooms than jewels. The robbers seemed to have worked at their convenience, so free from interruption was the upper part of the house at the time."

Clew to Potter Jewels.

Chicago detectives, according to a report in police circles last night, have found two clews which may lead to the arrest of the porch climbers who robbed the family of O. W. Potter of $17,000 worth of jewelry. Reports were received yesterday that endeavors had been made in St. Louis and St. Paul to sell diamonds answering the description of the stolen gems.

It was said that Captain Colleran had gone to St. Louis to work on the case, but it was found on inquiry that the Captain had gone to Kansas City on business of another nature.

Detective Sergeants Halpin and Bock, who were detailed by Captain Colleran to take charge of the Potter case, received the information that efforts were being made to dispose of the jewels.

Halpin and Bock denied that they had had any communication with the authorities of St. Louis or St. Paul, but admitted that they had been told that efforts had been made in both cities to sell diamonds which resembled the diamonds stolen from the Potter residence.

Telegrams to THE TRIBUNE from St. Louis and St. Paul said the police in each city insisted they knew nothing of the reported attempts to sell the Potter jewels. Captain Colleran said in Kansas City that he was there on private business.

This Diamond Thief Caught.

William J. Kennedy, a painter, arrested in Chebanse, Ill., for the theft of three diamond rings and a pair of diamond earrings valued at $400, was brought to Chicago yesterday by Detective Sergeant Charles Brown. On March 17 burglars stole the diamonds from the residence of Mrs. Stella Higgins, 349 North Paulina street. Kennedy had been employed in painting the residence, and after the theft disappeared. He admitted his guilt and told the police the whereabouts of the diamond rings.

Recent Work of Porch-Climbers.

Francis J. Dewes, 1849 Wrightwood avenue, $4,000 in jewelry.

PLANKS IN DEWEY'S PLATFORM.

Prediction as to Stand Admiral Will Take on Silver and the Philippines.

New York, April 13.—[Special.]—A dispatch to the World from Washington says:

"Two planks from Admiral Dewey's forthcoming platform of principles:

"1. The silver question is dead. It should not be an issue in the forthcoming campaign. The people are thinking on other topics. The complexion of the United States Senate forbids any financial legislation for at least five years. Personally, he is a gold Democrat.

"2. A middle ground as regards the Philippines. He is not in favor of abandoning them, as is Mr. Bryan, nor is he in favor of making them a colony of the United States, as is Mr. McKinley. He thinks the United States should establish a protectorate over them, as has been done in the case of Cuba, until the inhabitants are ready to govern themselves and until this country has been fully reimbursed from the revenues of all moneys spent thereon.

"It must not be understood that the paragraphs printed are direct quotations from the Admiral's statement or that they are expressed in the Admiral's words. The paragraphs are the gist of his thoughts and convictions on the matters involved as expressed to various persons with whom he has talked. When a declaration of principles is issued these sentiments will be found in it."

Among the events of Dewey day in Chicago will be the meeting of the Admiral and William J. Bryan for the first time since the former made known his candidacy for President of the United States. Colonel Bryan yesterday telegraphed to Max J. Riese of the Lakeside club that he would cancel other engagements and accept its invitation to be present at the celebration of May 1. Both Admiral Dewey and Colonel Bryan have been consulted in the matter and have said they would be delighted to meet each other.

SAYS MRS. DEWEY WOULD RULE

Ex-Judge Hazen Thinks Election of Admiral to Presidency Would Mean Sway by His Wife.

Meeker, Colo., April 13.—[Special.]—Judge Hazen, a brother-in-law of Mrs. George Dewey, who is here visiting on the ranch of his daughter, Mrs. Adams, was asked for his opinion on the Admiral's announcement of his candidacy for the Presidency. He was reluctant to express his views, but when pressed made the following statement, after deliberation:

"I am not in a position to say much, but if the people of this country do not desire to place the destiny of this country in the hands of a woman, it is best to let the Admiral remain where he is. I know Mrs. Dewey well, of course. She was my brother's wife. She is a bright, capable, ambitious woman, and quite familiar with public affairs in Washington."

Ex-Judge Hazen was at one time postmaster of Meeker, but now is an inmate of the Monte Vista Soldiers' Home. He has three daughters married in Colorado, all of whom, with their children, are proud of Mrs. Dewey and Uncle George.

ARREST OF NICHOLAS NOWAK.

Prominent Citizen of Rose, Wis., Accused of Swindling Fellow Townsmen Out of Nearly $10,000.

One hundred citizens of the Town of Rose, Wis., accused Nicholas Nowak, a prisoner at the Central Station, of swindling them out of various sums of money, aggregating nearly $10,000. Nowak was arrested last night with his wife at 740 Jefferson street by Detective Sergeant Murtaugh of Central Station and Sheriff H. J. Hawkins of Waushara County, Wis.

Nowak, it is said, was one of Rose's foremost citizens. The town has about 300 inhabitants. He was Supervisor of the village and also dealt in real estate and horses. In every deal, it is said, Nowak used fraudulent methods, and when he suddenly left town he had nearly $10,000 of the savings of the thrifty inhabitants. Warrants charging him with obtaining money by false pretenses were sworn out by several of his alleged victims.

Nowak is 35 years old and is related to some of the leading Polish citizens of Chicago. He came to Chicago three weeks ago and was preparing to go to Hot Springs, he says.

BEGS WITH A HIRED SERVANT.

John Trainor, Blind and Handless, Accused by His "Man" of Being Wealthy.

John Trainor, blind in both eyes and with both hands amputated, is accused by his colored servant of being a wealthy beggar and tramp. Trainor pays this servant $8 a week. Yesterday they went to the Bureau of Associated Charities and asked for half rate transportation to Boston, where Trainor said he was going to visit relatives.

It was learned from the man's companion that he was wealthy, with a bank account of many hundreds of dollars in Albuquerque, N. M., and that he was a professional tramp. As a result he was arrested. He told the police $22 was all he had and they will try to get him his half rate transportation.

A dispatch from Albuquerque late last night said Trainor was not known there and no man answering his description had a bank account in that city.

"SOFT DRINKS" IN A COLLISION

Bottles of Soda Water Exploded at State and Twelfth Streets When Wagon and Grip Car Meet.

The explosion of bottles of soda water that followed a collision between a wagon loaded with temperance drinks and a south-bound State street cable train at Twelfth street last night attracted many persons to the scene of the collision. William Fuller, 79 Illinois street, driver of the wagon, was thrown to the ground and received slight bruises. The wagon was demolished and scores of small boys helped themselves to bottles of pop.

WOULD SEND SWENIE TO PARIS.

Despite Decision Against Going Funds Will Be Raised for Expenses of the Trip.

The decision of Fire Marshal Swenie to decline the invitation from Commissioner Ferdinand W. Peck to become United States member of the executive commission of the international firemen's tournament will not bar further efforts to induce him to change his decision. A movement has been started to have the citizens of Chicago raise funds to defray the expenses of the Marshal on the trip. He declined to go because of the illness of Mrs. Swenie.

HANECY IS TANNER'S MAN

GOVERNOR WORKS TO MAKE THE JUDGE THE CANDIDATE.

Employes of State Administration Are All Active in Behalf of the Third Ward Man—Registrar of Grain Receipts Hogan and Live Stock Commissioner Paddock Running His Out-of-Town Campaign—How Delegates Are Had.

Governor Tanner has returned from the South and is receiving from his officeholders reports as to their stewardship. He finds among the disabled many hitherto important cogs in his machine. Cicero J. Lindley and Charles S. Rannells come under the general head of "dead birds." Len Small and E. C. Curtis have been crippled. Senator Berry's engine has broken a connecting rod and runs on one side. The Governor's friends will have about 175 votes on the floor of the convention outside of Cook County. They will be officeholders or their relatives or dependents to a man. That they will do as Tanner indicates goes without saying.

There is not in all Illinois a single Tanner man who is not for Judge Hanecy. Not one. Ninety-nine per cent of Hanecy's country support comes to him from Tanner and the State administration. The State Auditor, the Secretary of State, the Attorney General, and the Lieutenant Governor—McCullough, Rose, Akin, and Northcott—are all banded in together with Tanner. They rise and fall together. Every Tanner man is for these State officers and vice versa. Their renominations are essential to the success of the Tanner-Hanecy machine. If the Tanner people have their way, it will be a case of renomination of a State ticket from Lieutenant Governor down, State Treasurer excepted. Whittemore would be renominated but for the constitutional inhibition against a State Treasurer succeeding himself.

Hanecy's Country Strength.

Tanner's appointees make Hanecy's meetings for him and they make Hanecy's fights for him, too. Without them Hanecy would not be heard of out in the country. The only anti-Tanner man of note in Illinois who is for Hanecy is Harry B. Ward of Duquoin. Mr. Ward is a Martin B. Madden man, and he has been led to believe Hanecy's nomination means advancement for Madden. Ward might remember the time Jamieson and Lorimer put Madden, and him, too, up against the political thimble rig. Madden bought and paid dearly, too, for one political gold brick. Lorimer and Jamieson are all framed up to sell him another.

Hanecy's managers are Hogan, Paddock, and Shanahan.

Little Dan Hogan lives down in Massac or some other little county on the Ohio. He has held every office he could get all his life. Office holding is his long suit. In Chicago little Dan Hogan is a big man in Egypt. In that country little Dan Hogan is a big man in Chicago. He is by Tanner's appointment Registrar of Grain Receipts in Chicago and has never let Hanecy out of his sight a single minute since the "love feast." If he could prevent it. Little Dan Hogan is a manager and a "lookout" for Tanner. He reports to Tanner what Hanecy is doing, and makes trips out in the country on secret missions.

James H. Paddock is a member of the Live Stock commission, by appointment of Governor Tanner. He is well acquainted in Illinois, and the Governor loaned him to Judge Hanecy for the campaign, after using him in the Sangamon County fight.

David E. Shanahan is and always has been a Tanner man. It is true Tanner has never recognized David's services in any way, but that is a coincidence. David is a hewer of wood and a carrier of water at headquarters. Lorimer controls Shanahan's legislative district and David wishes to return to the House. He is with Tanner naturally and with Lorimer by force.

And Van Cleave Also.

That's the situation in the Hanecy headquarters. "Tin-Tags" Van Cleave is for Hanecy, and so are the Tanner scouts to a man. They are traveling over the State by day and by night, on railroads and in wagons, loading primaries and stuffing conventions so as to get Hanecy delegates to the State convention. They have scrip in their wallets every time.

There are unmistakable evidences that Hanecy and Tanner have a perfect understanding and agreement. It is said to have been made at Springfield the day before the "love feast." By its terms Hanecy is to be Governor, Tanner or some man he may select to be Senator, and all Tanner's friends are to be kept in their places. Van Cleave and little Dan Hogan—every one is to be retained. Tanner intended to run for Governor, but Lorimer told him it would not do. Then Lorimer brought Hanecy to the Governor's notice, and the trade was made.

Little Dan Hogan and a few cronies from the Twenty-second Congressional District got together at once and pledged their county to Hanecy. It was soon discovered instructions in Tanner counties for Hanecy would not do at all, because they would draw too much fire. So the instruction business was stopped by Tanner's imperative command. The work of "plugging" the delegates has been going on all the time. The Tanner people report to and work in conjunction with Judge Hanecy and his campaign managers at the Great Northern. The machinery of the State administration is at Hanecy's back. No Tanner, Akin, McCullough, or Rose appointee dare chirp against Hanecy or refuse to go out and do battle for the Judge. Such conduct would cost the offender his job.

Small Missed the Governor.

From Kankakee comes a story that Len Small and Curtis went down to New Orleans to meet the Governor on his road home. They wanted to tell him in person how it all happened and how they were sore against their will—instructed for Cullom at the Gilman convention. They feared somebody would get to Tanner before they did and not tell the straight story, so they made for New Orleans, believing the Governor would return to the North by that city, but he did not go to New Orleans at all. Curtis and Small, after watching the New Orleans railway stations for a couple of days, discovered their miscalculation and came home without meeting Tanner at all. They will show up in Springfield before long.

FEARS BAD EASTER WEATHER.

Storm Brewing in Texas Causes Forecaster Much Uneasiness—To Be Fine Today, However.

The weather for Easter is likely to be bad, says the weather man. A prediction cannot be made with certainty, he says, as it all depends on a storm now in progress in Texas. This storm is regarded with apprehension. The weather man is watching it closely. Should it grow and start northward, as it seems to show indications of doing, Chicago will have a stormy, cold, and otherwise unpleasant day tomorrow. The weather today will be clear and warmer, with northwesterly winds.

MONTAGU WHITE IN CHICAGO.

Unofficial Representative of the Boers to Speak at Holland Society Banquet on Monday.

Montagu White, unofficial representative at Washington of the south African republics, came to Chicago last night and on Monday evening will speak at the banquet of the Holland Society of Chicago. Mr. White, who is at the Auditorium Hotel, said that he came to Chicago ahead of time to meet people representing the pro-Boer sentiment here and to study the public feeling regarding the conflict.

"I am convinced," said Mr. White, "that a rapid crystallization of sentiment favorable to the Boers is taking place throughout the United States. From the beginning of the war I believe the preponderance of sentiment in this country has been on the side of the struggling republics, and the splendid work of the Boer soldiers has strengthened this feeling. I think the statements made recently by Webster Davis are having a profound effect in America.

"Whether Mr. Fischer, Mr. Wolmerans, and Mr. Wessels, the envoys sent to Europe by the Boer republics, will come later to America is a matter of doubt. I am convinced that popular sentiment in all the countries of Europe is favorable to the Boers, but thus far none of the rulers has taken action in accordance with this sentiment, and they may not do so in the future.

"Have I lost heart as to the prospects for Boer victory over the British? Not in the least. On the contrary, I consider the outlook more encouraging now than ever. The magnificent manner in which the Boers have massed their forces since the blow they suffered in the capture of General Cronje promises well. To me it seems apparent that with the added difficulties of winter to face, in a country with which they are unfamiliar and which is admirably suited for its inhabitants to defend, the British will find themselves unable to overcome the opposition of the Boers."

MACDOWELL BREAKS DOWN.

Actor Playing with Blanche Walsh at Sioux City Unable to Go on with His Part.

Sioux City, Ia., April 13.—[Special.]—Melbourne MacDowell, a star with Blanche Walsh in the company under the management of Ben Stern, broke down in the third act of "Fedora" in the Grand Opera-House, this city, this evening. The curtain was rung down and the money was refunded to the audience. The company came here from Omaha and gave a production of "Cleopatra" on Thursday night. In Omaha it was reported that there had been a quarrel between Miss Walsh and Mr. MacDowell. This was strenuously denied on the arrival of the company in Sioux City, and in the performance on Thursday night there was no sign of any trouble.

During the third act of "Fedora" tonight, while Mr. MacDowell was in the midst of his lines, he stopped. The prompter audibly came to the rescue, but MacDowell did not take the cue. He was seen to mumble to himself, and Miss Walsh spoke to him in low tones. MacDowell came down the stage and said "Ladies and gentlemen," but Miss Walsh called him back twice.

The curtain was rung down, it was announced that Mr. MacDowell was indisposed, and the people got their money back at the door. The management says Mr. MacDowell was nervous and physically unable to go on with his part. Further than this no statement was made.

SMOTHERED TO DEATH IN MUD.

Jacob Rehm Slips Down River Bank Near Belmont Avenue and Cannot Extricate Himself.

The body of Jacob Rehm, an ex-policeman, was found yesterday morning in the mud on the river bank at the east end of the Belmont avenue bridge. The place is steep and boggy, and the Coroner's jury, which held an inquest in the afternoon, decided that Rehm had slipped down the embankment and had been unable to climb up. The body lay face downward in the mud and it is thought he had been smothered to death. Rehm was appointed on the police force ten years ago, and until two years ago traveled out of the Rawson Street Station. He was a member of the Policeman's Benevolent association and lived with his family at 590 West North avenue.

CHICAGO A BOOK SCHEME CENTER.

LOCAL OFFICES FOUND.

STORY OF THE ENTERPRISE.

Two modest office rooms, numbered 746 and 747, in the Marquette Building, are the distributing center of one of the most peculiar bookselling enterprises ever undertaken in the United States. The fortunate promoters of the undertaking claim the semi-official patronage of the federal government, and since one of the firm is a genius as a book agent, one a Representative in Congress, and the third a well-known Washington official, the plan sails gayly on the high seas of success. In the selling of the books buyers are given to understand the government is in the copartnership, when, as a matter of fact, it has developed into a purely private scheme. One Representative in Congress has called the imposition "fraudulent."

The publication thus nourished and pushed before the attention of the people is entitled "The Messages and Papers of the Presidents." It is in ten volumes, and is sold at $34, spot cash. It is represented to be a limited edition of 10,000 copies, the plates having been destroyed; and many a book collector and student of American history has been frightened by this last threat into an immediate purchase. Many a person also has wondered how an official document of this sort happens to be on sale like any subscription book. Involved in the answer to this question is the telling of an interesting bit of Congressional finesse.

Personnel of Committee.

On the door of one of the little rooms in the Marquette Building, where this benevolent book plan is working itself out, appears the following legend:

COMMITTEE ON DISTRIBUTION.
J. D. RICHARDSON,
A. R. SPOFFORD,
EDGAR BRIDGER.

The first member of this committee is James Daniel Richardson, member of Congress and leader of the minority in the present House. The second is Ainsworth R. Spofford, Assistant Librarian of Congress. Bridger is understood to be the book agent end of the committee, though the office clerks are reticent as to his identity. From the appearance of the little double office yesterday and from reports received of canvassers' work, a rushing business marks the committee's work here. Incidentally it is remarked by book agents in general that Chicago is one of the "easiest" cities in the country, and the fraternity in general has not the protecting patronage of Uncle Sam in "distribution."

"The Messages and Papers of the Presidents" is a public document, and contains the letters, papers, and messages of the Presidents of the United States from 1789 to 1897. It was compiled by James Daniel Richardson, aforementioned member of the "Committee on Distribution." He is from Tennessee and has served for years on the House Committee on Printing. The work is authoritative, and was issued originally from the government printing house by a recommendation reported to the House on June 11, 1894.

Genesis of the Book Enterprise.

When first published it was intended that the copies were all to be distributed to the Senators and Representatives. In June, 1897, duplicate electrotype plates from which the compilation had been printed were delivered to Mr. Richardson by act of Congress, and some time ago the following page advertisement began to appear in all the leading magazines:

Ten magnificent volumes of messages and papers of the Presidents, edited by the Hon. James D. Richardson, under the direction of Congress, authorized by the government, prepared under its supervision, indorsed by the government.

If a private publisher were to undertake to publish this work it would cost not less than $1,000,000. Many of the messages were written under the stimulus of strong public excitement, and are as interesting as works of fiction.

The Committee on Distribution has undertaken to distribute the work at a trifle over the cost of manufacture and distribution.

The Hon. Ainsworth R. Spofford of the Congressional Library has accepted the position of General Secretary of the committee appointed to distribute the work.

Methods in Chicago.

The work of the "Committee on Distribution" in Chicago has been of a character to lead people to believe that the government was putting out the work, and but a limited edition was in existence, and that the plates had been destroyed, thus practically making copies of the work invaluable. Chicagoans to whom the work had been offered have been selected carefully and have been approached in a roundabout way, calculated to effect a sale in every instance.

President McKinley has been named freely by the canvassers as having one of the works; likewise the names of many well-known Chicago citizens have been used. Headquarters of the publication are alleged to be in Washington, and no Chicago address is mentioned by the canvassers whether or not a sale of the work is effected. The canvassers represent themselves as working on a salary paid from Washington.

Previous to the appearance of the canvassers the selected purchaser has received a letter from Washington notifying him of the impending call. The letter is an imposing looking document, printed on superfine paper, and has the appearance of being a public document. It is printed in close imitation of a Congressional letterhead.

Specimen of the Letters.

COMMITTEE ON DISTRIBUTION.
Messages and Papers of the Presidents.
Hon. James D. Richardson, Tenn., Editor,
Washington, D. C.
March 29th, 1900.

Dr. E. D. Smith,
304 E. Division St.,
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir: I am directed to inform you that your name has been selected by this committee, and

Mr. W. H. Short, a member, has been assigned to call on you and state the details of filing application by which you may secure a set of the most practical of all government documents. Congress authorized a distribution of only a limited number in each Congressional district. The subedition now offered is published under the authority of the editor, Congress having voted him a duplicate set of plates for that purpose by act of June 4, 1897.

Knowing that you will appreciate this opportunity, I beg to remain, dear sir, yours faithfully,

G. N. SORTER,
Secretary.

The letter, though stating that Congress has authorized the distribution of only a limited number of copies of the work in each Congressional district, fails to make plain what is meant by the term "limited." It is understood that the limit is the number of persons who can be induced to pay $34 a set for the work.

Work on Peculiar Lines.

The work of the Committee on Distribution has followed peculiar lines in this city. Its offices in the Marquette Building are not mentioned on any of the advertising and sample pamphlets exhibited by the canvassers, and the fact that offices exist in the city seemingly has been kept from general knowledge. At the offices yesterday it was denied that copies of the work were in the offices and the desire seemed to be to conceal information relative to the enterprise. When a caller asked for information and pamphlets illustrative of the work he met with the following cordial reception from the clerk behind the counter:

"What pamphlets do you want?"

"Those illustrating the work you are publishing."

"What work?"

"O—well, we haven't got anything of the kind."

"But they have been shown to people about the city."

"How do you know?"

"I've seen them?"

"Well, we haven't anything to do with that. If you want pamphlets you'll have to give us your name and have it sent to Washington. We don't sell the work to every one."

How a Canvasser Works.

Following the letter from Washington quoted in the foregoing, a canvasser for the publication, representing himself to be W. H. Short, called on Dr. Smith, at 304 East Division street. The physician's name, he said, had been presented to and approved by the Committee on Distribution in Washington. He did not know the name of the person who so kindly had presented the doctor's name. Only 10,000 copies of the work had been printed, he said, and subscribers to it could be assured of the fact, as the plates had been destroyed. It was an author's edition, allowed by Congress to recompense the compiler for the immense labor he had put on the work. The price was $34 cash. The time was limited. Another call could not possibly be made.

The doctor asked if the book could be examined before the purchase price was paid. The agent said it would be delivered immediately for examination. Before the sale was consummated, however, the doctor's name would have to be sent back to Washington and approved, whereupon full title to the work would be passed to him. Arrangement finally was made for the work to be delivered on April 17. A receipt was left for money paid, which reads: "Accepted for the Treasurer. William H. Short, Subcommittee No. 4."

R. J. Bodmer, Washington, is named as the Treasurer. The canvasser left no Chicago address, and took with him all the prospectuses, sample books, and illustrative pamphlets that he had shown in effecting the sale of the work. The agent proved that copies of the work are in the Chicago offices when he offered to deliver the work on the same day he made the sale.

History of the Enterprise.

The history of the gigantic enterprise is interesting, as are the particulars of the somewhat vague if imposing concern heralded as the "Committee on Distribution." At the Washington end of the concern appears to be James S. Barcus, who has achieved a reputation for energy as a book agent and organizer of successful schemes. It is stated of Mr. Barcus that when he once starts in to sell a book he sells it unless his victim dies or flees.

On June 11, 1894, James D. Richardson, M. C., then chairman of the Committee on Printing, introduced a recommendation into the House for the publication by the government printing office of the messages of all the Presidents, together with their inaugural addresses and proclamations. The Senate concurred in the idea and 6,000 copies were authorized. Mr. Richardson completed the work, and in May, 1898, a resolution passed the House and Senate authorizing the printing of 15,000 additional copies of "Messages and Papers."

The resolution provided that the "fractions" of the edition—the sets left over after equal distribution to Senators and Representatives—were to be delivered to the compiler. The possible size of the "fractions" was made the subject of discussion. It was guessed by Mr. Connolly of Illinois at about 500 sets. Mr. Richardson stated that he had not given the matter much consideration, and that he had "given away some sets to literary men throughout the United States, but had not yet sold a copy, and didn't know that he ever should."

Later Congressman Richardson seems to have changed his mind, and to have determined on affording the work as wide a dissemination as possible. It was not to be distributed gratuitously, however, as became apparent. The Committee on Printing has squelched all later efforts to have further copies printed for the benefit of the House.

Gets Duplicate Plates.

In June, 1897, however, Mr. Richardson was given duplicate plates of the work by the following resolution:

"The Public Printer is hereby authorized to make and deliver to James D. Richardson, the compiler of 'Messages and Papers of the Presidents,' without cost to him, duplicate electrotype plates from which the work is published."

Answering a question then put by a Representative as to whether he would be entitled to copyright an edition published from these plates, Mr. Richardson said:

"No, no, not at all. You cannot copyright a government publication. The law is explicit on the subject."

Copyright, 1897, by James D. Richardson.

The magazine advertisements of the work mentioned in a previous column evidently are worded to convey the idea that the "Committee on Distribution" is a government body, somehow affiliated with the Houses of Congress, and the letterheads in use further that intention. Many persons naturally would think it was a regular committee of the House.

Explanatory of the Scheme.

Following the late war with Spain publishing houses of the East got out extensive works, which were sold throughout the United States by subscription. The names of subscribers to these costly and large editions were collected and collated into lists by New York concerns that do an extensive business in names. Regarding these lists of names a Postoffice authority said yesterday:

"People with a scheme or who have some article or book to sell will pay double for a list if the names are of those who have been approached by some other person or firm and have bought. Lists of names of people not known actually to have corresponded with firms having schemes to work or books to sell are not nearly so valuable, the theory being, 'a sucker once, a sucker all the time.'"

Investigation discloses the fact that most of the people approached by the Committee on Distribution are those who were purchasers of the aforementioned works of the war. The fact is significant when paralleled with the existence of the shadowy "personage of prominence" who is busy night and day presenting in Washington the names of those individuals throughout the lands who are sitting up nights awaiting the arrival of the representative of the great and limited edition of the "Messages and Papers of the Presidents."

In referring, a few weeks ago, to the work of the Committee on Distribution, Congressman Eddy and Congressman Tawney rose in the House and used strong words of condemnation. The word used by one was "fraudulent." Mr. Richardson was present when it was uttered. He disclaimed connection with the sale of the work beyond a "small royalty" the publishers paid him. James S. Barcus is the reputed publisher.

MAFEKING'S ONE HOPE OF RELIEF.

Roberts Will Send No Help and Carrington's Troops Are on the Way.

MAY HAVE TO SURRENDER

Situation at Bloemfontein Described as Being Satisfactory.

BOER PLANS SEEM TO FAIL.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE BY ARTHUR L. CLARKE.]

LONDON, April 14, 3 a. m.—Mafeking, hard pressed on every side by the Boers, and almost at the point of starvation, has now left but one hope of relief. This is through General Carrington's somewhat mysterious movement from the north.

Private telegrams from Bloemfontein received in London yesterday state that Lord Roberts has determined to send no further troops from the south to the succor of Baden-Powell's heroic garrison. Lord Methuen's force will probably be either recalled to Bloemfontein to take part in Lord Roberts' general movement towards Pretoria or will be directed to keep the Boers in check near Kroonstad until the general move begins.

Not Worth the Effort.

Lord Roberts, it is argued by war experts in London, has come to the conclusion that Mafeking is not worth the effort necessary to save it. He would have to send 5,000 men at least to accomplish the task, and even then might fail.

General Carrington's column consists of 5,000 hardy bushmen. A month ago this force was at Beira. From Beira to Umtali is about two days' journey by rail. From Umtali to Fort Tuli it is 250 miles' march over an accessible country. From Fort Tuli to Mafeking the distance is barely 150 miles, with a railroad most of the way.

Practically nothing has been heard of Carrington's army for nearly a month, but the supposition is that it is moving towards Mafeking and will swoop down upon the investing Boers any day.

Still, nothing is certain about it, and many things would surprise London more than the fall of Mafeking, this notwithstanding the undoubted confidence in Baden-Powell.

Bloemfontein in No Danger.

The report wired to Bloemfontein yesterday that London is feeling uneasy about its safety seems to have stirred up the Free State capital considerably. Regarding the situation there Julian Ralph sends to the Daily Mail this significant message:

"A dispatch to today's Friend says there is uneasiness at home owing to the absence of news from Bloemfontein. Bless all your dear hearts. We are as safe as you. The Boers are just where we want them and are having their little triumph, to which they are welcome, as you will presently say yourselves. When you are praying for us pray most for horses, which after all are coming in very fast.

"In a word, we are all right. Bloemfontein, always the capital, but always a village, now has a normal population of about 4,000 swollen by the influx of troops. In consequence the pavements are crowded. The streets roar with the army wagons.

Shops Are Denuded.

"The shops are denuded of everything, even food is scarce, because the farm wagons are employed by the suburban camps. The circulation of the daily paper was 400 last month, but is 7,000 today. The hotels are packed and the club walled in by horses. Even the hallways are blocked by officers representing all the regular regiments and every colony.

"An immense trade is done in drinks, but as yet these refreshments are confined to gin, vermouth, and port wine. Not a drop of whisky is to be had, owing to the military monopoly of the railway.

"Winter is peceptibly hastening its advent, and there is an immense demand for woolen khaki, but the tailors have sold out everything except green cloth, like the uniform of the foresters of Germany. This cloth is becoming popular because nothing else is obtainable.

"An orchestral concert is given on the market square at supper time, and thereafter the town is dead as a door nail, only the few people with military passes being allowed in the streets in order to prevent communication with the Boers outside."

Boer Advance Checked.

Lord Roberts wired yesterday that the Boer advance southward had been checked, this through the gallant defense of Wepener and the arrival of British troops at Dewetsdorp and Reddersburg. Some of the London military experts maintain that the Boers under Commandant Olivier are now sewed up so that their only escape will be through Basutoland. It is expected that Wepener will be relieved within twenty-four hours.

Buller Holds His Own.

The absence of important news from Natal is construed in London to indicate that General Buller is holding his own. The repulse of the recent attempts to outflank his right flank have probably suggested to the Boers that for the moment theirs must be a waiting game. General Buller's evident policy is not to attempt to force the advance, which could only be done at great cost of life. His moment for striking a blow will be when Lord Roberts by movements in the Orange Free State compels the retreat of the Boers now intrenched in the high ground north of the Sunday River.

Methuen's Men Are Busy.

Lord Methuen is sending out flying columns, patrolling and clearing the country between Zwartkopfontein and the valley of the Modder River, while Zwartkopfontein and Boshop are strongly held. Colonel Kekewich is commanding the garrison at Boshop.

Boers Adopt New Tactics.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, April 14.—The Bloemfontein correspondent of the Morning Post, telegraphing on Thursday, says:

"The enemy has evidently determined to adopt entirely new tactics. Two columns are known to be moving to the south of Bloemfontein. They are relying on Cape carts for transport and are carrying scarcely any forage and only sufficient food to meet the immediate requirements of the convoy, with ox transports following at a secure distance. The Boer columns are thus enabled to move almost as quickly as cavalry.

"It is reported that there are 9,000 Boers to the south of Dewetsdorp. The force extends from that point to Odendahl. The burghers who had returned to their farms are undoubtedly rejoining the enemy.

"Lord Roberts has appointed the Duke of Marlborough to be assistant military secretary at headquarters."

Troops Marching Forward.

The Bloemfontein correspondent of the Daily Telegraph in a dispatch dated Friday, describing Lord Roberts and the troops attending Good Friday services, says:

"But the troops are marching forward as well as to services."

Word from Lord Roberts.

The War office has received the following dispatch from General Roberts, dated at Bloemfontein, April 13, 1:30 p. m.:

"The enemy's movements south have been checked. Wepener is still surrounded, but the little garrison is holding out well. Troops are being moved to their assistance. The health of the troops is good and the climate perfection."

Boers May Be in Retreat.

Accounts received at Bloemfontein of the fighting of the troops under Colonel Dalgety at Wepener show the Boers attacked them vigorously, but were repulsed with great loss. The Boers subsequently relinquished the attack, and it is said here they are returning northwards.

A dispatch dated at Reddersburg says: "The Third Division, commanded by Major General Chermside, has arrived here from Bethany without any incident worth recording. The Boers have been located south of the Wepener and Smithfield districts. Exciting developments are probable in the near future. The censorship is particularly strict."

Estimate of Boer Losses.

The Daily Mail publishes the following dispatch, dated Friday, April 13, from Lourenzo Marquez:

"The actual Boer losses to the end of March, including prisoners, are estimated at 12,000. At present there are several thousand Boers in Natal and 35,000 in the Free State."

Railway Strongly Held.

Lord Roberts' preparations for the advance are retarded by the scarcity of rolling stock, but the whole length of the railway is strongly held and the Boers have not yet made any attempt on the British communications.

Mr. Winston Churchill has arrived at Bloemfontein.

Kimberley Fears a Siege.

A dispatch from Kimberley says: "The town guard has been remobilized and guns have been remounted at the forts, owing to the fears of the populace that the Boers will again attempt a siege. A battalion of the Scottish Rifles has arrived and the redoubts around the town are manned with regular troops. The military authorities, however, regard these fears as groundless."

Boers Change Tactics.

The Daily Telegraph has the following from Elandslaagte, dated April 13:

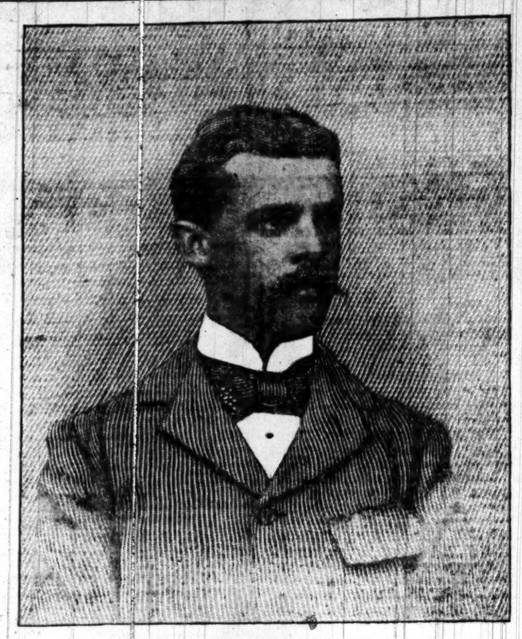

"The Boers are changing their tactics and are moving from Glencoe westward, with a view of threatening our lines of communication to Ladysmith.

"On Tuesday a corps of carbineers and another of Thornycroft's horse narrowly escaped being cut off, owing to the treachery of a Kaffir and a native guide."

Wins the Victoria Cross.

Chicago, April 12.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I notice in this morning's issue a Kenosha special in regard to the awarding of the V. C. to a Kenosha man. The name should be Charles B. Spruce, who is a graduate chemist of Yale. He was connected with the Illinois Steel company in that capacity for about two years, and has been in the employ of the S. A. Goldfields company for about six years. When the war broke out he enlisted in A Squadron, Imperial Light Horse, which is mostly composed of residents of Johannesburg, under the command of Captain Dutton, a mining expert and an old resident of the Rand. C. J. SPRUCE.

"JACK" SPRUCE, WHO WON THE VICTORIA CROSS.

Charles B. Spruce of Kenosha has won the Victoria Cross for bravery in the Boer war, for valor displayed while fighting in the British army at Ladysmith. Mr. Spruce is a graduate chemist from Yale, and after being connected with the Illinois Steel company in that capacity for two years went to the Transvaal, where he was in the employ of the South African Goldfields company. At the outbreak of the present war he enlisted in Squadron A, Imperial Light Horse, which is mostly made up of residents of Johannesburg.

SUCCESS OF CUBAN SCHOOLS.

Superintendent Frye and President Eliot of Harvard Talk at Boston.

Boston, Mass., April 13.—The cause of the Cuban public schools was succinctly presented tonight at a mass-meeting in Huntington Hall, Institute of Technology, addressed by Alexis E. Frye, superintendent of schools in Cuba, and President Charles Eliot of Harvard University. In creating the school system, said Mr. Frye, the Cubans were trusted. They rose to the occasion and organized their own school system in a most thorough and most surprising manner.

President Eliot's address was an indorsement of Mr. Frye's project to bring Cuban teachers to this country. He said:

"Though the project of bringing the teachers here involves at least $70,000 in money, the Cubans are to see American civilization on its best side and are to be taught in ways that they have never yet seen our manners and customs when at work and at ease. They are to see what has come out of eight generations' cultivation of a barren soil. We expect them to get their best lessons through their eyes.

"I believe that the surest way of lifting the character and advancing the interest of any people is working through their children. In what better way can we plant in that island the elements of freedom than this? Why did thousands of our young men die if not to aid in furthering the cause of freedom in Cuba? You have the opportunity. What will you do with it?"

PASSENGERS ARE GRATEFUL.

Clark Tourists Say They Are Glad They Escaped Smallpox Quarantine in Italy.

Boston, Mass., April 13.—[Special.]—The Clark tourists, who were brought from Liverpool to Portland, Me., on the steamship Cambronian, instead of finding fault with Mr. Clark and the Captain of the steamship New England, are grateful to both for getting them away from Rome and Naples before they were quarantined on account of smallpox having broken out in the New England. A few hours' delay would have meant forty days in quarantine in Italy. Those who came from Liverpool were: August Nordstrum, Rockford, Ill.; Miss Josephine Nordstrum, Chicago; Miss Pearl A. Bitter, Rockford, Ill.; and George B. Penny, Lawrence, Kas.

FINDS CANNON'S WEDDING RING

Boy in Tuscola, Ill., Digs Circlet Lost for Thirty Years Out of Dust Heap.

Tuscola, Ill., April 13.—[Special.]—The wedding ring which Congressman J. G. Cannon gave to his bride in 1862 was found by a small boy who was digging in a dust heap in this city. The ring, a plain gold band, had been lost for thirty years. It was thrown out of the ground by some workmen who were digging a ditch in the rear of the First National Bank. It bears this inscription: "J. G. C. to Mary, Jan. 6, 1862." W. A. Wallace, President of the bank, bought the ring from the boy for $1, and will send it to Mr. Cannon.

HOOSIER POET IS MUCH BETTER

Health of James Whitcomb Riley, Who Has Had Grip, Greatly Improved.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 13.—[Special.]—The condition of James Whitcomb Riley, who has been suffering for some time with a complication of grip and throat trouble, is much improved. He is still confined to his home, but will leave in a few days for one of the nearby health resorts, probably West Baden or French Lick.

WILLS OF ARCHBISHOP FILED.

Later Testaments of Deceased Prelate of Dubuque Produced in Michael Hennessey's Suit.

Dubuque, Ia., April 13.—[Special.]—The two wills executed by Archbishop Hennessey the day following the making of the one admitted to probate and which the Archbishop's brother, Michael Hennessey, now seeks to set aside were today filed in the district court. One of them is an exact copy of the one probated disposing of the church property and his personal estate. The other one disposes of the estate of his deceased brother, David Hennessey, who was wealthy. Three-fourths of the brother's estate is to be divided among his brothers Philip Hennessey, Baline, Ireland, and Michael Hennessey, Dubuque; and his nieces, Margaret and Katherine Sheehy, Dubuque. The remaining fourth he leaves to other relatives.

LONDON TIMES' NEWS AND VIEWS

Editorial Leader Rebukes Boer Sympathizers in the United States.

BOERS HELD IN CHECK.

Heavy Fighting at Wepener and British Are Confident of Outcome.

ACTIVITY NEAR LADYSMITH.

The Times.
LONDON.

SATURDAY (4 A. M.), APRIL 14.

[By cable to THE TRIBUNE.]

The Times this morning in its editorial leader says:

"Our well wishers in the United States who are evidently nervous at the possible effects of the check of our advance in south Africa on the opinion of the electorate and consequently on the politicians, need not, we trust, make themselves uncomfortable. We are told that for the week after General Cronje's defeat, there was no Boer party in America and there will be no Boer party again if Lord Roberts should win a decisive victory before the Republican National convention in June.

"We cannot, of course, promise to oblige our friends by simplifying their politics for them by that date, but we will do our best to accommodate them. Though some of the Americans seem to indulge their sporting instincts by sympathizing with the weaker side in this fashion, we did not do the same during the contest with Spain and with the Philippine insurgents.

"Lord Roberts in his brief dispatch of yesterday's date states that the Boer movement in the south is checked and that troops are on the way to relieve Dalgetti's little garrison at Wepener, which is holding out well, though still surrounded by the enemy.

"The health of the army at Bloemfontein is good and Lord Roberts finds the climate to be perfect. When an Englishmen, and, still more, when an Irishman, is enjoying the weather it is tolerably certain that things are going well with him.

Heavy Fighting at Wepener.

JAMMERSBERG (Friday)—The colonial force under Colonel Dalgetty has been surrounded at Wepener by some thousands of Boers with eight guns, and two Maxims since Monday morning. They gallantly withstood a heavy attack on Monday and again at night. The attacks on Tuesday and Thursday were marked by continous shell and rifle fire. We are confident we will be able to repulse any further attack. Food is plentiful and the casualties, the circumstances considered, are small. The brunt of the fighting and also the bulk of the loss has been borne by the gallant Cape Mounted Riflemen.

Flying Column Routs Boers.

BOSHOF (Wednesday)—The flying column under Brigadier General Douglas left Lord Methuen's camp at Zwartkopfontein at daylight this morning and encountered the Boers ten miles east on some ridges adjoining our intended bivouac. The enemy retreated at once, their flank being turned, with one man slightly wounded in our force.

Boers Active Near Ladysmith.

LADYSMITH (Friday)—Two sergeants of Thornycroft's mounted infantry climbed Jonono's Kop yesterday and saw below them to the northward a commando of the enemy. The Boers are reported to be mounting guns between Jonono's Kop and Tinta Inyoni.

Our patrols exchanged shots with the Boers between Elandslaagte and Lombard's Kop this morning.

The loss of the whole Natal mail on the steamer Mexican is not the least of the hardships suffered by the Natal field force. This vessel carried all the answers to the first English mail received since the relief of Ladysmith. General Buller lost fifty letters replying to those he had received by that mail.

Confident at Bloemfontein.

BLOEMFONTEIN (Friday)—The statement in a telegram from London that considerable anxiety is felt regarding the situation at Bloemfontein caused surprise here. We have a slight pressure on our flank, but nothing is taking place except humdrum incidents, while the army is recouping and the force is daily growing, as troops, batteries, supplies, and remounts push up, some by road and some by rail.

Owing to the enterprise of the enemy the necessity has arisen for the movement of the southeastern division and for strategic reasons the troop trains have monopolized the railway for a short period, but the fact that detached bodies of the enemy are raiding is only what was anticipated would follow when our main advance was halted.

We in Bloemfontein are full of great admiration for the calm front with which headquarters received these incidents. Half of the enemy's object has failed in that Lord Roberts refused to be drawn into complications in this vicinity, but fostered the enemy's enterprise by making dispositions to checkmate it, almost without Bloemfontein being aware that movements of troops had taken place.

The Wepener garrison is doing extremely well. The British captured a Boer gun in a sortie. The Boers are reported to be disheartened.

Shah Traveling Incognito.

Cause of Plague Riots.

SIMLA (Friday)—The plague riots at Cawnpore are believed to be due to the action of unprincipled natives in impersonating doctors and sanitary inspectors, blackmailing rich and poor alike. Their procedure is to visit the sick and threaten to have them removed to an unknown place, where the government would do away with them. This caused a panic at first and then excitement, culminating in an attack on the segregation camp. The Lieutenant Governor was proceeding to Cawnpore before the riots occurred, owing to the report of threatened disturbances. His presence likely will have a good effect.

Russia Ready to Move Troops.

ODESSA (Wednesday)—During the last few weeks special surveys have been made by Russian military experts of all railroads throughout south Russia and those of the Caucasus.

The rolling stock has been thoroughly overhauled and every preparation made for transporting, if necessary, large bodies of men, horses, and provisions.

Whether this extraordinary activity is the consequence of the coming great Russian military maneuvers in the autumn or of the delicate relations now existing between Russia and Japan, or is due to the attitude of the military party in regard to the Transvaal, is a question difficult to answer.

GIVES RUSSIA A HINT.

VICEROY CURZON SPEAKS PLAIN WORDS AT QUETTA.

Chief Ruler of India, Speaking of the Future of Baluchistan, Declares That Neither the Fiscal Policy of Afghanistan Nor the Political Antagonism of Russia Will Be Permitted to Neutralize the Natural Progress of the Country.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE BY ARTHUR L. CLARKE.]

LONDON, April 14, 3 a. m.—A Daily Mail dispatch from Simla says:

"In the general opinion here Viceroy Curzon struck the right note in his reply to the Quetta Municipality when he said India had not the slightest idea of allowing any natural advantage that may accrue to Baluchistan to be neutralized or stifled by fiscal policy or by political antagonism of independent parties.

"This was a double hit at the trade restrictions imposed by the Ameer of Afghanistan and at the policy of Russia in central Asia.

"Baluchistan holds an undoubtedly strong geographical position, and the Indian government intends to make the most of it.

"The Viceroy also made the important announcement that the telegraph line to Muskhi will be completed by the end of the present month."

Ilg Coming to London.

Councilor Ilg, Emperor Menelek's chief adviser, is soon to come to London to confer with Chamberlain. It is understood that the British government has offered Emperor Menelek certain territorial concessions in return for permission for the Cape to Cairo railway to run through Abyssinia. England has also asked possession of certain land. Ilg, so it is believed in London, is greatly interested in the railway scheme, and so also is Menelek. Both are anxious to have the railroad cross Abyssinia, and they are prepared to make great concessions in order to bring the project to a successful issue.

Lytton Son Is Born.

The news that a son has been born to the Hon. Mrs. Neville Lytton has been received with great rejoicing by the family and friends. He is not only the descendant on one side of Lord Byron, the poet, and on the other of Sir Bulwer Lytton, the novelist and historian, but he is the first boy to appear in the family for some time. It is a curious fact that the descendants of Lord Byron are nearly all women. The poet left an only daughter, who married Lord Lovelace. She left one son, the present Lord Lovelace, and one daughter, Lady Anne Blunt. Both of these are represented by daughters only. Neville Lytton, father of the new baby, is only 21 years old.

GREAT FIND IN EGYPT.

GATES TO THE CITY OF KARNAK UNCOVERED BY EXPLORERS.

One of the Most Valuable Recent Discoveries in the Land of the Pharaohs Excites the Egyptologists of London—Notable Tombs Opened by Mere Accident—Great Diamond Discovery in British Guiana Vindicates the Zeal of Sir Walter Raleigh.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE BY ARTHUR L. CLARKE.]

LONDON, April 14, 3 a. m.—Egyptologists are rejoicing over several new discoveries just reported from Cairo. In addition to the finding of the mummy of King Menepolis, the Pharaoh of the exodus, Professor Leguani, while excavating at Karnak, came upon the city gate, the first yet found in Egypt.

According to Professor Sayce, who reports the find, "the gateway is of great height, made of large blocks of squared limestone, and is double, having one gate within another. Two chariots could easily have passed through it abreast. It was erected by Amenhotep II. of the eighteenth dynasty."

The find dates only two or three days back and Egyptologists are greatly excited over its importance.

Another Valuable Find.

An exploration party has been restoring the temple of Der El Baharl at Thebes, and one day while Mr. Carter, the inspector of antiquities for Upper Egypt, was riding up to the door of the house occupied by the excavators, noticed that his horse's hoofs sank in a hole in the ground. Further investigation brought to light under the house the entrance to a large tomb of the eleventh dynasty in a perfect state of preservation.

Diamonds in British Guiana.

Real diamonds have been found along the Maserana River in British Guiana, and that colony is anticipating a great boom as soon as the facts are known. The gems are of the Demerara variety, and are regarded as valuable. It was near the scene of the present find that Sir Walter Raleigh unsuccessfully tried to find the Eldorado along the Orinoco more than 400 years ago.

The successful explorer is Edward Gilkes, a native of British Guiana. He has found so far nearly 300 stones, all lying on the surface. The stones have been tested at the Museum of Practical Geology in London and pronounced genuine. A few have been cut and sold at good prices.

Hooley Not a Candidate.

Ernest Terah Hooley, who had been selected as Conservative candidate for Parliament in the height of his fame, has written a letter of withdrawal.

DREIBUND IS IN DANGER.

ITALY'S GROWING DISCONTENT CAUSES ALARM IN BERLIN.

Present Agreement Between the Three Powers Gives Italy No Economic Advantages and the Demands of the German Agrarian Injure the Kingdom More than Any Other Power in Europe—Protest from the Roman Press.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE BY D. B. MACGOWAN.]

BERLIN, April 13.—Political circles here are becoming alarmed over Italy's discontent because the dreibund affords no economic advantages, and over German agrarianism, which threatens Italy more than almost any other country. It is believed that Italy's position in the dreibund is one of the principal subjects to be discussed during Emperor Franz Josef's visit.

Comment of Roman Press.

The Roman Tribuna says:

"God protect Italy from her friends; from her friends who threaten her existence and would condemn her to economic and political impotency."

Seemingly in reply to this, the Tageblatt asserts that Italy without the protection which the dreibund affords never would have attained the powerful attitude in the Mediterranean which she has and never would have weathered such crises as the Adowah defeat and the Milan revolt without injury.

Kaiser and Czar's Plans.

As the Emperor's traveling plans are never given out long ahead, the semi-official declaration that nothing is known officially of his reported meeting with the Czar at Dantzig proves nothing. Moreover, the Czar has a habit of upsetting such calculations at the last moment, as was shown last year, when the Emperor was kept in suspense several weeks before it was positively known that the Czar was coming. The regiment of which the Czar is honorary Colonel was hurriedly recalled from the maneuvers to receive the Czar, but received a telegraphic order en route to return.

Bubonic Plague on Board.

A dispatch from Madrid says:

"The steamship Montevideo has arrived at Barcelona from Manila. The Captain reports that three men died during the voyage of bubonic plague. The other passengers suffering from the disease have been sent to the Mahon quarantine station."

Means Many Royal Visits.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BERLIN, April 13.—Several of the leading papers of this city today published special dispatches from Vienna saying that the visit which the Emperor of Austria is shortly to make here will be reciprocated by a joint visit of Emperor William, the King of Saxony, the King of Bavaria, and a number of other German rulers to Vienna.

TELLS OF MENELEK'S AIM

RUSSIAN ENVOY COMPLETES HIS WORK IN ABYSSINIA.

M. Vlassow, After Several Years' Residence at Adowa, on His Way Home to St. Petersburg—Declares That the Popular Idea That the Negus Is Seeking War Is Erroneous and That He Only Seeks the Development of His Kingdom.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE BY W. L. HUBBARD.]

VIENNA, April 13.—M. Vlassow, former General Consul to Persia, but for a number of years the special Russian representative at the court of Emperor Menelek, has finished, according to information from St. Petersburg, his mission in Abyssinia and is now on his way home. His mission was the "strengthening of those bonds of sympathy between the two countries which their similarity of religious belief gives."

Russia, it is said, will not establish a permanent consulate in Abyssinia at present, although she has sent a number of officers from the Russian army there with orders to be of assistance in the organization of Menelek's military forces wherever possible.

The various rumors of Emperor Menelek's desire for war are not credited in St. Petersburg. His entire energies are declared to be devoted to the development of the resources of his kingdom and maintaining peaceful relations with those of his neighbors who can assure him safe export for the products of his land and increased commerce with Europe.

French Designs on Syria.

That France is exerting pressure on Turkey to obtain concession for railroads in Syria has been announced in these cables. It is reported tonight from Constantinople diplomatic circles that France has already asserted herself and that the Sultan will have, therefore, to be prepared to resist, not only Paris but St. Petersburg.

The appearance of France in the scramble for railway concessions in Asia Minor adds materially to the complications of the situation, as it was generally understood that Germany and Russia had reached an agreement satisfactory to the Porte.

Will Accompany the Emperor.

It is announced tonight that Archduke Franz Ferdinand, presumptive heir to the Austro-Hungarian throne, will accompany Emperor Franz Josef to Berlin on May 4 to participate in the celebration on the day that the Crown Prince of Germany becomes of age.

Death of Ludwig Seidel.

Ludwig Seidel, court bookseller, and one of the best known publishers in Austria, died suddenly this morning. His specialty was military publications, and his shop on the Graben was one of the landmarks of Vienna.

BOER ENVOYS AT WORK.

FIRST FORMAL SESSION OF PEACE MISSION AT MILAN.

Dr. Leyds Joins the Commission and a Conference, Attended by the German and Holland Consuls, Continues All Day and Far into the Night—Sealed Instructions Opened for the First Time, but Their Contents Not Made Public.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE BY OSCAR DURANTE.]

ROME, April 13.—Dispatches from Milan give full details of all the movements of the Boer peace commission today. The commission occupies the apartments at the Milan hotel always reserved for the exclusive use of Verdi, the composer.

Dr. Leyds arrived from Brussels early this morning, and at 10 o'clock the first formal meeting of the peace commission took place. There were present, besides Dr. Leyds and the peace envoys, H. J. Van der Schalk, Holland's Consul at Milan, and German Consul de Herff.

Open Sealed Instructions.

The Boer envoys then opened, for the first time, the sealed instructions prepared for them by the Transvaal and Orange Free State Republic. The nature of these instructions, of course, are not public.

The session continued all day, with a brief intermission for luncheon at noon. In the evening dinner was served in the conference-room, and up to a late hour tonight the last word from Milan was that the discussion was still in progress.

Pope Leo has sent to the young King of Spain his miniature and an autograph letter.

INFLUENCE OF AMERICAN PRESS

Frankfort Zeitung Shows How McKinley's Foreign Policy Has Been Modified.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE BY RICHARD LACHMANN.]

"President McKinley's foreign policy has during the last year been the object of many attacks, which have mostly come from his own party.

"For example, the canal arrangement was sharply disapproved by papers which usually support the President through thick and thin, as the Sun, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and other influential journals. They succeeded in persuading the Senate Foreign Affairs committee to alter the treaty so that the canal will remain under American control."

PARIS FAIR OPENS TODAY

BUILDINGS NOT NEARLY COMPLETED TO BE DEDICATED.

Elaborate Ceremonies Planned for the Afternoon for the Inauguration of the Exposition, but Fully Six Weeks Will Be Required to Place the Big Palaces and Their Exhibits in Condition for Public Inspection—Paris Filled with Visitors.

the public that the inauguration has been accomplished.

Premier Waldeck-Rousseau will follow the President in a speech and in the name of the government will congratulate France upon the successful achievement of its object after its mighty efforts to produce the exposition.

Crosses to Be Awarded.

At the close of the ceremony the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor will be conferred upon M. Picard, the Commissioner General.

Delauney-Belleville and Bouvard will be made grand officers.

Stephen Derville, Grison, Moisant, Chardon, François Arago, and Charles Girault will be made officers, and Ernest Carnot and fifteen other members of the staff of the exposition will be made Chevaliers of the Legion of Honor.

Tour of Exposition Grounds.

The President will afterwards visit the galleries along the Champ de Mars, and the President and Ministers will then embark in a gala boat at the Jena Bridge and sail down the Seine amid music and salutations, passing the Street of All Nations, where the foreign pavilions are located, will disembark at the Alexander Bridge, dedicate that bridge, and then successively the two art palaces, and return to the Elysée Palace by the new avenue leading from the bridge past the palaces of art.

All the public buildings of France and the colonies will be decorated and illuminated in honor of the opening. The crowds will only be admitted Sunday, when the gates are thrown open to the public.

Elaborate Musical Program.

The musical part of the program of the inauguration is extensive. While the dedication is taking place the "Marseillaise" will be sung and the "March Solenelle," by Massenet, will be played and the hymn sung. After the President's discourse they will sing the hymn to Victor Hugo by Saint-Saëns, and the final selection will be the "Marche Heroique" by Theodore Dubois.

The chorus and orchestra will be under the direction of Taifenel.

Busy Scenes at Night.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, April 13.—The whole exposition space is covered this evening with flickering lights and hordes of workmen are busily engaged in clearing away scaffoldings, packing cases, and debris of every kind, which still litter all the arteries of the exposition.

This work is only to prepare a series of tableaux for the President tomorrow, as he will not enter the exposition buildings proper, but only inspect the edifices from the outside, for the excellent reason that the buildings, where finished, are thus far mere shells, with scarcely any exhibits to be seen anywhere.

After M. Loubet's visit tomorrow these scaffoldings will be rebuilt and the interrupted work of installation will be resumed.

Three Splendid Views.

Despite the incomplete condition of the exposition, President Loubet will be able to enjoy three splendid views. The first is the view down the Champ de Mars from the Trocadero to the Château d'Eau, with artistic palaces on either side, and with the center bestrode by the immense arches of the Eiffel tower. The second is the vista from the Champs Elysées across the new Alexander bridge to the Hotel des Invalides, with the gilded dome of the tomb of Napoleon I. rising up at the farther end, and flanked firstly by an avenue of trees, and then by white façades of handsome edifices, in which will be collected the exhibits classed under the varied industries, these façades being embellished by groups of sculpture and by huge and effective paintings of allegorical subjects.

To Pardon Many Prisoners.

M. Loubet has decided to celebrate the inauguration by pardoning all army and navy prisoners who are undergoing sentences for minor offenses. All sailors and soldiers are to receive a special ration of wine tomorrow.

DEATH OF PROFESSOR WELCH.

Head Master of Lake Forest University Academy Unable to Survive Operation for Appendicitis.

Alfred Gardner Welch, head master of the Lake Forest University Academy, died yesterday morning at the university hospital from the effects of an operation for appendicitis. Funeral services will be held at the university on Monday afternoon and the body taken to Milwaukee, where services will be held at the residence of Mr. Welch's parents, 229 Pleasant street, on Tuesday afternoon. Classes at the university will be suspended on Monday.

Professor Welch was 37 years old. He was graduated at Lake Forest in 1889, and had taught in Upper Alton and Elgin. He left a widow and two young children. Mrs. Welch probably will have charge of the academy temporarily.

During the three years of Professor Welch's administration at the academy the attendance increased from ninety-eight to 136. His death came as a shock to the students and faculty. Professor Welch was in the best of health up to last Monday noon.

STRIKERS ARE IN UGLY MOOD.

Situation at Carmaux, France, Considered Grave—Edmond Rostand's Condition.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE BY GRACE CORNEAU.]

PARIS, April 13.—The strike situation at Carmaux is considered grave. The strikers are in an excited state of mind and seem to be in the last stages of exasperation.

Edmond Rostand is still dangerously ill, and it is doubtful if he will ever recover robust health. In the bulletin tonight the doctors say his condition is stationary.

Leon Gresse, the well-known French basso and a member of the Opéra, died suddenly this morning. He was born in 1845, and during his operatic career had won many decided successes.

QUEEN ATTENDS ROYAL CHAPEL

Hears Primate of Ireland Preach After Taking Usual Drive in Vice Regal Grounds.

DUBLIN, April 14.—The Queen took her favorite morning drive yesterday in the private grounds of the Vice Regal lodge, after which she attended service in the royal chapel, where a large congregation assembled. The Primate of Ireland preached. In the course of the sermon he referred to the Irish soldiers and the Queen. During the afternoon her Majesty took a drive in the country.

LUDLOW PRAISES THE CUBANS.

Retiring Military Governor Says the Natives Are Anxious to Do the Right Thing.

HAVANA, April 13.—General Ludlow, the retiring Military Governor of the Department of Havana, who leaves Cuba tomorrow, said today:

"If I were to remain in Cuba I would devote my time and resources principally to the education of the children and to the regulation of the municipal service, teaching municipal officers to perform their duties with due regard to their public responsibilities.

"The Cubans are desirous of figuring as well ordered and civilized people, and I do not believe they will cause any trouble, as they realize that to do so would be fatal to the hopes of Cuba to become a sovereign and independent state. Possibly, however, there may be some trouble in the Province of Santiago, where the people are wild, turbulent, and somewhat different in racial origin and customs from the rest of the Cubans.

"The Cuban is timid. He does not lack judgment or common sense, but he does lack the moral courage to display these qualities."

THEY WERE MARRIED SECRETLY

Society at La Crosse, Wis., Surprised by Announcement of Wedding of Gen. Bryant and Mrs. Pierce.

La Crosse, Wis., April 13.—[Special.]—It has just come to light that some months ago General Benjamin F. Bryant, former Judge, ex-Department Commander of the G. A. R., and prominent in Episcopal Church, legal, society, and Republican circles, was married to Mrs. Adeline Granke Pierce. The announcement creates a sensation.

General Bryant admits the secret marriage, but declines to state just when or where it took place. General Bryant was a widower and lives in his old home on South Eighth street, in the fashionable part of the city, his establishment being presided over by a housekeeper. There is a difference of many years in the age of the wife and General Bryant.

The present Mrs. Bryant married shortly before his death a wealthy lumberman, the late George H. Pierce. Mr. Pierce died, leaving his entire estate to his young wife. Mr. Pierce's son took the will into the courts and after a long and expensive litigation failed to break it. General Bryant was Pierce's attorney and now, three years later, marries the defendant in the case.

Lieut. A. W. Hathaway to Marry.

Lieutenant Amos W. Hathaway of the Town Hall Police Station will marry Mrs. Louise Peterson, 837 Seminary avenue, today. Lieutenant Hathaway has been a member of the police force for over twenty-five years. He has been stationed at the Town Hall Station for over two years. The marriage is a surprise to Lieutenant Hathaway's friends.

Peter Reynolds Killed by a Train.

Peter Reynolds, a boy, was killed at 10 o'clock in the morning at Kedzie avenue and the Chicago and Alton tracks by a west-bound freight train. He was playing about the tracks when the accident occurred. He lived at 2152 Thirty-eighth place.

DANGER OF MUTINY BY MINERS.

Captain of British Ship Invites Trouble by Demanding Advance Pay for Freight for Nome.

Seattle, Wash., April 13.—A letter has been received here, sent from Vancouver while the British steamer Alpha was at that port, stating that the Captain of the Alpha had demanded payment in advance for the delivery of freight at Nome.

Three hundred miners on board the vessel refused to comply with the demand, and the Captain said that he would proceed to some point on the north coast and drive the men ashore unless they paid. The miners agreed to mutiny if this is done, and will put the Captain ashore and steam to the Siberian coast.

The miners are organized and armed, and there is a large stock of provisions on board the vessel. The Alpha left Vancouver recently against the orders of the United States revenue service, which forbade the vessel landing its freight at Nome.

WOUNDS GIRL AND KILLS SELF.

August Young Shoots Miss Van Cloostere at Murphysboro, Ill., and Then Dies.

Murphysboro, Ill., April 13.—[Special.]—August Young, after making an unsuccessful attempt to kill his sweetheart, Katie Van Cloostere, sent a bullet through his brain and ended his life last night. Young was a farm hand, 23 years old, living on the Jenkins farm, three miles south of Murphysboro. He met the girl, who had declined to receive his attentions, at the door of her home and discharged a revolver at her twice, wounding her in the breast and shoulder. He then ran across the street, when he shot himself. The girl's wounds are not fatal.

ADMIRAL'S SON TO GREET HIM.

George Dewey Jr. Accepts Membership with Other Chicagoans in Reception Committee.

George Dewey Jr., son of Admiral George Dewey and a citizen of Chicago, will serve as a member of the Reception committee for the Dewey celebration and assist other Chicagoans in entertaining his father as the city's honored guest. Mr. Dewey yesterday met Chairman Charles A. Plamondon of the Reception committee at the committee headquarters, and at the request of Mr. Plamondon accepted the opportunity to gratify at once his filial and patriotic sentiments. He will meet Admiral and Mrs. Dewey with the special committee on their arrival, attend the ball, and probably occupy the Dewey box. In general he will give the committee assistance in entertaining the chief guest of the city throughout his stay here.

The Reviewing Stand and Decoration committee will meet today and try to settle its quandary regarding the erection of the stand, which is to be located on the site of the government building. It has received offers from the Master Carpenters' association to furnish materials and erect the stand free of charge, and a similar offer from the Carpenters' union. It is thought likely that some compromise plan will be decided upon.

Fire Marshal Swenie has arranged for the participation of his department in the parade. It will be represented by engines, hose carts, hook and ladder trucks, and other apparatus, with an aggregate of 500 firemen in line. It has been arranged to have these placed as near the head of the line as possible, in order that they may be able to withdraw from the parade quickly in case of need.

Instructions were received from the Secretary of War at army headquarters in the Pullman Building relative to the troops stationed at Fort Sheridan which shall participate in the celebration. They will comprise four companies of the Fifth Infantry, under command of Colonel Richard Combs, and a battery of the Fifth Artillery. They will form the personal escort of Chief Marshal General James F. Wade.

Captain Allen Lester Fowler of the recently disbanded Lake View Light Artillery has volunteered to fire the land salute on the arrival of Admiral Dewey.

FIRE TRUCK AND CAR COLLIDE.

Two Men Are Injured in an Accident at Indiana Avenue and Thirty-first Street.

While responding to an alarm of fire last evening hook and ladder truck company No. 11 collided with an Indiana avenue electric car at Thirty-first street. Two people were injured. They are:

Coyle, B. O., Thirty-second and Vernon avenue, thrown from the front platform of the car and slightly bruised; went home unassisted.

After the accident the horses ran away. Members of the company succeeded in checking them after they had run to Calumet avenue. Witnesses of the collision assert that the motorman was not sounding the gong on his car.

The fire was in the house of John Travis, 3023 South Park avenue. The damage was $200.

It's easy; 10c a day, $1 a week, or $4 a month, buys a diamond or watch. Loftis Bros., 108 State.

ADMITS ROBBING MANY HOUSES.

Joseph Lyons Gives Police a List of His Crimes and Implicates John Duffy.

After following him for over two miles yesterday Policemen Flynn and McMahon of the West Lake Street Police Station arrested Joseph Lyons, who claims that with the assistance of John Duffy he has robbed nearly a dozen houses of property worth $1,500 in three months. Duffy was later arrested at 145 Halsted street. Lyons gave Lieutenant Beard the following list of his burglaries:

Mrs. George Lengyel, 904 West Twelfth street.
R. T. Durrell, 772 Warren avenue.
H. White, 971 West Van Buren street.
H. A. Taylor, 317 Oakley avenue.
T. D. Willie, 955 West Madison street.
Residence in Leavitt street, near Harrison.
Kenmore flats, Ladin and Flum streets.
House in Congress street, near Morgan.
Flat at West Madison street and Western avenue.
J. A. Arnold, 1298 West Madison street.

Lyons calls himself an "afternoon worker," and said he and his companion assumed the rôle of newspaper solicitors. Then they visited flats and residences and tried doors. If any one was in they undertook to secure subscriptions, but if they found a flat empty they let themselves in with a "jimmy" and took up their real work.

Lyons was leaving the Arnold residence with a bundle under his arm, when the detectives, who were on a cable train, saw him. At Monroe and Peoria streets they arrested him.

A quantity of plunder was found in their room. It was taken to the police station, where it will be held for identification. From Mrs. Lengyel they secured a collection of old coins, which Lyons said he believed Duffy still had. Lyons gave the Lieutenant a list of the pawnshops in which the plunder was disposed of, and it is expected it will be recovered.

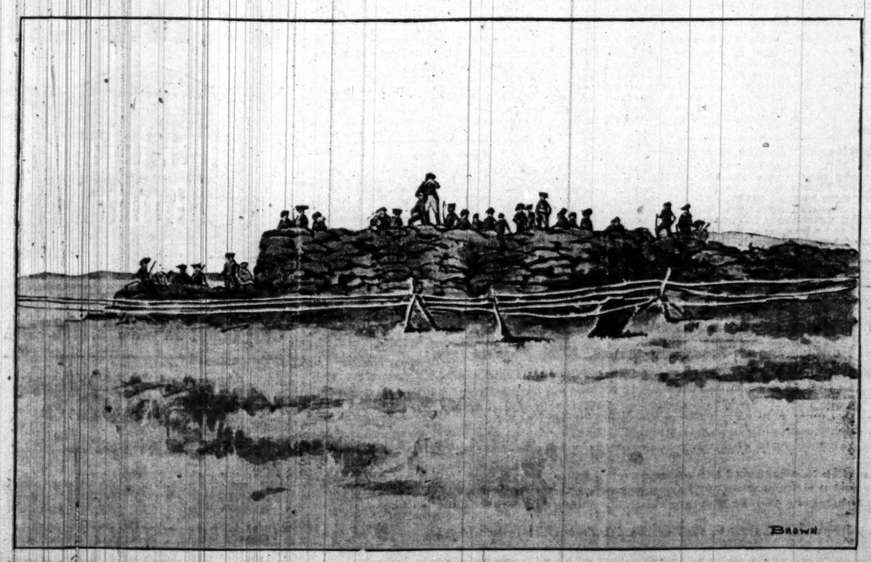

With Duffy was found a young man whom the police have in charge, but whose name has been withheld. He claimed that he and Duffy worked together, and were together at the Arnold house, where Lyons fell under suspicion of the police.

Attorney Hoyt King, former Secretary of the Municipal Voters' league, living at 407 Thirty-sixth place, was robbed by two highwaymen on Thursday night of a pocketbook containing a small sum of money and of his watch and a scarfpin. Mr. King had descended from the Alley "L" station at Thirty-fifth street and was attacked as he neared Wabash avenue and Thirty-sixth street. Both men held revolvers to his head and then searched him.

To Advance Soft Coal Prices.

Fifteen coal mine operators of Indiana and Illinois held a secret meeting yesterday morning at the Great Northern Hotel. After the meeting it was reported they had agreed to increase still further the price of soft coal, but how much was not stated. It was claimed that under the present wage scale to miners it is impossible to operate mines at a profit without raising prices.

CARTER MEETINGS FOR TONIGHT.

6922 Wentworth avenue. Speakers, Judge Carter, W. Clyde Jones, Western Starr.

Hesperian Hall, Sixty-ninth street and Ashland avenue. Speakers, Judge Carter, Dewitt C. Jones, John A. Henry.

Linden Theater, Sixty-third and Halsted streets. Speakers, Judge Carter, General George Hunt, McKenzie Cleland.

Carter club-rooms will be opened at 286 West Madison street. The speakers will be J. E. Cecil and Louis M. Head.

Considerable comment was caused in local political circles yesterday by a report that Henry Hertz had evolved a plan whereby, in the wards in which he is prominent, he should name lists of delegates to the Peoria convention, with a proviso that the voters were to indicate at the primaries for which candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination the delegates were to vote. The purpose was to allow of a primary fight without taking away from Mr. Hertz the privilege of naming the delegates, or, what may be of more importance, forcing him to take the side of either Judge Carter or Judge Hanecy. It was further reported that James Pease was anxious to have some such arrangement in the Lake View wards.

One story was that the primary ballots were to be printed and voted according to the Australian system, but it was found the primary election law does not allow any such method of voting. The other story, which has a foundation of fact, was that separate ballots be headed with the names of the candidates for the nomination, but with the identical lists of delegates, the latter to consider themselves instructed for the candidate receiving a plurality of the votes.

Snags for the Plan.

There does not seem to be any likelihood, however, of the latter plan being adopted for the simple reason it would require the consent of the supporters of both Judge Carter and Judge Hanecy. Both are averse to it—the latter because they are anxious to hold Hertz to an open support of their candidate, and the former because they not only want as many delegates instructed for Judge Carter as possible but are desirous also that the delegates be known friends of Judge Carter, who can be relied on in the fight for organization of the convention. What the Carter advocates want and expect to get is delegates who will be with their candidate on every proposition which possibly can come before the State convention.

To Save Committeeships.

Pease's plan is reported to differ from Hertz's in that he is only anxious to name the delegates to the county convention. This is less likely to meet with opposition from the candidates for the Gubernatorial nomination, but probably will be opposed by Lloyd Smith and the other Tanner men in Lake View, who want to oust Pease from his committeeship.

In fact, in a number of wards the main attempt of the members of the local machine now is to save the committeeships. While the Carter plan of campaign does not contemplate any interference with the county convention yet it is the rule in politics that the "tail goes with the hide," and, losing the delegates to the State convention, the machine managers are likely to lose them to the county convention also. Examples of this are Daniel Kochersperger in the Thirty-second, Fred Blount of the Twelfth, and several others who practically have given up hope of electing delegates to Peoria in favor of Hanecy.

J. T. Lenfesty, a delegate to the Peoria convention from Kankakee County, said at Judge Carter's headquarters that he and one of his colleagues would vote for the Judge in the convention. Mr. Lenfesty is uninstructed.

The Twenty-eighth Ward Republican club held a meeting last evening at Forty-eighth avenue and Indiana street and indorsed Judge Carter for Governor. Two hundred persons were present.

Local Democrats Stirred.

Local Democrats, who are not over-anxious that Bryan shall be nominated at Kansas City, were somewhat stirred by an article in the editorial sheet printed by the State Democratic committee under the title, "Is There a Conspiracy?" The article generally took the ground that any Democrat who was not blindly a Bryan man was a traitor to his country and party. "Buck" Hinrichsen is the editor of the sheet. It was explained by one of his friends that he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Sixteenth District, and the article was intended for consumption in Pike and Scott Counties.

The Executive committee of the Democratic State committee discussed the advisability of nominating a candidate for the Supreme Court in the Fifth District and finally referred the matter to a subcommittee composed of Messrs. Watson, Eldred, and Quinn.

State Convention Details.

Peoria, Ill., April 13.—[Special.]—The members of the subcommittee of the Republican State Central committee having in charge the Republican convention met today. The appointment of all doorkeepers and assistant sergeant-at-arms was turned over to W. T. Turner of Chicago, who is Sergeant-at-arms. The committee voted to order fifteen oil paintings, 9x10½ feet in size, of former Governors and prominent Republicans of Illinois. The committee authorized Secretary Van Cleave to have the tickets and badges printed, the tickets to be distributed pro rata among the members of the 400 for use of the Peoria committee. Secretary Van Cleave will also receive the press requests for seats. Sergeant-at-Arms Turner will remain in Peoria until after the convention.

CONGRESSMAN REEVES IS HERE

Will Take His Family to Streator and Return Next Week for Campaign Work.

Congressman Walter Reeves, together with his family, arrived last night from Washington. They registered at the Grand Pacific Hotel and will leave this morning for Streator. "I haven't anything to say now regarding my candidacy," said Mr. Reeves. "I am going to take my family back to Streator and expect to return to Chicago the first of next week. Then I propose to give my undivided attention to my candidacy until after the primaries."

The Jefferson day banquet of the Iroquois club at the Palmer House this evening promises to be a success. The speakers include former Vice President Stevenson, Mayor Harrison, Judge Worthington, and Representative Alschuler and Owen P. Thompson. The acceptances indicate an attendance of over 300.

FRIENDS OF BRYAN ALARMED.

Suspicious of New York Democrats' Objections to Resolutions of Instructions.

New York, April 13.—[Special.]—Bryan Democrats of this State are alarmed over the reports that the Democratic managers at this end of the State are opposed to sending instructed delegates to the national convention.

Norman E. Mack of Buffalo, who is in favor of the renomination of Bryan and the reaffirmation of the Chicago platform, says the Erie County delegates to the State convention will support resolutions of instruction. He thinks the regular State organization will make a big mistake if it attempts to sidetrack the resolutions. Mr. Mack recently spent several days in this city. He returned home without having received much encouragement from the leaders of Tammany Hall and the Kings County organization.

John F. Carroll, deputy leader of Tammany Hall, is said to be opposed to the delegates from the State being instructed for Bryan. He refuses, however, to talk for publication.

Hugh McLaughlin, leader of the Kings County Democracy, who has just returned from Florida, is also said to be against pledging the delegates to Bryan or any other candidate.

State Senator P. H. McCarren of Brooklyn said today he did not think the State convention would instruct the delegates.

"The New York organization will act in perfect accord with the Democracy of other States. I have heard of no desire anywhere to do different. The indications are that Mr. Bryan will be nominated without any serious opposition. I believe these views are shared by the majority of the party in New York. As a rule I am opposed to instructing the delegates unless it should be for a candidate from this State. As we have no candidate for the nomination of President instructions will not be necessary."

LITTLE TALKS ON LIVE TOPICS.

HYPNOTISM IN MEDICINE AND SURGERY.

I readily can believe from my own experience, the recent statement of Dr. Milne Bramwell of London with reference to his successful treatment of dipsomania through the agency of hypnotism. Dipsomania is a functional nervous disorder of the cortical cells, and the treatment would be of a purely psychological or suggestive character. I have had an extended experience with hypnotism as a remedial agent, and have no doubt it can be applied successfully in cases of dipsomania. I have passed beyond the experimental stage with it in surgical operations, and believe that before many years it will supplant chloroform, ether, and all other anæsthetics. The most complete anæsthesia can be produced by it. Too little attention has been given to it in this country. It is destined to be recognized as one of the greatest remedial agents in the hands of the medical profession.

H. L. NAHIN.

[Dr. Nahin performed a difficult operation last Sunday in which he employed hypnotism to produce anæsthesia, and with complete success.]

MERITS OF THE PORTO RICAN BILL.

I do not share the fears of those alarmists who profess to believe the Republican party will suffer at the polls next November because of the passage of the Porto Rican bill. I have sufficient confidence in the public spirit of the American people to believe they will inform themselves thoroughly regarding the merits of the controversy which has centered about this bill, and I have confidence enough in their intelligence to believe that when informed on the subject they will come to heartily approve the measure. As THE TRIBUNE has said, the bill deals most generously with the people of Porto Rico. It not only invades none of their rights, but it conserves their every interest with a carefulness of detail and generosity of spirit that should commend it to every right-thinking man. There has been much misconception as to the merits of this bill, but I am confident the people are beginning to understand it, and I have no fear of the Democrats being able to use it as an effective issue in the coming campaign.

JOHN C. SPOONER.

FOR HEBREW COLLEGE IN CHICAGO.

The removal of the United Hebrew College from Cincinnati to Chicago is possible if enough interest is taken here in raising the $500,000 which the conference of American rabbis asked for the institution. The removal would be most desirable. University facilities here are greater than in Cincinnati, and a larger corps of Hebrew teachers would be at the command of the college, Chicago having a larger number of rabbis who would offer their services gladly. The presence of Dr. Hirsch, who is no doubt the foremost leader in Israel, and who is recognized by the younger generation as its leader, would be of value to the college. There are a large number of wealthy Israelites here, and the presence of the college would induce them not only to make endowments but to make annual contributions to the institution. Chicago is recognized as an educational center, and the young student should be in touch with a metropolis where he can study social questions as he cannot in a smaller city, like Cincinnati.

ISAAC S. MOSES.

[Dr. Moses is the rabbi of Temple Israel and is interested in bringing the United Hebrew College to Chicago.]

CHICAGO RIVER GOING BACKWARD.

Chicago River is going backward in more ways than one. It is behind the times. Cleveland, Buffalo, Ashtabula—in fact, every lake port of any importance except Chicago—has been improving as the business of the lakes improved and as vessels grew in size. A modern vessel cannot go above the forks of the Chicago River. The natural result will be that these boats will go to other upper lake ports for grain and ore and will not bring coal here. Chicago will lose a great deal of its marine business and coal rates will increase so that prices of coal in this city must be increased to meet the extra freight. The decision of the Sanitary District to make improvements is a good one not only for the benefit of Chicago in a general way by helping its commerce but for the actual benefit of every poor man who burns coal, and for the benefit of the city's laboring men who find work through the marine business. More than $3,000,000 could be spent to advantage.

FUSION NOMINEES IN OREGON.

Democrats and Populists Unite on State Ticket and Presidential Electors.

For Justice of Supreme Court—W. M. Ramsey, Dem.

Food and Dairy Commissioner—William Schulmerick, Pop.

Presidential Electors—Ernest Kioner and John Whittaker, Pops.; Dell Stuart and William Pierce, Dems.

Portland, Ore., April 13.—The above fusion ticket was named by the Democratic and Populist State conventions, after a two days' session. Both factions indorsed Bryan for the Presidential nomination, but the Populist Electors were instructed, if elected, to vote for a Populist for Vice President and no other Democrat than Bryan for President.

The platform adopted reaffirms the Democratic platform of 1896 and the 16 to 1 plank of the Oregon convention of 1898, favors an income tax, the election of United States Senators by popular vote, and the initiative and referendum.

The Middle-of-the-Road Populist convention, with nine delegates present, nominated a ticket and elected seventeen delegates to the national convention at Cincinnati.

WOLCOTT AS VICE PRESIDENT.

Colorado Senator to Be Urged for Second Place on the Ticket.

Colorado Springs, Colo., April 13.—The Gazette tomorrow will strongly indorse Senator Wolcott for the Vice Presidential nomination. It urges upon Republicans the wisdom of taking a man from the far West for Vice President, as the East is already numerously represented in the Cabinet, and says Wolcott is one of the most consistent and brilliant Republicans in the West. It prophesies that he would take away from Bryan the vote of real bimetallists of the country.

ROOSEVELT AT PHILADELPHIA.

Report That the Governor Will Make the Speech Nominating McKinley.

New York, April 13.—[Special.]—Senator Platt announced at Washington today the delegates-at-large from New York to the Philadelphia convention will be Thomas C. Platt, Chauncey M. Depew, Theodore Roosevelt, and Benjamin B. Odell. It is believed in some quarters Governor Roosevelt will present McKinley's name to the convention. This, of course, has not yet been decided upon.

Six Votes for Bryan.

Albuquerque, N. M., April 13.—The Territorial Democratic convention today elected six delegates to the national convention and instructed them to vote for William J. Bryan for President. Ex-Delegate Fergusson was chosen as National Committeeman.

Nominated for Congress.

| State. | District. | Nominee. | Party. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Oregon | First | Bernard Daly | Fusion |
| Oregon | Second | *H. A. Moody | Rep. |
| Oregon | Second | W. M. Smith | Fusion |

SIGN INDIANA MINING SCALE.

Operators and Workmen Enter Agreement Fixing Wages and Terms for a Year.

Terre Haute, Ind., April 13.—[Special.]—The representatives of the Indiana miners and operators today signed the wage scale for the year ending April 1 next year and the block operators and miners will do likewise tomorrow or Monday, so that the 8,000 men in the State will be back at work early next week. The miners waived the weekly payday as provided by the new Indiana law pending a decision of the court of last resort on its constitutionality and will be paid semi-monthly as in the past.

Washington, Ind., April 13.—[Special.]—Three hundred men employed in the Cable company's mines inaugurated a strike today because of the company's refusal to employ union men exclusively. The mines are idle.

Athens, Wis., April 13.—All the employés of the sawmill of the Athens Manufacturing company went on a strike today. They demand a ten-hour day and the same pay that they have been receiving for twelve hours. The men marched through the streets in a body to the other mills waving a red flag and are trying to induce men in other plants to join them.

CLAIM MORGAN'S RE-ELECTION.

Senatorial Fight in Alabama Will Be Determined at Today's Primaries.

Birmingham, Ala., April 13.—Primaries will be held in a majority of the counties tomorrow to select candidates for State offices and Representatives to the General Assembly, who will elect a United States Senator to succeed John T. Morgan. Senator Morgan is opposed by Governor Joseph Johnston.

Chairman Neill of the Morgan Campaign committee tonight said:

"Of the fifteen Representatives already nominated and the sixteen holdover Senators, Morgan has 19, Johnson 8, doubtful 3, Populist 1. Of the 100 members to be nominated tomorrow I am absolutely certain Morgan will get sixty-eight."

DAMAGE BY FIRE AT OCONEE.

Postoffice, Hotel, and Two Dwellings in Illinois Town Destroyed—Blaze at Osceola, Ia.

Pana, Ill., April 13.—[Special.]—Fire at Oconee, six miles south of here, destroyed the postoffice, the Turner Hotel, and two residences. The loss is $10,000, with $8,000 insurance. Incendiarism is suspected.

Osceola, Ia., April 13.—[Special.]—The two-story Dague Block burned this morning. The loss is $20,000, as follows: J. B. Dague, building, $6,000; the Sentinel newspaper office, F. L. Guches publisher, $5,000; McFarland & Son, bakery, $2,500.

LADY ELGIN SURVIVOR DEAD.

John Roper, Who Was Saved in Famous Lake Disaster, Dies in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 13.—John Roper, one of the few survivors of the Lady Elgin disaster, which occurred on Lake Michigan forty-one years ago, is dead. Mr. Roper lived in Milwaukee for the last forty-five years.

To Operate B. and O. Southwestern.

Baltimore, Md., April 13.—It was stated in railroad circles here today that the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company would on July 1 begin the operation of the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern. The agreement, it was learned, was reached at a recent conference between President Cowen and Chairman Salomon of the Baltimore and Ohio, and President Bacon and other officials of the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern.

Janitor James Flenning Missing.

Captain Schuettler and his men of the Sheffield Avenue Station are searching for James Flenning, janitor of the Rogers Park public school, who disappeared on April 9. The friends of the missing man are of the opinion that he met with foul play. On the day he disappeared Flenning went downtown to visit a friend, but the latter has not seen him.

Suicide of Carl Gilljam.

Carl Gilljam, 357 Sedgwick street, 30 years old, by profession a musical director, stopped in front of the Chicago Avenue Police Station yesterday afternoon and swallowed the contents of a bottle of carbolic acid. He was taken to the Alexian Brothers' Hospital, where he died at 1 o'clock. He had been despondent for some time over lack of employment.

Policeman James Short Dead.

James Short, for twenty-seven years a member of the Chicago police force, died last evening at his house, 360 Park avenue. For many years he traveled a beat out of the Desplaines Street Station. He was stationed at the Fulton street market during recent years. Policeman Short was 60 years old and a member of the Policemen's Benevolent association.

FARMERS PLAN A TRUST.

PROPOSE TO RESTRICT PRODUCTION AND RAISE PRICE OF WHEAT.

Hope to Carry Project Into Effect at International Agricultural Conference at Paris in July—Method Suggested Is to Reduce Acreage and Hold Grain — Promoters Are J. C. Hanley of St. Paul and Professor Ruhland of Fribourg, Switzerland.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 13.—All the farmers of the world in a sort of international trust to restrict the production of wheat and raise prices is the plan which it is hoped to carry into effect at the international agricultural conference in Paris July 9-16. It is proposed to ask the farmers of the world to reduce their wheat output by 20 per cent and not to sell a bushel for less than a dollar.

J. C. Hanley of St. Paul, Minn., executive agent of the Farmers' Alliance and Industrial union, the National Cotton Growers' association, the Farmers' Federation of the Mississippi Valley, and the National Grain Growers' association, is the chief promoter of the international agricultural trust in America. Professor G. Ruhland of the University of Fribourg, Switzerland, is the chief promoter of the plan in Europe.

Had the Same Idea.

The idea was conceived by these two men independently. Mr. Hanley, who has been interested in many "hold-your-wheat" schemes, is prominently associated with the Farmers' elevator and various coöperative undertakings. He has long believed that if the farmers would only come to an understanding as to limiting production and agree to sell only when their price could be obtained they could easily master the situation.

As a professor of economics Mr. Ruhland had come to the same conclusion. His study of the problems of different countries led him to believe that the only cure for the widespread troubles of farmers, which are much more severe in the old than in the new world, is to restrict production. Both were hard at work getting the idea into practice when they encountered each other through correspondence. Since then they have been working with a common idea—viz.: to persuade the international agricultural congress to indorse the plan and recommend it to the various national associations for application next year.

Would Make "Dollar Wheat."

While 20 per cent reduction in acreage is desired, Mr. Hanley points out that if only 5 per cent can be secured the world's wheat crop will be reduced 125,000,000 bushels, which is, he says, enough to bring the price at Liverpool up to $1. To help out the effect of a restricted production the farmers are to hold their wheat for ninety days, and are to market it at not less than $1 a bushel.

"Almost everything the farmer buys," Mr. Hanley said, "is regulated in price by some trust. On the other hand, all that the farmer sells has its price determined by the competition of all the rest of the farmers of the world. The farmers propose to unite, stop ruinous competition among themselves, and make the world pay a fair price for their product."

Following the Paris conference it is hoped to have established a permanent international grain growers' association.

TO RIVAL BANANA TRUST.

Western Jobbers in the Fruit Form a Combination of Their Own.

The "banana trust" is to have a powerful rival in the National Banana Jobbers and Importers' association. At a meeting of banana dealers from points as far apart as Michigan and Texas, Oregon and Ohio, the purpose was announced of creating a new corporation to free the Western jobbers from the hold of the Eastern trust. The new company will import bananas and other tropical fruits, and will perhaps operate plantations in Central and South America.

The capital stock was set at $100,000, with a likelihood of an immediate increase to $250,000. Of this stock $75,000 was subscribed. It is asserted that $10,000,000 is back of the movement.

Debate Continues for Hours.

When Chairman W. W. Copeland of Burlington, Ia., called the meeting to order at 1 Dearborn avenue, yesterday afternoon, 120 men were present. For hours plans were debated, several jobbers being opposed to any extreme action until overtures had been made to the banana trust officials. The debate was at times acrimonious. It was 7 o'clock before the jobbers finally took steps to form the company. When action was taken it was unanimous.

The grievances of the jobbers were fully discussed. Speakers wanted to know whether the exactions of the Fruit Dispatch company, said to be capitalized at $10,000, backed by the $5,000,000 or more of the United Fruit company, should be further submitted to. At $1.20 a bunch, it was said, no trouble would have been experienced, but the price of bananas has been raised 65 per cent higher than it ever was before, it was stated.

"The Fruit Dispatch company bought the entire stock of foreign dealers six months ago," said C. E. Kerr, "and has had control of the market ever since. Our profits have been cut to nothing, for if we attempted to raise prices the people would do without the fruit."

The membership of the new organization will be confined to the list of those belonging to the National Banana Jobbers' association. When fully organized the Western people will control 90 per cent of the trade west of Pennsylvania, the object being to cover all New Orleans importations. It is expected that ten vessels will be chartered.

Among the members are: Leo Pottlitzer, Lafayette, Ind.; A. V. Thomas, Peoria, Ill.; Frank Cuneo and J. F. Cella, Chicago; C. A. Taft, Des Moines; Charles Mills, South Bend, Ind.; C. M. Davidson, Cincinnati; S. S. Mittenthal, Kalamazoo; H. M. Jones, Sioux Falls, S. D.; H. N. Todd, Des Moines; W. A. Godfrey, Milwaukee; J. L. Johnson, Wichita, Kas.; Felix Scalzo, St. Louis; and Charles H. Goldsmith, Terre Haute.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM I. PRESSCOTT, Cincinnati, O., a leading physician, died yesterday in his fifty-sixth year. He left a widow. He was a pioneer of Chicago, removing to Cincinnati after the great fire. In Chicago he was cashier of the Greenebaum Bank for ten years. He was born in Geneva, N. Y., and at the age of 10 came to Chicago. He was a thirty-second degree Mason.

GEORGE H. SCRIPPS died yesterday at Mirando, Cal., of pernicious anæmia, aged 66 years. The body will be cremated at Los Angeles and interment will be at Rushville, Ill., on May 1. George H. Scripps, with his brother, E. W. Scripps, and Milton A. McRae, comprised the Scripps-McRae Newspaper league partnership.

Delay Printing Old Assessment Lists.

The Public Service committee of the County board voted yesterday against printing the realty assessment lists unless they could be printed for $65,000 and before July 1. Commissioner Wright, who introduced the resolution, said he thought the printers had entered into a combination to charge the highest price for the work.

JUDGE ORRIN N. CARTER'S PLATFORM.

[From his speech announcing his candidacy, Jan. 24, 1900.]

Every member of a party, whatever position he may occupy in that party, has a perfect right at any time to state whom he favors at a primary, and he has the further undoubted right to use all fair means to persuade other members of his party to accept his views.

But that person should give—must give—to every other man the same freedom of choice.

A state of public sentiment which, under this present law, will permit a few people in any party to say months before the primary is held, before even the delegates are elected, what candidate or candidates will be named, is unrepublican and dangerous.

On all public questions every American who is worthy of the name carries his sovereignty under his own hat.

It makes little difference to the welfare of the State whether I am nominated for Governor, but it is of vital importance that every member of the Republican party who desires shall have a voice in selecting a candidate, whoever he may be.

This city should be so stirred that every Republican within its limits will feel that it is his duty to go to the primaries on May 3.

If Republicans are true to the traditions of their party its past history will be but a prophecy of its future.

DECIDE TO CERTIFY PTACEK.

Civil Service Commission Consents to Let Him Be Assistant Chief of Police—Municipal News.

The Civil Service commission has decided to certify Lieutenant Ptacek as Assistant Chief of Police to succeed Lyman Lewis, who for more than three years has held this post as a sixty-day man. The commissioners determined to stand by the result of the recent examination only after a wordy war with Ptacek and his political backer, City Clerk Loeffler. Corporation Counsel Walker refused to advise the commission in the matter. They then sought to have Ptacek waive his right to the place, which he refused to do, threatening mandamus proceedings. President Lindblom and his associates then agreed to defy the Civil Service Reform association, which is contesting the legality of the examination.

The commissioners hold that they could not have given a promotional test instead of an "original entrance," the point on which the reform association hinges its charges of illegality, as there were no merit men in the next lower rank, that of Inspectors.

Arguments on the bill for injunction, seeking to restrain Controller Kerfoot from paying salaries to the Inspectors certified, may be heard today.

Controller Kerfoot asserts that he will be able to take up the $488,600 worth of twenty-year sewerage loan bonds falling due on July 1 this year.

City officials are proposing plans for the establishment of a down-town emergency hospital. The $2,000 set aside by the new appropriation bill for this purpose is believed to be too small.

Plans for the Randolph street viaduct over the Panhandle tracks have been approved, and work will begin at once.

The lighthouse authorities of the federal government may place lights on the city's cribs and take charge of the intakes. This action will mean a saving of $500 a month to the city.

More than 1,000 vouchers for rebates to property-owners on street improvements made within the last three years have been prepared. All claims hereafter will be met promptly.

TO CANCEL RATES FROM COAST.

Railroads Issue Notice of Advance on Freight Shipped to Southeastern Points.

San Francisco, Cal., April 13.—The through freight rates between this coast and all points south of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi River are to be canceled on April 20. All of the interested roads, including the Southern Pacific, have issued notices to that effect. As a result of this action the transcontinental rates east of the Mississippi River will be added to the rate between here and the river, and the through rate will be advanced in the exact amount of the added local, which ranges from 30 cents per hundred pounds to $1, and more in some instances.

Chases a Thief in the Street.

An elderly man chasing a boy at West Madison street and Center avenue attracted the attention of a number of pedestrians last evening, and Policeman Thomas Swan joined in the chase. At Throop street he caught and arrested James E. Hayden, 18 years old, and later locked him up at the Warren Avenue Police Station on a charge of larceny preferred by the older man, Dr. C. S. Wood, 55 Warren avenue. Dr. Wood was on a Madison street cable car when he felt Hayden's hand in his pocket, then missed his watch and gave chase. The watch was found on Hayden.

FLEES HIS SINKING SHIP.

COWARDICE OF THE CAPTAIN OF THE GEORGES CROISE.

Chief Officer of the New York Brings Details of the Disaster to the French Vessel Just Off San Domingo—Women and Children Deserted and Rescued Just Before the Craft Goes to the Bottom—Van Wyck Signs Tunnel Bill—General Gotham News.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE. New York, April 13.

At the bottom of the sea outside of San Domingo harbor the wreck of the French steamer Georges Croise has lain for more than two weeks, together with the bodies of four men, two passengers and two sailors. The Captain, Francisco Cathrien, is alive, but no one knows his whereabouts. He is said to have deserted his doomed ship and nearly three-score people who were aboard.

Tell Story of Sea Captain's Cowardice.

The Clyde line steamship New York, which arrived tonight, brought the story of the wreck, which has been briefly told by cable. Chief Officer John C. Marmion gave this account of the venture:

"We were just going into the harbor of San Domingo on the morning of March 29. Suddenly a steamer hove in sight toward the city, and a minute or two later we saw that something was wrong. We lowered five boats and made for it. We found it sinking, its port side listing far down towards the water. No one seemed to be in command and everything seemed to be in disorder. Just as we came up I saw two men crawl into a small boat on the opposite side of the vessel and make off. One of these, we afterward learned, was the Captain.

"I sent one of my men aboard, and we began to pass down women and children. They were all scantily dressed. Many jumped into the water, but the boats behind me took care that these were picked up. When it looked as if all the people had been rescued I ordered the boats to pull away. A moment later the steamer went to the bottom.

"The children numbered about twelve or fifteen and the women the same. The sailors from the vessel, the Gorges Croise, bound to Santiago de Cuba, said that there had been fifty-five persons aboard, and that four were missing."

Three of the rescued sailors tonight said that the Captain deserted the ship with the pilot who had brought them out. They say that the lost were Dom Pepe Valle, a rich Cuban, who owned the ship's cargo of cattle, the second cook, a fireman, and an unknown passenger.

The Captain reached the shore in safety, reported the wreck, and disappeared.

Van Wyck Signs Tunnel Extension Bill.

Mayor Van Wyck today signed the bill extending the authority of the Rapid Transit board to all parts of New York City. This practically means a tunnel to Brooklyn in connection with the new system. President Orr announced the fact to the commissioners at the board meeting and there was much congratulation at the outcome, which gives the board immense powers and long life. Both branches of the Municipal Assembly had passed resolutions calling upon the Mayor to veto the bill, which means that all rapid transit propositions for the future must pass through nonpartisan hands. By signing the bill the Mayor ignored the advice of the Municipal Assembly.

The measure now goes to Albany, where Governor Roosevelt will sign it, and the Rapid Transit board will proceed to lay out lines to Brooklyn borough, following with tunnels into the other boroughs as fast as practicable.

It was also reported that the Mayor had signed the Featherson bill refunding the county debt and adding $8,000,000 to the credit of the sinking fund. This will greatly improve the prospects of the tunnel to South Brooklyn, making it a near possibility. Controller Coler said:

"We will have rapid transit to Brooklyn started within six months."

Girl to Sue H. S. Rubens for Big Amount.

When Horatio S. Rubens, formerly counsel for the Cuban Junta in New York City, and now Commissioner of Codes in Cuba, gets back to this city from Havana next week he will find himself defendant in a suit for $100,000 damages. Lawyer Emanuel Friend took affidavits today in a suit to be brought against Mr. Rubens by Miss Louise Hoffman, who went to Cuba as his wife's maid last January. She accuses Mr. and Mrs. Rubens with having had her cast into an asylum in Havana as insane.

Miss Hoffman's affidavit says she had rooms at the French home, 251 West Twenty-fourth street, and that she was sent for from the Hotel Langham to act as maid for Mrs. Rubens. She declared that Mrs. Rubens' temper was such that she could not live with her and returned to the Mother Superior at the home.

"Go back," said the Mother Superior, "and win a crown of glory by changing Mrs. Rubens' temper for the better."

The maid went back and on Jan. 14 started for Washington with Mrs. Rubens. On Feb. 16 they landed in Havana from the steamship Miami. There they went to the Hotel Ingleterra.

The affidavit to which Miss Hoffman swore tells the rest. She could not bear Mrs. Rubens' temper. She declared that a hall boy told her she was wanted down-stairs by a woman whom she had known in England. She went down, got into a carriage, and was driven to a hospital.

Through various processes Miss Hoffman says she was landed in an insane asylum, where she was attacked by the inmates and suffered other anguish.

Mrs. Rubens, who is here, says the maid is the one who had the temper.

Former Valet's Claim Against Howard Gould.

Frank D. Mowbray, formerly valet for Howard Gould, has brought suit in the Supreme Court against the millionaire to recover $250,000, which sum, he estimates, he would have received had he been retained in Gould's service for the rest of his life. Justice Fitzgerald today issued a commission to Consul General William M. Osborne in London for the examination there of William Pitt, a witness in the suit for Gould. From the papers in the case it appears that Mowbray was badly injured on July 4, 1896, while carrying out Gould's orders in setting off fireworks on Gould's yacht, Hildegarde.

"In consideration of Mowbray's forbearance" in not bringing a damage suit against Gould for personal injuries, Gould, it is alleged, agreed to engage Mowbray as valet at $80 a month for the remainder of his life.

Mowbray now alleges that after the statute of limitations had run and he was debarred from suing Gould, the latter discharged him without cause.

David D. Duncan, counsel for Gould, makes affidavit that Gould has a good and sound defense to Mowbray's suit.

Dr. Walter B. Wellbrock, in his suit against the Long Island railroad company to recover $100,000 for personal injuries, was awarded a verdict for $25,000 this morning in Part III. of the Supreme Court. The suit arose out of the accident to the tally-ho excursion of the members of the Alpha Delta Theta society of the Greene Avenue Baptist Church on Memorial day, 1897.

Thomas McCoy Dies, a Victim of Cigars.

Thomas McCoy, some years ago one of the most conspicuous figures of the Bowery, and at one time reputed to have $500,000, died in Bellevue Hospital this afternoon, penniless, a victim of cigars. In the latter years of his life he smoked from fifty to one hundred cigars daily. This resulted in cancer of the tongue and throat, which caused his death. He had been a patient in the hospital for the last six months.

Thomas McCoy when a young man started as an employe in a dime museum. Later he branched out as a manager of one of these concerns, and a few years afterward was the proprietor of several of the largest and most flourishing museums on the Bowery.

Friends of Mr. McCoy say that his expenditures in this prosperous days were enormous. They assert that he gave away in his lifetime at least $200,000, and that he rivaled John L. Sullivan in prodigality. All he leaves his widow is a $3,000 life insurance policy.

Do Not Like Wording of Dr. Hall Tablet.

There is considerable subdued but, nevertheless, persistent discussion among the members of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church over the memorial tablet to the Rev. Dr. John Hall, which was recently placed in the church. The quotation on the tablet is declared by some of his former parishioners to be a reflection on the doctor. They fear it will be taken for a joke. The tablet is of bronze, and is inscribed:

"Rev. John Hall, D. D., L.L. D. Born County Armagh, Ireland, July 31, 1829. Died County Down, Ireland, Sept. 17, 1898. For forty-nine years a Presbyterian minister. Pastor of this church from Nov. 3, 1867, to Sept. 17, 1898.

"'There remaineth, therefore, a rest to the people of God.'"

Injunction Against the Flour Trust.

Justice Jenks of the Supreme Court, sitting in Brooklyn, today granted the application of Ora M. Jewell for an injunction to restrain Thomas A. McIntyre and the other members of the Reorganization committee of the flour trust from transferring to a new company about to be organized, and the successor of the flour trust, certain shares of the Hecker-Jones-Jewell Milling company amounting to $80,000. The plaintiffs had deposited the shares with the defendants for the purpose of having them exchanged for flour trust stock on their representations, which are alleged to be untrue, that they had secured all the rest of the Hecker-Jones-Jewell milling stock. The defendants assert that the plaintiff is merely trying to rescind a valid agreement which has happened to prove unprofitable.

Small Boys Legally and Well Spanked.

Five small boys shrieked in Justice Murray's court in West Haverstraw Thursday while their parents thrashed them. No word of protest came from Justice Murray, for the parents were carrying out a sentence of the court. For fifteen minutes the punishment lasted. The boys had been hauled into court for throwing stones at passenger trains on the West Shore railroad. Many windows were broken and persons were hurt. Justice Murray gave the parents the alternative of paying a $5 fine for each boy and whipping in court or seeing him sent to the House of Refuge.

Grau's Plans for Grand Opera Season.

The grand opera season in America for 1900-'01 will open at San Francisco on Nov. 12 next. Maurice Grau made this announcement today. "The company will start from Europe on Oct. 20, and proceed direct to San Francisco," he said. "It will be the first time on record of an opera company making such a jump as that. The company, which will number about 225 persons, will arrive in New York from Europe on Oct. 27 and proceed at once across the continent in a special train. The entire trip will occupy altogether about five weeks. As the season will open in New York City on Dec. 18 the number of cities after leaving San Francisco at which we shall be able to give performances will be limited. Probably they will be confined to Los Angeles, two nights; perhaps Salt Lake City, one night; Denver, two nights; Kansas City, two nights; Lincoln, one night; and St. Paul and Minneapolis, three nights."

New Music Hall Venture Is Launched.

William A. Brady and Florence Ziegfeld Jr. plunged bravely into music hall affairs today as competitors of Weber & Fields. They leased the new Schley Music Hall, on Thirty-fourth street, from Sullivan & Farrell, its owners, for five years, with a privilege of five years' renewal at an annual rental of $27,500, and announced that they would open it on Sept. 1 with the best stock company obtainable. The theater will be run in a manner similar to Weber & Fields'. Smoking and refreshments will be permitted. "Dick" Bernard will be one of the members of the company, and Fay Templeton is slated for a leading position.

Death May Be Charged to Christian Science.

There will be a Coroner's investigation into the death of Dean J. Osgood, a wealthy importer, who died on Thursday night without medical attendance, although in the most advanced stages of Bright's disease. In place of regular licensed physicians, he was surrounded by Christian Scientists. The death certificate handed in at the Health department was refused. It bore the signature of Dr. Baker of this city, but it was indefinite in its most important detail. There was no assurance in the document that a physician had ever been in attendance, and in consequence of the suspicious nature of the certificate the Health board notified the Coroner's office.

The Japanese company at the Bijou will play "Sapho" next Monday afternoon. Kawakani, the tragedian, has made the dramatization and has cast himself for Jean.

AMERICAN WHO MAY FIGHT A DUEL IN PARIS.

CHARLES HARRIES SIMMS.

Charles Harries Simms, assistant director of the Department of Liberal Arts and Chemical Industries for the United States at the Paris exposition, who according to a dispatch from Paris may fight a duel with a French journalist in that city, is a son-in-law of Director General Ferdinand W. Peck. Mr. Simms, who is 32 years old, was formerly proprietor of the Evening News of Dayton, O. His marriage with Miss Buda Peck took place at Oconomowoc, Wis., on Wednesday, Sept. 1, 1897. A special train from Chicago took a large number of invited guests to Oconomowoc.

The wedding ceremony was at Zion Church, three blocks from the Peck residence. Owing to the shortness of the distance no carriages were used, but the bride was carried to the church in a sedan chair, trimmed with silk and covered with wreaths of sweet peas. The cortége was picturesque. First came the four groomsmen, James O. Heyworth of Chicago, Charles M. Thurston, Thomas Newbold, and H. C. Graves of Dayton, O., marching side by side. They were followed by the eight bridemaids, Miss Louise Wicker, Miss Louise Mattocks, Miss Ethel Page, Miss Alice Ham of New York, Miss Lillian Gillette, Miss May Borrough, Miss Alice Hawkins, and Miss Blanche Holland. Four were dressed in green and four in pink. Then came the maid of honor, Miss Arline Peck, with her father, then the flower girl, Miss Martha Peck, scattering roses in the path of the bride, whose chair was carried by her brothers, Ferdinand W. Peck Jr. and Clarence Peck, and Charles Low and G. L. Shaw of Dayton, O. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Rouse of Trinity Episcopal Church of Chicago, assisted by the Rev. Fred Jewell of Zion Church, Oconomowoc.

A wedding dinner and a lawn fête at the Peck residence followed, and at 8 o'clock the wedding party came to Chicago by special train. Mr. and Mrs. Simms made an extended trip through England on a tandem.

Damages for Breach of Promise.

Colorado Springs, Colo., April 13.—[Special.]—In the breach of promise suit brought by Miss Nellie Lewis against Samuel Strong, President of the Free Coinage Gold Mining company, the jury today awarded the plaintiff $50,000 damages out of $200,000 asked. The jury was divided only on the amount of damages.

WILL SEE NEBRASKA REGENTS.

Dr. E. Benjamin Andrews Goes to Lincoln to Investigate Offer of Chancellorship.

Dr. E. Benjamin Andrews left Chicago for Lincoln, Neb., last night. He secured a leave of absence until Monday from President Harris of the Board of Education and went West to consult the Regents of the University of Nebraska regarding their offer to him of the Chancellorship of that institution. His decision in regard to acceptance is expected to be governed by the results of the conference. The Superintendent stated before leaving that he was no nearer a conclusion than he had been.

As the members of the Board of Education stand at present, Dr. Andrews might either be elected or defeated at the annual election of the board. His opponents claim to have the eleven votes necessary to defeat him, and make the statement in the hope of influencing his decision. As probable successors, in the event of his retirement from the public schools, District Superintendents Speer and Lane and E. G. Cooley of La Grange, the principal-elect of the Chicago Normal School, are considered.

Mayor Harrison asserts that the Board of Education must solve the problem as to whether Dr. E. Benjamin Andrews shall continue as superintendent of Chicago's schools or accept the chancellorship of the University of Nebraska, and insists that he will not interfere in any way.

"Last year," said the Mayor, "I used my influence to keep Dr. Andrews here, because I believed that in justice to the schools, to himself, and to the people he should stay here. Now the matter is up to the Board of Education. I have nothing to say. Do I want him to remain here? I must answer that in the same way. I have nothing to say."

The Mayor consulted with Trustees Gallagher and Keating, but said that their conference had nothing to do with the question of Dr. Andrews' position. He refuses to talk of probable changes in the personnel of the board at the close of the school year. Indications point to but a slight shifting.

E. J. Nolen, President of the American Blind People's Higher Education and Improvement association, has sent a protest to the Board of Education against the proposed methods of giving school opportunities to blind pupils. Mr. Nolan is a practicing attorney in Chicago, although he has been blind since the age of 4 years. Mr. Nolan also sent suggestions of methods for providing instruction.

Mr. Nolan urged that it would be impossible to bring blind children from all parts of the city to a school located on the site purchased by the board, and that the provision for a dormitory in the building of the Industrial Home for the Blind, which adjoins the proposed school, is opposed to correct theories of treatment of blind pupils. He holds that blind children should not be associated with older people, as would be the case in a dormitory maintained in the Industrial Home, and suggested that the board take no action before seeking the advice of superintendents of schools for the blind throughout the country.

As a substitute plan Mr. Nolan suggested that rooms be set apart for the blind in centrally located school buildings, after the method of giving instruction to deaf and dumb children. It was stated that the blind pupils might be taught, even in the regular classes, if supplied with special text books, provided also that several special teachers be employed to advise the grade teachers regarding this branch of their work.

The protest and the suggestions were taken by members of the Buildings and Grounds committee to be well based, and were referred to the attorney of the board, together with a question as to the board's legal authority to build and maintain a school for the blind.

LEVEE IS RESUMING ACTIVITY.

Resorts Recently Closed Gradually Opening and Complaints of Robberies Pour In.

The levee resorts which for several weeks had been closed, "awaiting further orders," have been opening gradually within the last three days, and complaints of robberies are pouring into the Harrison Street Police Station.

Captain Mahoney was notified yesterday afternoon that a gang of women had opened their former headquarters at 377 State street, and robberies were being committed there. A man saying he was August Bloemfon, a Blue Island baker, stated that he had lost $55 in the place. Detectives Riley and Niland and Sergeant Mooney went to the resort and arrested the following women: Emma Hall, Maggie Archer, Annie Smith, Lillie Poole. The prisoners were identified by Bloemfon, who will prosecute them in the Armory police court this morning.

Bloemfon came to the city from Blue Island during the morning to meet a relative on an incoming train. The visitor failed to appear and Bloemfon confided to an apparently sympathetic woman who stood near his fears for his kinsman's safety.

"I think I know where your cousin can be found," said the stranger, and Bloemfon replied that he would be grateful for assistance in finding him.

The progress of the search led to 377 State street, and when Bloemfon left he had lost his $55.

LOSS DUE TO PARIS PLAN.

FIVE CHICAGO EDUCATORS FIND EXCURSION VENTURE COSTLY.

Because Steamboat Rates for Exposition Parties Jumped Dr. E. Benjamin Andrews, Dr. Henry Wade Rogers, Principal Charles W. French, Professor George Howland, and Henry La Marc Are Out of Pocket—Teachers' Trip Falls Through.

Five Chicago educators who organized the American Federation of Teachers and Students say the venture has proved costly to them. The federation, which was to take 3,000 teachers to Paris, to entertain them in the homes of French teachers, and make them familiar with French universities, has abandoned its project, and the educators are refunding money that was paid in to the organization.

Charles W. French, Principal of the Hyde Park High School, who was President of the federation, states that the educators have secured some valuable experience and that it will cost them about $100 each. Dr. E. Benjamin Andrews, Treasurer of the federation, has given up his rooms at the Virginia Hotel and during Mrs. Andrews' absence from the city has gone to the Hotel Normandie, where, he stated, he has secured "modest bachelor quarters."

"We are none of us satisfied with ourselves in the matter," said Mr. French. "I suppose educators are not good business-men, but we have gained some valuable experience. I think from what we have learned we could run the thing another year with more success."

The causes for the abandonment were said to relate to transportation difficulties. The steamboat companies with which the federation supposed it had contracts began to get away from their agreements when the prospective great volume of Paris travel became apparent, and the Chicago men found that they had placed their price on tickets for the excursion $100 too low.

Before it became evident that the project could not carry its own weight, the educators found that they could not conduct their professional affairs and continue in their positions in the federation.

President Henry Wade Rogers of Northwestern University, who was one of the directors, said he would have to be excused from the directorate or from the Presidency of the university, and he chose to remain President.

Dr. Andrews said he would have to get a leave of absence from the public schools to take care of the money of the federation and he preferred public school work.

Henry La Marc, who was Secretary of the federation, made two futile efforts to get to Paris to arrange matters at that end, but was called home by the condition of affairs in Chicago.

At the finish, the two directors in charge of the local office were Professor George Howland of the University of Chicago and Mr. French.

The federation is said to be square with its members now. It has refunded $1,200 which it had on account, and the directors are making up that which was used in expenses.

A branch office had been opened in New York, and the Eastern end of the federation proposes to carry out its plans by adding $100 to the $200 which it was intended to charge for the excursion. The Chicago men would not increase the price, holding that it would seem to be acting in bad faith with the teachers, who had been promised the trip for $200.

President French said that the federation probably would continue some sort of an organization, and endeavor to carry out its plans in regard to French universities some other year.

BUFFALO LITHIA WATER

A Powerful and the Only Known Solvent and Eliminator of Stone in the Bladder.

Dr. G. H. Pierce, of Danbury, Conn., reports the following case:

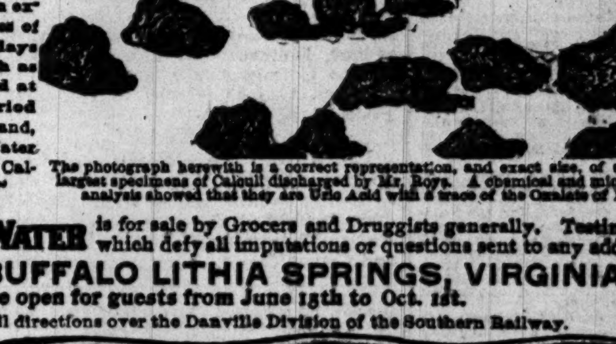

This photograph shows the exact size and shape of some of the larger specimens of disintegrated stone discharged by Mr. S., under the action of BUFFALO LITHIA WATER.

"Mr. S., American, 47 years old, four months ago consulted me. I advised that his bladder be explored for foreign body, which I was sure was present. On entering the bladder I encountered a large mass, which, from the characteristic click I decided was a stone. * * * * * I prescribed BUFFALO LITHIA WATER, a goblet four times a day. In three days, showing me the vessel he had used during the night, he asked me if the debris was not disintegrated stone. I was amazed to see the quantity of brick dust, or rather iron rust, looking deposit which was present. The material kept coming away, and sometimes large particles. After all were passed, which took three and one-half months, the largest particles which were saved weighed two ounces and twenty-seven grains. He is now well, and to-day I passed a sound into his bladder without the slightest difficulty and found it entirely free.

Dr. O. H. Davis, of Meriden, Conn., reports in New England Medical Monthly:

"Mr. R. L. Roys, of this city consulted me about two years ago for stone in the bladder, from which he had been suffering for years. On my suggestion, he commenced the use of BUFFALO LITHIA WATER, as he was very much opposed to operative interference. After using the water for a short time, disintegration to a certain extent took place and large quantities of stone were passed. For several days in succession he passed as much as a teaspoonful of the debris, and at intervals for a considerable period he passed large quantities, and, under the continued use of the Water there was a constant passage of Calculi until he was entirely relieved."

The photograph herewith is a correct representation, and exact size, of some of the largest specimens of Calculi discharged by Mr. Roys. A chemical and microscopical analysis showed that they are Uric Acid with a trace of the Oxalate of Lime.

BUFFALO LITHIA WATER is for sale by Grocers and Druggists generally. Testimonials which defy all imputations or questions sent to any address.

PROPRIETOR, BUFFALO LITHIA SPRINGS, VIRGINIA.

FAST MILE OF ED TIPTON.

HE EQUALS THE MEMPHIS TRACK RECORD OF 1:42¼.

Wins Country Club Handicap Handily from Duke of Baden and Cherry Leaf—Clara Meader, a 100 to 1 Shot, Finishes First, but Is Disqualified for Fouling—Farmer Bennett Beats the 2-Year-Olds—Other Turf Contests.

Memphis, Tenn., April 13.—[Special.]—Ed Tipton won the Country Club Handicap at one mile, the feature of today's program at Montgomery Park, in a clever way. With 108 pounds up he stood up to the pace made by Maud Wallace in the first six furlongs, and then assuming command came home an easy winner by two lengths in 1:42¼, which equals the track record.

Senator O'Brien's Duke of Baden, with 112 pounds on his back, was made favorite, and his owner made one of his plunges on him at 3 to 2. The early pace was too fast for Duke of Baden, and, moreover, Vititoe was not fortunate in finding a hole for him when it came time for him to make his run. He ran a good last quarter and nipped Cherry Leaf on the post for the place. Cherry Leaf's race was an improvement. Had the track been a little bit harder he probably would have bothered the leader, as he evidently was in fine condition.

Two good things were on the card. One of them won and the other was beaten only through the intervention of the judges. When the price against the 4-year-old mare Winter in the opening race at six furlongs had drifted to 30 to 1, a strong play set in on her and she went to the post at 5 to 1. She fought it out with the favorite, Pauline J., and got the race by a nose, Belle Erin, a 40 to 1 shot, finishing third.

The other good thing was Clara Meader in the nine-furlong selling race. With Crocket, Freak, and Jimp to beat and no public performance to recommend her, Clara Meader was offered at a price as good as 100 to 1. From this she was backed quietly down to 50 to 1. It did not take much to dispose of Freak and Crocket, and Jimp was the only one that Clara Meader had to beat. She might have done this without question had Blair been able to pull her off Jimp and bring her down in the center of the track, but she crowded Jimp into the fence all the way down the stretch and was a nose in front of him at the end. The foul was palpable, and it was instantly allowed on claim. This placed Jimp first, Freak second, and Crocket third. The latter opened at 4 to 5, but a plunge on Freak caused the odds about Cahn's mare to recede to 6 to 5.

Tommy Burns' ride on Farmer Bennett in the four and a half furlongs for 2-year-olds was the most inspiring incident of the afternoon. Five started in the race, one of them being Colonel W. S. Barnes' colt The Conqueror, who was the only horse, according to the Jockey club, which is entitled to that name. The Conqueror is by Jim Gore, dam Bacchante, and does not appear to amount to much. Sard was voted to have the speed of the party, and so he had. He was fast enough to open up a gap of three lengths going the first quarter.

Farmer Bennett was slow to get going, and when he got fairly under way he was cut off while trying to get through next to the rail. Burns took him back and waited for the spread at the head of the stretch. Then he sat down to ride in earnest. Sard led by two lengths into the stretch and showed no signs of faltering, but Burns rode Farmer Bennett with whip and heels and got him up in time to nip the race by a head. Sard was an odds-on favorite, but the local crowd was down on Farmer Bennett at 7 to 5 and thereabouts.

Burns had another mount during the afternoon—Shillingburn in the final race. The distance was six furlongs and the start was out of the chute. Shillingburn got off with the others, but swerved into the main track and wheeled, and was left at the post. He had been heavily backed at 4 to 1, but his backers, far from being displeased with Burns, cheered him when he brought the horse back to the stand. The race was the best half of the six furlongs selling split, and Alpaca was a slight favorite over Tildy Ann and Shillingburn. With good racing luck Tildy Ann would have won. She was shut off on the turn and bumped in the stretch. Alpaca, after making all the running, lasted long enough to beat Tildy Ann by a head.

Jockey Boland, who has been riding First Call for W. H. Laudeman here, will leave for Louisville tomorrow night to join the stable of C. H. Smith, with whom he is under contract.

BENNINGS TRACK WILL CLOSE TODAY

Talent Succeeds in Picking Winners Over a Muddy Track.

Washington, D. C., April 13.—Good Friday, the last but one of the spring meeting days of the Washington Jockey club, brought out a large crowd to the Bennings track. The track was heavier than yesterday, and the talent fared well with the mud horses, picking two outright and an equal choice favorite. The contest in the first was entirely between Revonah and Lady Lindsay, backed at equal money, the former winning by a short head. Lambkin did excellent work in the second and beat the favorite, Gracios, by a length. In the third Slack piloted his mount, Robert Metcalf, the favorite, into the van at the half, running away with the race and finishing in a common gallop from Owensboro. Six attempts at starting were necessary in the fourth before the three starters finally got away, and then Grandeur was practically left. Weightman and Post Haste hotly contested for the honors after the turn was reached, Post Haste winning by a head. In the final First Whip, the favorite, won by a length.

Washington Summaries April 13.

Weather clear; track good.

First race, ⅝ mile, fillies and mares:

| Bet. | Horse, weight, jockey. | St. | ¼ | ⅜ | Str. | Fn. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 6-5 | Revonah, 92 [Booker] | 2 | 2½ | 2½ | $2^{1}$ | $1^{h}$ |
| 6-5 | Lady Lindsay, 108 [Cl'son] | 1 | $1^{h}$ | $1^{nk}$ | $1^{nk}$ | $2^{8}$ |
| 15-1 | Jamaica, 92 [J. Slack] | 3 | $3^{8}$ | $3^{8}$ | $3^{8}$ | $3^{8}$ |

Time, 1:04. Decimal, 92 pounds, also ran. Winner, Goughacre Stable's ch. f., by Hanover—Extra. Start good. Won driving; second easily. Revonah was outrun by Lady Lindsay in the first part of the race, but in a hard drive all through the stretch she gradually wore down the leader.

Second race, 4½ furlongs, 2-year-olds, maidens:

|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 5-1 | Lambkin, 107 [O'Leary] | 3 | $1^{h}$ | 2½ | $1^{nk}$ | $1^{1}$ |
| 3-1 | Light Ball, 105 [Mitchell] | 5 | $3^{4}$ | 4½ | $4^{5}$ | $3^{4}$ |

Time, :58 1-5. Connie, 104 pounds; William Ach, 104; Ten Up, 107; Lady Esterling, 104; Mowitzka, 104, finished as named. Winner, P. S. P. Randolph's br. c., by Darebin—Lambayeque. At post, 8 minutes. Start good. Won driving; second the same. Lambkin raced Connie into exhaustion in the first three-eighths, but O'Leary had to hustle him in the last fifty yards to stall off Gracious.

Third race, 6½ furlongs, selling:

| Bet. | Horse, weight, jockey. | St. | ¼ | ¾ | Str. | Fn. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|

The Tribune Good Road Bulletin—No. 3.

[Note—This bulletin will be published in the Saturday and Sunday issues of "The Tribune" until the riding season ends. Arrangements have been made to secure the latest and most reliable information up to 11 o'clock of the night preceding publication.]

The snow and rain of this week have put the most of the roads out of the city in bad condition again. A bright sun tomorrow may put them back into shape, but undoubtedly the best plan is to use the boulevards. Aside from the asphalt, the roads most likely to be usable are the macadamized roads of Lake County, Ind., and the Lake Shore drive and Sheridan road route as far as Highland Park. The reports from the various runs are almost uniformly "bad" and are as follows:

NORTH.

Fort Sheridan run—Lake Shore drive to Sheridan road, thence through Evanston, Winnetka, Glencoe, Highland Park to Fort Sheridan. Fair, but heavy to Highland Park; bad beyond.

Wheeling course—From Lincoln Park west in Belmont avenue to Milwaukee avenue, thence on that course to Wheeling. Bad.

WEST.

Washington boulevard, through Garfield Park to Oak Park and Austin—Poor, except on the boulevards.

Downer's Grove run—Through Garfield Park to Downer's Grove road, thence southwest through Downer's Grove to Riverside. Not in condition for riding.

SOUTH.

Old Pullman course—Through Jackson Park to Stony Island avenue, south in Stony Island avenue to Ninety-first street, thence southwest on the Angling road into Pullman. Poor.

New Pullman course—Michigan avenue south to Sixty-third street, thence south in South Park avenue to South Chicago avenue, southeast in South Chicago avenue to Cottage Grove avenue, south in Cottage Grove avenue into Pullman. Poor.

SOUTHEAST.

Lake County runs—From South Chicago across the Ninety-second street bridge to Ewing avenue, thence southeast to Indiana boulevard, thence southeast through Roby, Whiting, East Chicago, Hammond, and Crown Point. Fair in Lake County.

AMERICAN BIRDS BEAT CANADIAN.

International Cocking Main Is Held in Detroit—Thirteen Battles.

Detroit, Mich., April 13.—[Special.]—A big international cocking main was pulled off last night at a Gratiot avenue roadhouse near Detroit, which lasted until 7 o'clock this morning. The winner was a party of New Baltimore (O.), Pennsylvania, and West Virginia sports. They took nine of the thirteen battles. They were for $100 each, and the odd fight was to have been for $400 a side. The Americans took the first three battles in succession and then lost the next four to the Canadians. The remainder of the battles all went to the Americans. The Canadians lost about $4,000. The Canadian birds were in charge of Jack Pleasure of Windsor, and Ed Glasgow of Windsor handled them in the pit. Jack McNamara of New Baltimore had charge of the American birds. They were prepared for the main by W. F. McIntyre and handled in the pit by "Rube" Coppes of Allegheny City. "Pop" Whitaker of Mount Clemens was referee and Jack Cotton of Windsor timekeeper. Sixty sports were present.

Maroons Meet Marquettes Today.

A lively game is looked for today on Marshall Field, when Stagg's men meet the Marquettes. McGill or Muench will occupy the box for the visitors, while Stagg will probably rely upon Rogers, with Smith in reserve. The game will be called at 3:30. The batting order will be:

| Chicago. | Marquettes. |
|---|---|
| Wood, c. | Lippert, lf. |
| Place, cf. | Ball, 2b. |
| Kennedy, 1b. | Ebert, ss. |
| Merrifield, 3b. | Andrews, cf. |
| Vernon, 2b. | Lagger, rf. |
| Ewing, rf. | Holly, 3b. |
| Rogers, Smith, p. | Hommes, 1b. |
| Van Patten, ss. | Holmes, c. |
| R. Merrifield, lf. | W. McGill, Muench, p. |

In the forenoon a game will be played between the freshmen-sophomore team of the university and the West Division High School.

ORPHANS IN BAD SHAPE.

WEATHER AND LACK OF PRACTICE HANDICAPS LOFTUS' MEN.

Pitchers, However, Are in Fair Condition and Will Be the Chief Reliance in the Opening Games Next Week—Eight Men Will Be Sent Home to Practice on the West Side Grounds Before the Team Goes to Cincinnati.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Louisville, Ky., April 13.—[Special.]—Loftus' legion practiced three hours today, all except the hospital squad, which consisted of McCarthy and Dexter, both of whom were laid up with heavy colds. Nichols, too, is suffering from a cold, and the team is in discouraging condition through miserable weather and lack of work. Still, the pitchers remain in good form, and on them the main reliance is placed in the early games.

Today practice took place on heavy grounds, but the weather was warmer. Phyle and Harvey turned loose their arms for the first time in weeks. Harvey worked but a short time, fearing to injure his arm, which has been sore. Phyle worked with great speed. The others pitched hard, while Chance, Donahue, and Nichols had their hands full catching two pitchers each.

After the practice there was a run around the field, but the heavy going stopped several of the runners before two journeys around the big lot had been completed. Manager Loftus planned a game for tomorrow and one for Sunday between the regulars and the scrubs, but the condition of the field will prevent tomorrow's game and possibly the Easter contest. Tomorrow there will be practice both morning and afternoon, for Manager Loftus is determined to put his men in shape if possible before next Thursday.

Five pitchers, one infielder, and two outfielders will be shipped home from Louisville Wednesday, when the regular team leaves for Cincinnati, and some of them will be permanently dropped. Green, Dungan, Bradley, Harvey, and Phyle are among those who will be sent back to Chicago and permitted to get regular work on the home grounds before the team returns home.

So far Manager Loftus has not let drop even a hint as to who he will release, and, compared with him, a clam might be called a gossip. He says he will announce his Captain next Tuesday, but will not say who the choice will be. Many of the men want their fellows to promise not to take less than $600 for acting as Captain, as they did last season.

Ryan condemns the course of the management in not selecting a Captain earlier, so as to let him study the weaknesses of the team play and know what to do, but at the same time he says the Chicago management believes a Captain is but a figurehead, and is willing to pay only a nominal salary for such services. Ryan says he would not accept the position if offered. Clark Griffith, Anarchist, rose in his wrath after reading the statement of John B. Day, in which the chief of umpires declared all that is needed to make the season a success is decent behavior by the players.

"What ought to be done," said Grif, "is to appoint a chief to watch the magnates and prevent them from bringing the game into disrepute. If it had not been for the decency and honesty of the players the game would have been ruined years ago. I never knew a player whose behavior was not lady-like in comparison with the acts of these magnates, who, every spring, attempt to make public believe the players are a set of rowdies who threaten to hurt the game.

"In my time there has never been a scandal or an accusation of crookedness made against a player, while the papers are full of the work of the magnates. The best proof of that is that the public has faith in the players and none in the magnates."

TEBEAU PRAISES THE ORPHANS.

Thinks the Chicago Team Under Loftus Will Do Good Work.

St. Louis, Mo., April 13.—[Special.]—Manager Pat Tebeau of the St. Louis baseball team has a high opinion of the Chicago nine. He thinks it has gained 30 per cent in strength since last season.

"The Chicago infield was woefully weak last year," said Tebeau tonight in discussing the baseball situation. "But Loftus has fixed up that deficiency. I think Childs is a material gain to the Chicago team. Every ball player has his off year, and last season was Childs' first. I expect him to play much better ball for Chicago this year than he did for us.

"Lange's departure from the game ought not to cripple the team. Loftus has several good men, any one of whom can replace him. I fancy Loftus will put Bradley on third base. As it stands now I think Loftus has a bunch of good hitters, fielders, and base runners. But then you know his team has to be better this year because there are now only eight clubs in the league, and it is harder to maintain a high percentage with fewer competitors and games.

"Another thing that should strengthen the Chicago team is their pitching talent. You know they got two or three good pitchers toward the end of last season, Garvin among them."

CLUBS UNDER NATIONAL AGREEMENT

Eleven Minor Leagues to Start the Season of 1900.

Washington, D. C., April 13.—[Special.]—Eleven minor leagues, embracing seventy-six clubs, will start the season of 1900 under protection of the national agreement. The organizations, together with their officers, as registered at National league headquarters are as follows:

TWO QUAKER PLAYERS SIGN.

List of Recalcitrants in the Philadelphia Club Is Reduced.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 13.—[Special.]—The list of "holdouts" on the Philadelphia team was again reduced today when Right Fielder Flick and Catcher McFarland signed their contracts for 1900, and Pitcher Bernhard accepted the terms of the one tendered to him. This leaves Delehanty, Lajoie, Douglass, and Thomas in the class of non-signers. The differences between the management and the players are not serious enough to be called a strike, but that the latter consider them important is shown by the fact salaries begin on April 15 and four men have not agreed to the new terms.

While the men are not known to be willing to play for the amount of money offered them, yet the difference is of a financial nature. This, it is learned, has arisen from the new condition, added as a sort of postscript to the 1900 contract. This reads as follows:

"It is further agreed that in the event of field manager of party of first part certifying in writing on Oct. 15, 1900, that the said player has totally abstained from the use of spirituous or malt liquors and from gambling, indecent or profane language or conduct, and from late hours and other forms of dissipation, and has kept himself in the best of physical condition, and has faithfully obeyed all other rules and regulations of said club, and all orders of the field manager, and complied with the other covenants of the above contract, and that he has played at all times active, lively, first-class ball, then upon such certificate the party of the first part will pay unto the said player the extra sum of $150 in one payment on Oct. 16, 1900."

From what can be gathered of the players it appears they object mainly to this postscript, taking the ground that while they might try hard enough to give the club their best service, they might be prevented by sickness from playing "at all times active, lively, first-class ball." As the judge of such is designated as the field manager, who at present is Mr. Shettaline, it is scarcely possible the players could have one who would be more suitable to them, even if they had the choice of selection.

HANLON HOOTED IN BALTIMORE.

Crowd Prefers Watching College Game to That of the Superbas.

Baltimore, Md., April 13.—[Special.]—Lovers of baseball in this city, led by the players of the Yale and University of Maryland teams, this afternoon hooted and hissed Ned Hanlon and his Brooklyn National league team, composed of erstwhile Baltimore star players, off the field. It was a sore blow to Hanlon's pride. He has all along believed that the baseball public of this city was greatly indebted to him. The followers of the game, however, disappointed over the failure to continue a team in this city, showed Hanlon that he was no longer their baseball idol. They declared in a most emphatic manner that they preferred to see a game between Yale and the University of Maryland to one between teams made up of Hanlon's "Superbas."

Two games had been scheduled, the university teams taking the diamond first, to be followed by the Brooklyns in an exhibition game. At the sixth inning of the university's game Hanlon wanted it stopped, so that the Brooklyns could take the diamond. He believed the spectators would rather see his Superbas than the varsity players, but he was mistaken. The Captains of the varsity teams submitted the dispute to the spectators, who responded vigorously with cheers and cries of go on to the varsity players and hoots and hisses for Hanlon and his men. Hanlon threatened to attach the box receipts, but found he was too late, the manager of the university game having already taken his 56 per cent, leaving the balance for Hanlon, as agreed upon.

Sadly and silently the Brooklyn manager and his players then left the park and started this evening for New York. Neither of the varsity teams put up a strong game. Yale secured an early lead and maintained it throughout, winning by a score of 10 to 8.

PADDEN HELPS COMISKEY'S TEAM.

New Infield Proves Too Much for the University of Illinois Nine.

Champaign, Ill., April 13.—[Special.]—Comiskey's White Stockings at last have an infield together, the strength of which, reinforced by Padden, Hartman, and Sugden since last Tuesday, was noticeable in today's game with the university team, the former having no trouble in winning by a score of 5 to 2. The weather was cold and the field spongy, but contrary to all expectations the game turned out to be an exceedingly brisk affair, only one error being credited to each side, the shortstops of the respective teams being the offending member on each occasion.

Padden took his place at the head of the team as well as on second base, and seemed to inspire his men with considerably more ginger than they have heretofore shown, even Lally waking up and helping to execute a neat double play in the third inning. No chances for phenomenal plays were offered, but the whole team accepted all the chances coming its way, Hartman especially playing a nice game for the first day out.

Not only did the men distinguish themselves by clean fielding, but they bunched their hits and knocked the ball around the lot as if they were playing championship ball, a total of twelve clean ones being scored off Lundgren's pitching. Burke and Isbell led with three hits apiece, the former getting a nice three-bagger into left field. Patterson pitched a steady game and the collegians batted with little effect. For the home team Cook made a beautiful catch in center field and the playing of the whole team was creditable, but it could not cope with the heavy batting of the leaguers.

Buckley has made final arrangements for the team to stay here until next Wednesday, and the men seem to be well satisfied with their quarters. They will practice in the morning tomorrow and on Monday, while the varsity takes its turn with the Purdue and Michigan teams in the afternoons, and then on Tuesday and Wednesday the teams will come together again for their final games.

New Players for Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., April 13.—[Special.]—Manager Stallings concluded negotiations with Brooklyn today and signed Third Baseman Harris and Pitcher Donovan. Harris was with Baltimore last year and played several positions. Donovan is a big pitcher, with as much speed as Rusie, and did some clever work last season. This gives Detroit one of the best staffs of pitchers in the league, with Cronin, Frisk, Miller, Donovan, Fifield, and Gaston among the seasoned members. It also practically rounds off the team, which in addition to these pitchers, is now as follows: Shaw and Ryan, catchers; Sullivan, first base; McAllister, second base; Harris, third base; Elberfeld, shortstop; Stallings, left field; Bey, center field; Harley, right field; Pitchers Owens and Barrett and Outfielder Wheeler, substitutes.

Pitcher Cronin Ejected from a Train.

Cincinnati, O., April 13.—The Reds have released Pitcher Jack Cronin to Detroit. Cronin started for Detroit tonight, expecting to sign there tomorrow, but the express train was stopped in the suburbs to eject him. Some friends had previously accompanied him to the depot.

Fultz Signs Milwaukee Contract.

Richmond, Ind., April 13.—[Special.]—Manager Mack of the Milwaukee ball team today announced that Fultz, purchased of Brooklyn, had signed a contract. He will report shortly.

BATHOS WINS AND IS SUSPENDED.

Tanforan Judges Punish a Bad Reversal of Form—Beats Dr. Nembula.

San Francisco, Cal., April 13.—[Special.]—As on the preceding day, the greatest upset occurred this afternoon in the last race. Horses ran bang up to form, and speculators were not prepared for the defeat of Dr. Nembula, the prohibitive favorite, especially by Bathos, who was the 1 to 4 choice that finished third on the day before, against the worst field of horses that has started out here in many a long day. Bathos was a different horse today, and was full of run. He challenged Dr. Nembula through the stretch and outgamed him to the judges' stand, to the utter discomfiture of the talent. It is claimed Bathos is a sulker, but it is unfortunate that he indulges in his sulking propensities when he is an odds-on favorite. He was 6 to 1 in the race this afternoon, while the best price obtainable against Dr. Nembula was 1 to 3.

The judges have suspended J. J. Moran, owner and trainer of Bathos, pending an investigation.

First race, ½ mile, maiden, purse, 2-year-olds—Gaylon Brown, 103 pounds [Buchanan], 3 to 1, won; Grafter, 103 [Powell], 3 to 1, second; Loyal S., 105 [Ross], 10 to 1, third. Time, :49¾. Clear and good.

BROWN PLAYS FAST BILLIARDS.

Defeats Kellogg Two to One in the A. A. U. Tournament.

Brown played remarkable billiards last night in his match in the A. A. U. tournament at Mussey's, defeating Kellogg by a score of 225 to 116. The game was one of the series in the playoff for third place. While Kellogg was dawdling along Brown merrily clicked off points, the ivories rolling just to suit him. At the twelfth inning he had an average of 12. He slowed down in the latter part of the game, but ran out in his thirty-fifth, with an average of 6 15-35. Scores:

Brown (225)—0, 6, 5, 12, 13, 35, 5, 0, 1, 17, 0, 50, 1, 5, 23, 5, 0, 1, 0, 1, 3, 0, 2, 3, 13, 0, 0, 7, 1, 6, 1, 4, 0, 0, 5—225. High run, 50. Average, 6 15-35.

Kellogg (300)—6, 3, 0, 1, 0, 0, 1, 1, 8, 0, 1, 1, 3, 10, 8, 4, 2, 5, 2, 10, 0, 3, 1, 0, 0, 9, 0, 27, 0, 1, 0, 3, 0, 0, 4—116. High run, 27. Average, 3 11-35.

McGinnis and Parker met in the afternoon in the play off for third prize, the former winning by a score of 300 to 145. The winner played fast billiards after the first few innings. He should have run out in his thirty-sixth essay, but missed an easy shot and took five additional innings to secure the four points he needed. Scores:

McGinnis (300)—2, 0, 0, 3, 3, 0, 19, 0, 0, 4, 0, 4, 30, 10, 19, 14, 0, 0, 18, 8, 10, 14, 23, 5, 8, 5, 3, 5, 31, 5, 0, 9, 2, 14, 11, 17, 0, 0, 3, 0, 1—300. High run, 31. Average, 7 13-41.

Parker (225)—3, 1, 0, 0, 0, 0, 3, 1, 19, 0, 4, 7, 0, 27, 9, 0, 4, 1, 5, 0, 20, 0, 0, 1, 0, 1, 6, 3, 0, 9, 8, 1, 0, 0, 2, 8, 2, 0, 0, 0—145. High run, 27. Average, 3⅝.

Sutton Defeats Catton.

Sutton defeated Catton in the eighteen-inch balk line tournament at Green's Academy last night by a score of 150 to 107. Both played fast billiards. Sutton in four innings made 136, taking eight more innings in getting his required fourteen points. His high run was fifty-seven, while Catton made thirty-eight. Tonight Schaefer will play Catton. William D. Harrison, who has been on the sick list, will resume play in the academy today.

Browning Wins from Nolan.

C. W. Browning of the Vicinity club last night defeated T. Nolan of the Sheridan club at the Chicago Athletic association by a score of 100 to 215. Browning thereby retains possession of the interclub medal, for which he was challenged by Nolan. The winner's handicap was 100 and the loser's 250. Browning averaged 1 47-53 and Nolan 4 7-52.

POLICE DUTY IN STRIKES.

CORPORATION COUNSEL WALKER CITES LAW TO CHIEF KIPLEY.

Picketing by Unions Must Be Stopped When It Reaches Intimidation or Violence—Thoroughfares Must Be Kept Open and Persons Protected in Lives and Property—Men Have Equal Right to Walk Out or Work—Mayor Harrison's Attitude.

Corporation Counsel Walker, in a formal opinion to Chief Kipley yesterday, declared it the duty of policemen to stop "picketing" by the labor unions when it reaches the stage of intimidation or results in breach of the peace. He asserts the police must prevent "pickets" from gathering in number "sufficient to intimidate," that the "thoroughfares must be kept open to traffic and public convenience," and that "persons must be protected in their lives and property" and "the peace preserved always and everywhere within the city."

On the heels of this opinion Mayor Harrison discussed the existing strikes, claimed that all parties to the conflict were in the wrong, but the "labor unions" least of all. The Mayor's return from Swan Lake, where he had gone for a rest, is due chiefly to the serious turn the situation has taken, owing to the riot at the Marshall Field Building, Clark and Adams streets.

Gist of the Opinion.

"I think it goes without saying," Mr. Walker recites in his opinion, "that the constitution of this State in guaranteeing to its citizens 'life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness' means, among other things, that every man who wants to strike has a right to strike, and that every man who wants to work has a right to work. Any kind of 'picketing' that works against this principle to the extent of transgressing any law or ordinance is illegal."

The Corporation Counsel defines picketing:

"Picketing," as defined by the principal cases dealing with the subject, is watching and speaking to the workmen as they go to their employment, to induce them to leave the service. "Pickets" are those who are stationed at or near premises where there has been a strike or lockout and who, besides gathering and conveying to their organization such information as they can obtain by watching, seek to influence other persons against working in those premises.

Cites Local Judges.

He cites the case of Fraser & Chalmers against the Iron Molders' union, quoting the statement of Judge Windes that "persuasion in the smoothest of words or the blandest of manner, accompanied by a great show or congregation of numbers, or by intonations of voice indicative of threats or ridicule which have a most vindictive purpose, might well be denominated intimidation."

"In holding that 'picketing' by peaceful persuasion was proper," Mr. Walker continues, "Judge Windes' order then limited the number of men who might picket in this manner at the particular place in question to ten."

Judge Dunne's opinion in a similar case brought by the Bush & Gertz Piano company also is quoted.

Defendants have the right to congregate at or near complainant's premises upon the public thoroughfares, provided they are there for a peaceful and lawful purpose, and do not unduly obstruct the thoroughfares, or unfairly by violence or intimidation interfere with complainant's conduct of his business. They have also the right to establish a picket line upon the public thoroughfare for legitimate purposes, such as that of informing all persons seeking employment that a strike is in progress, and advising them or entreating them not to go to work.

Workmen may coöperate to improve their condition and increase their wages; they may refuse to work for less than the price they have jointly fixed, and they may do everything which is lawful and peaceful to secure that price. They may even go to their brethren and beseech them not to work for less than the fixed rate. Argument, reasoning, and entreaty are legal weapons, but the moment they go beyond those means and threaten to punish with violence they bring themselves face to face with the law.

Duty of the Police.

Following these citations the Corporation Counsel's opinion continues:

I believe that the above mentioned cases substantially embody the law on this subject. It must be remembered, however, that even when men are "picketing" peacefully and by persuasion they must not do so in numbers sufficient to intimidate. Your duty is made plain by the statutes of the State and the ordinances of the city. By the city's charter all policemen are made conservators of the peace and have power to arrest with or without process all persons who are breaking the peace or may be found violating any ordinance of the city. The State law also makes it the duty of every policeman "when any criminal offense or breach of the peace is committed or attempted in his presence to apprehend the offender."

The opinion outlines the duty of the Chief of Police, holding that he must preserve the "peace, safety, and order of the city."

Chief Kipley's Statement.

"Members of the Chicago police force," said Chief Kipley, "will follow this advice strictly. I want to say, however, that they will be instructed to arrest all disturbers, be they non-union men or members of labor organizations. Men who want to work will be protected."

Mayor Harrison's Criticism.

"The labor unions, contractors, and material dealers are all in the wrong," said Mayor Harrison, "but the laboringmen have the least to answer for. This isn't a strike, it's a lockout. In the meantime, all Chicago must suffer. And I want to say, too, that the newspapers—there are exceptions—are the worst enemy this city has today because of their continued efforts to show that Chicago continually is in a state of unrest. They keep people away from here.

"It is argued that the labor unions constitute a 'trust.' Why, the material men and the contractors have been the parties who have formed the 'trusts.' Today not a single thing is bought by the city but that we run up against a combination controlling the needed article. I know men here who have sent in orders from outside points and had goods reshipped to this city at a cost less than they would have had to have paid in a direct purchase. This thing has gone so far that we have ordered city purchases shut off as far as possible. We will try the Eastern markets."

"What of the riot at the Field building?" was asked.

"All I care to say," answered the Mayor, "is that if it was a riot it was well handled and promptly settled."

ASSAULT ONE MORE WORKMAN.

Heavy Police Guard Prevents More Serious Trouble at Merchants' Loan and Trust Building.

Twenty-five policemen in uniform and as many more detectives guarded the Merchants' Loan and Trust Building yesterday evening when the non-union employés quit work. The showing of force had its effect on the 200 union pickets and walking delegates and but one assault was reported.

At quitting time a squad of policemen started east in Adams street as escort to twelve colored laborers. Captain Gibbons ordered another squad of policemen to overtake the escort, and the spectacle of eight or ten patrolmen running caused some excitement and hundreds of men and boys followed on a run, believing another riot was taking place.

Attack on Fred Marse.

While the escort was moving eastward Fred Marse, a non-union plasterer, living at Forty-third street and Winchester avenue, crossed Adams street and started south in the alley west of Clark street, only to encounter a gang of union pickets.

One of them struck him a stunning blow on the left temple, which felled him to the ground and stripped the flesh from his cheek. Bystanders said brass knuckles were used. Four of the pickets kicked Marse repeatedly. The gang disappeared in a saloon a few moments before several policemen arrived.

The colored laborers were escorted to a boarding-house at 397 Dearborn street, and then left without protection. They will be taken back to their work this morning under guard.

Guard for the Contractors.

It was nearly an hour after the departure of the laborers when the contractors and prominent officials of the Building Contractors' council came out of the building and started for their residences. President O'Brien and W. F. Behel were the first to make their appearance, and both were accompanied by private detectives big enough to take care of the huskiest striker. F. P. Bagley and Charles Gindele left the building later under protection. The other contractors went home under similar circumstances.

Eighty or more non-union workmen slept in the building last night and will make the place a hotel hereafter until their work is finished. Their number will be largely increased today, the contractors say, and by Monday probably 200 workmen and special policemen will be housed under the one roof. The colony will be fed under an arrangement with a hotel, which will deliver the food three times a day.

The Building Trades council at its meeting last night voted to send an expression of regret to T. R. Tinsley, superintendent of the Merchants' Loan and Trust Building, who was severely hurt in the riot at Clark and Adams streets on Thursday evening. Mr. Tinsley will be informed by the council that he was beaten by mistake, if by a union workman, as he is regarded as a friend of union labor.

Chief Kipley does not anticipate another outbreak and believes that the only way to deal with the situation is by a liberal use of the Police department.

Formal notice was given to the labor unions by the Building Contractors' council of its intention to complete the building with non-union labor.

John Boucher, a non-union employé of the Otis Elevator company, 219 South Jefferson street, was assaulted by eight strikers as he was leaving the offices of the American Type Foundry company, 203 Monroe street, in the afternoon. He was given a police guard.

CLASS CREW RACES AT HARVARD.

Newell Seniors Win in Slow Time—Newell Juniors Are Second.

Cambridge, Mass., April 13.—[Special.]—Today at 12 o'clock the Harvard class championship crew race was rowed down stream on the Charles over the regular one and seven-eighths mile course. The water was rather choppy and the men had to row against a brisk east wind.

There were five crews—the Newell senior, junior, and sophomore crews and the Weld Law School and sophomore crews.

The Newell senior crew was the first to finish, winning by a length and a third in the slow time of 11 minutes. The record for the course is 9 minutes 21 seconds. It seemed to be the Newell club's day, for the second crew to finish was another Newell eight. The Weld Law School was rowing in second place up to the half way mark, but suddenly the Newell junior crew shot ahead and kept there to the end, coming in with a lead of a half length on the law school. The closest race was between the two sophomore crews. They kept together until within about twenty strokes of the finish, when Merritt, who was rowing No. 3 in the Newell crew, caught a crab. This gave the Weld crew a little start, which it kept.

Among the men to watch the race from the launch were Captain Allen of the Yale crew and a few of the Yale men.

The order and weights:

Newell senior crew—Stroke, Harding, 160; No. 7, Higginson, 155; No. 6, Fitzgerald, 160; No. 5, Biddle, 172; No. 4, Gale, 170; No. 3, Gray, 162; No. 2, Byrd, 163; bow, Bolling, 138; coxswain, Goodrich.

Newell junior crew—Stroke, Gerrish, 160; No. 7, Lawrence, 179; No. 6, Gilchrist, 176; No. 5, McConnell, 170; No. 4, Peyton, 188; No. 3, Henderson, 170; No. 2, Cunningham, 161; bow, Hawkins, 158; coxswain, Howe.

Weld Law School—Stroke, Snite, 160; No. 7, A. Dubois, 163; No. 6, H. Bancroft, 188; No. 5, Wood, 175; No. 4, Shepard, 162; No. 3, Morrill, 157; No. 2, Davis, 167; bow, Holt, 140; coxswain, Kelly.

Weld sophomore crew—Stroke, G. Bancroft, 163; No. 7, Ladd, 183; No. 6, Shuebruk, 178; No. 5, Emory, 168; No. 4, Colby, 174; No. 3, Grew, 173; No. 2, Brooks, 163; bow, Covelan, 159; coxswain, Boothby.

BELOIT AT EVANSTON TODAY.

Adkins, the Crack Wisconsin Pitcher, Will Be in the Box.

Northwestern and Beloit play the second big college game of the season at Sheppard Field this afternoon. The Wisconsin team has played few games this year, but has shown up well in them all. Adkins, the Beloit pitcher, is in school this year, and will be in the box against the Evanston team. Beloit has shown up well with the stick, and batted out two victories against the all-professional nine, which toured among the Western colleges. They are not strong behind the bat, but the infield is practically as good as that of last year.

The heavy snow of the last two days has kept Beloit indoors, and Jack Hollister seemed anxious to call the game off, but sent word yesterday he would have his men at Evanston. Dr. Hollister gave the purple a hard day's work yesterday, and kept the team at the bat most of the time. The work with the stick is much improved over that done earlier in the week, and such an exhibition as marred the Chicago game will not be repeated. Smiley will be in the box for Northwestern, and West will again catch, in spite of his injured finger. The game is called for 3 o'clock. The teams will play as follows:

| Northwestern. | Positions. | Beloit. |
|---|---|---|
| Smiley | Pitcher | Adkins |
| West | Catcher | Jacobson |
| Pinneo | First base | Browne |
| Fleager | Second base | Allen |
| White | Short stop | Harberton |
| Nusbaum | Third base | Brown |
| Chaddock | Left field | Slater |
| Mattison | Center field | Dupee |
| Johnson | Right field | Morey |

Fight Is the Hardest Which the Little Chicago Man Has Ever Had — He Seems to Be Defeated in the Fifth and Sixth Rounds—Starts the Denver Lad Going Finally with a Blow Over the Heart—Jack O'Brien Easily Whips Bob Long.

Denver, Colo., April 13.—[Special.]—Benny Yanger, better known as the "Tipton Slasher," of Chicago defeated Young Corbett in the eighth round of what was to have been a ten-round bout tonight at the Colorado Athletic club. The fight was the fastest, fiercest, and most furious contest that has ever been seen in a local ring. From the first clang of the gong the men continually mixed up to the eighth round, and many thought it was Corbett's fight, as his right-hand jabs made Yanger reel about the ring at times.

Yanger says it was the hardest contest he has fought since he commenced the fighting business. He said after the fight: "Any one who says this man Corbett is a quitter is away off in sizing up a fighter. He is the hardest man I ever met, and I think I have met some of the cleverest in the ring since I started fighting. He has the punch of a heavyweight, and when he landed I was always well aware of it. In the fourth round he got in rights which plainly staggered me."

Yanger was a good bit under weight, tipping the scales at 120 before he entered the ring, while Corbett went to 124. This was a decided advantage in Corbett's favor, and it was apparent during the contest. Yanger did not adopt his usual style of fighting, and that is the one reason he did not finish his man sooner in the fight. He started in several times to rush continually, but on account of the high altitude he found it difficult to get his breath and held back, giving Corbett a chance to fight at long range.

Corbett's judgment of distance was poor, as he swung as many as six times throughout the fight with his right and left, but Yanger was always out of danger. On the contrary, Yanger used excellent judgment in directing every blow he put in. He measured his distance well and all of his hooks and jabs resulted in much punishment to Corbett. Corbett's effectiveness was in his hard hitting when he landed. His right, which he put from the elbow with terrific effect on Yanger, caused the Slasher much worry, but he took it all with rare gameness and never flinched.

The first round found both men anxious to mix. The Slasher went at Corbett like an infuriated bull and rushed him to the ropes, raining blow upon blow on the local man. The latter part of the round found Corbett confident, and he reached Yanger with left and right hooks on jaw and body. Yanger looked somewhat surprised at the close of this round, which looked like Corbett's.

In the next round Corbett followed up his work of the last round with straights on Yanger's jaw. Yanger did not like the game and fought at long range. The clang of the gong found Yanger having the better of the mixing.

In the fourth round Yanger gave an excellent exhibition of blocking. This round showed that Yanger could not fight at long range, as Corbett caught him hard on the chin several times when he stood off from him.

In the sixth and seventh rounds Corbett's work was brilliant and his friends thought he was surely going to redeem himself, as he had Yanger going a few times as a result of his hard hitting. In the seventh round Corbett sent his right on face and body and Yanger looked weary. However, in the close of this round Yanger showed great recuperative power.

As Yanger came to the center of the ring in the eighth he threw all his strength into a hook on Corbett's heart. The blow was followed up by two in the same place and two right swings on the jaw with right and left. Corbett staggered about the ring, but got in a good straight left on Yanger when the latter came in to him again. Yanger saw that Corbett was weakening and rushed him, sending him to the floor with a right swing on the jaw. He got up only to go down again with a left in the same place. He took the count, and when he got up Yanger sent in repeated rights and lefts, which laid him prostrate on the floor. This round lasted two minutes and forty seconds.

JACK O'BRIEN DEFEATS BOB LONG.

Philadelphian Has an Easy Time of It with the Iowa Man.

Jack O'Brien, the Philadelphia middleweight, found Bob Long of Davenport easy picking in their match last night at the Star Theater. The colored fighter did not secure an even break in any of the six rounds and throughout the contest did not seem to land a blow that shook his opponent to any great extent.

O'Brien, after avoiding Long's wild rushes in the first round, set to work in earnest in the second. He ripped powerful body punches into his opponent's stomach, sending him to the canvas three times—twice for the limit and once for a count of five.

Most of the preliminary bouts were on the slow side and all of them went the limit. Harry Stiles of New York, Bobby Dobbs' sparring partner, was given the decision over Walter Bingo of Boston in the opening bout. The bout was on the slow side and without any special feature.

Walter Nolan and Jack Brin fought six rounds to a draw at 145 pounds. The former, who has been in Denver for nearly a year, was fat and tired easily. Brin appeared in good shape, but was slow and did not force the pace as he should have done. Both men were woefully weak in their right hand efforts, swinging wildly and missing many times. With their lefts they did good work, but in the clinches tired themselves with ineffectual attempts at infighting. In spite of these defects it was a well contested bout, and the decision met with general approval.

George Williams, the veteran colored lightweight, met Fred Green of Cleveland, O., at catch weights, the local man having the better of height and reach. The chunky little Ohio fighter was the aggressor and won a clean cut decision. He used a chopping left to good effect and occasionally waded in with right and left swings. In the fourth round he swung a right to the head, sending Williams to the canvas for a second. Williams put up a game fight, but did not seem to bother Green with his punches.

Pete Powers and Frank Scott met at 154 pounds, the latter getting the decision. It was an apathy-producing bout and several times the spectators vented their disapproval. Scott kept away for the first two rounds, and Powers was too slow to catch him when he pursued. Neither man was damaged.

M. Elizabeth Messick, Emerson Institute, Mobile, Alabama, writes:

"I was very weak and extremely nervous. For several months I used prescribed tonics to no avail. I declared the first dose of Paine's Celery Compound made me feel better, and was laughed at, but the Compound brought me the desired strength, and in the fall I returned to school.

"I am now in the Home Missionary Work among the Freedmen of the South. Never one year could I have finished without Paine's Celery Compound. At home we have a large family and use the Compound constantly in the spring. We owe much to your medicine."

VARICOCELE

A New Home Cure Without Pain, Operation or Loss of Time from Work.

Every man afflicted with Varicocele will be glad to know that there is a new and wonderful method that cures at home, speedily and surely, at a very slight expense. There is no operation, no pain, no letting of blood, but a quick relief and a rapid, permanent cure. It is such a brilliant discovery, so different from the worthless suspensories and supporters that every man should send at once for a description of the method so he may begin curing himself in the privacy of his own home.

By writing to Dr. W. S. Rice, 456 R. Main St., Adams, N. Y., he will gladly mail, prepaid, a full description that will enable every sufferer to cure himself at a very trifling cost. Do not fail to write at once. Varicocele is a very dangerous disease.

GET READY

FOR EASTER

To-Day

HIGH CHARACTER CLOTHING.

We sell only the most reliable makes of clothing obtainable . . We are exclusively a men's and boys' clothing store and must of necessity be far better qualified to satisfy the public taste than stores which have 50 or 60 departments and sell everything imaginable . . . . Besides we sell for cash and therefore do not have to make one customer pay for what has been lost by another . . . . . From every point of view THE HUB is the most thoroughly reliable, the broadest, sincerest and only clothing house in Chicago for you to patronize.

Easter Millinery.

Those who postponed the selection of the Easter Hat even until this last day, need not suffer in consequence. We have kept much in reserve, with a view to maintaining a perfect showing to the last, and to-day's showing is magnificent—easily the best of the year. Every good fashion-idea of the season finds its truest interpretation in our cabinets.

An extra attraction to-day—all our Imported Patterns reduced to two special prices, $15 and $25. Millinery masterpieces from famous Paris designers—at less than they would cost you in Paris to-day.

The Juvenile Section is wonderfully attractive—crowded with bright, original styles for Easter. Several of our milliners devote their entire attention to Misses' and Girls' Hats. The dressier hats are marked at $5 to $20; the less elaborate kind, for every day wear, at $1 to $5.

Misses' Eton Jackets, Box Coats and Reefers.

Some bright new styles that arrived yesterday, just in time for Easter. A New York maker made us special prices upon them, to reduce his stock of materials. The price-advantage is yours.

Misses' Box Coats of tan Covert Cloth, all lined with tailor serge to match, $6.75.

In the New Basement Department.

Misses' Box Coats of Covert Cloth, all lined with tailor serge to match, $4.95.

Easter Veilings.

The most elaborate display of new Veils and Veilings this store has ever shown—every conceivable arrangement of dots and meshes, bewitching in effect and unapproachable in style and value.

Easter Things for Baby.

A special showing of new ideas in pretty Hats, Caps, Coats, etc., to-day. America's greatest Babies' Bazaar is splendidly prepared for Easter. In both values and variety, the stock is the best that our greatest efforts could perfect.

Infants' Long Coats of Bedford Cord, round collar, two deep ruffles, trimmed with fancy silk braid, $2.50.

Infants' Walking Coats of Bedford Cord square sailor collar, trimmed with satin ribbon; deep ruffle, with silk embroidered edge; ages, 6 months to 2 years, $2.85.

Boys' Easter Apparel.

We were never better prepared to satisfactorily provide fashionable and serviceable apparel for boys. Our new Spring lines are almost intact. The finest apparel produced for boys is on our counters. Garments which are made by men who are artists—who give their entire attention to the designing of handsome garments becoming to boyish figures—and who command salaries that only large manufacturers can afford to pay.

These finer garments are trimmed and finished according to our exact specifications, and have no superiors in fit or finish.

Our stock takes in all desirable grades of Boys' Clothing, and every garment sold here can be depended upon as the fullest value to be had at the price, anywhere.

Boys' Suits, $3.50 to $27.50; Boys' Overcoats, $5.00 to $20.00.

ROOT'S PLAN OF ARMY REWARDS.

MORE FOR RETIRED LIST.

CANAL BILL GETS SETBACK.

WASHINGTON BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Washington, D. C., April 13.

Secretary Root has recommended to Congress that provision be made for six additional Brigadier Generals of the regular army for the purpose of rewarding that number of prominent army officers who are serving in the field and whose record entitle them to this promotion. He proposes that when the commissions are made vacant by death or by retirement they shall not be refilled. This part of the clause, as suggested by Secretary Root, reads as follows:

Root Would Reward Army Officers.

"When the officers appointed are for any reason eliminated from the active list their places as general officers in the regular army shall not be filled."

In a statement which Mr. Root made before the military committee of the Senate he gave the names of Generals Wheaton, Bates, Chaffee, and Schwan as those of officers whom he believed to be entitled to this substantial recognition. Mr. Root has also urged that provision be made by the Senate in the pending army appropriation bill for the appointment of three general officers of volunteers to Brigadier Generalcies on the retired list. The proviso recommended is as follows:

"That the President may appoint from among the general officers of volunteers, now in service, three Brigadier Generals in the regular service with a view to placing them on the retired list of the regular army."

Quite a party will leave here tomorrow for Baltimore and will be the guests of Mr. Lawrence B. Kemp. In this company will be Secretary and Mrs. Gage and Miss Ruth Crandon, Mrs. Gage's niece, of Chicago, who arrived here this evening. Secretary and Mrs. Hitchcock, Attorney General and Mrs. Griggs, Representative and Mrs. Newlands, Miss Barber, Assistant Secretary Vanderlip, Mrs. Thurman and son, Mrs. Frank Washburn. After a drive through Baltimore the party will have lunch at the Kemp home and return to Washington in the afternoon.

Secretary Root made some candid remarks before the Senate Military committee recently in regard to the reorganization of the army. Said Senator Proctor: "Let me ask if there have not been quite numerous cases in the staff appointments where the men were either not specially fitted for the duties of that department, or for some reason have become inefficient, and whether the service would not be greatly improved if there was this flexible opportunity to change, and the men could be sent to some place in the line where they would be of use?"

Root Would Send Staff Men to Line.

The Secretary of War—That is undoubtedly so.

Senator Proctor—And more efficient men brought into the staff?

The Secretary of War—Undoubtedly so.

Senator Proctor—Has it not been an embarrassment and sometimes quite a serious one in administration?

The Secretary of War—Unquestionably. There are three things to be accomplished by this change. One is the effect on the staff itself. No man can keep up with the wants of a live army spending his time at a desk in an office. I regard it as of vital importance to the efficiency and life of the staff that its members shall go back to serve in the line and become from time to time revived in their knowledge and appreciation of the needs of the army and the things that ought to be done by the staff. I do not want to say anything against anybody or to criticise anybody.

Senator Sewell—I would like to know of any such cases myself. I know all these gentlemen. They have all come into the staff after twenty or twenty-five years of service, and generally for some gallant action. They are men who have been kept fifteen or twenty years and I do not know of any in the staff corps today that are inefficient or drones.

Senator Proctor—What is that? In any of the staff corps?

Senator Sewell—In any of them.

Senator Proctor—I should be pleased to make out a list for your private information.

Senator Sewell—It is well to make an assertion, but I would like to see them.

The Secretary of War—I am not going to make charges here against anybody. I will make this broad statement, that there is not a man in any staff corps in Washington that will not be benefited by going back into the line and spending a full year of service in the line; not one. Colonel Carter but recently came from the line, and I will undertake to say that if after the expiration of four years in the Adjutant General's office he will go back and go into the saddle in his cavalry regiment, and spend a year there, he would, upon a detail, be a better staff officer.

Senator Pettus—Mr. Secretary, you are more familiar with the subject than other people. Can you tell us what is the opinion of the army or this subject?

The Secretary of War—I think, sir, the opinion of the officers of the line of the army is almost unanimously in favor of this change. I do not think the staff is against it. I think there are a good many men in the staff who are against it, but there is a large proportion of the staff whom I am sure are in favor of it.

Colonel Marsh of the House Military Affairs committee today made a favorable report on the bill providing for the detail of retired officers of the army and navy to assist in military instruction in the schools of the country.

Notwithstanding the confidence of Representative Hepburn of Iowa of his ability to secure an agreement to take up the Nicaraguan Canal bill May 1, that measure received another setback today which probably will be the means of deferring action until next session. Mr. Hepburn asked unanimous consent for the consideration of his bill on May 1, but hardly had he done so before Mr. Burton of Ohio objected. That settled the matter for the time being, and, although Mr. Burton had partially assured the Iowa member that he would not object today, the Ohioan could not resist the temptation.

Nicaraguan Canal Bill Gets a Setback.

There are two reasons why Mr. Burton objects to taking up the Nicaraguan Canal bill at this time, one being that he desires to see the Hay-Pauncefote treaty ratified before Congress enacts any legislation looking toward the construction of the canal. Another is that he wishes to have the full report of the Nicaraguan Canal commission laid before Congress so as to give the body the latest information gathered by the commission.

It is believed Mr. Burton represents the President to some extent in objecting to the consideration of the canal bill before the treaty is disposed of, and it is said the President has passed the word down the line that it would be discourteous to Great Britain to legislate on this subject until the treaty had been either accepted or rejected.

Although failure has met the numerous efforts of Mr. Hepburn to get up his bill he is not discouraged, but still hopes he will secure time for its consideration.

In discussing the future food supply of Germany, Consul General Mason at Berlin says: "The debate now in progress in the German Reichstag over the proposed meat inspection act as prepared by a special commission of that body—which, if enacted, would practically stop all importation of live cattle and meats into Germany after the year 1903—has brought into revived prominence the question which has for years weighed on the heart of German economists, 'What will the industrial and commercial classes of the country do for food in the event that, by reason of war or some artificial prohibition inspired by the Agrarian party, the imported supplies of breadstuffs and meats should be practically cut off? Can the products of the farm, the dairy, and garden be augmented until they overtake and thenceforward keep pace with the steady increase of population, which under modern scientific sanitation and improved conditions of living is growing at a pace which neither war nor emigration nor other adverse influence can more than feebly counteract?'

Germany's Problem of Food Supply.

"'During the last century the population of the territory which now constitutes the German Empire has increased from about 20,000,000 to 56,000,000 souls. A similar increase would give Germany at the close of this century a population of nearly 100,000,000. How is this vast multitude to be fed, not only a hundred years hence, but during the next twenty or thirty years? On this point the teachings of past experience, although inconclusive, are not without a suggestive interest.

"'Notwithstanding all improvements in farming processes and duties and other obstacles thrown in the way of food imports by Agrarian influence, Germany imported during the last year 1,370,850 metric tons of wheat, 561,251 tons of rye, 259,147 tons of oats, 26,216 tons of buckwheat, 23,787 tons of beans, 58,872 tons of peas, 1,104,349 tons of barley, 1,626,595 tons of maize, 214,139 tons of potatoes, 143,730 tons of fresh fruits, 11,761 tons of butter, 47,961 tons of pork meats, 21,752 tons of beef and veal, besides fish, dried fruits, and other luxuries in large quantities."

By an almost unanimous vote the House this morning adopted a resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution providing for the election of Senators by the direct vote of the people. Several times the House has agreed to a resolution of this character, but when it reached the Senate that body smothered it to death. The same fate will undoubtedly befall the resolution agreed to today, and it would be a great surprise if the Senate should agree to it.

House Favors Direct Election of Senators.

The sentiment for an amendment of this kind is getting stronger every year, and not only have citizens of many of the States appealed to Congress to adopt legislation with a view of permitting Senators to be elected by a direct vote of the people, but the Legislatures of a number of States have also fallen into line.

The Clark case and other elections where bribery has been resorted to, and the failure of Legislatures to elect Senators, also has a tendency to strengthen the hands of those who would like to see the power of electing Senators taken away from the State Legislatures.

Some of the Senators themselves favor this plan, but it is certain if the Senate should vote upon this proposition it would be lost by an overwhelming vote.

There have been requests on the part of the woman relatives of army officers stationed in the Philippines for the privilege of joining the latter. The conditions have not altered recently sufficiently to warrant the War department in giving this permission, and it will probably be some time before this privilege is granted. To all the requests which are received for transportation to Manila on army transports Secretary Root has written the following letter:

Philippines No Place for Women Just Now.

"General Otis has requested that the ladies of officers' families should not be permitted to go to Manila. The officers themselves are liable at any time to be ordered to distant parts of the islands, so that they are unable to furnish protection for their families and Manila is not yet a place where it is proper that an American woman should live without protection. In such cases it will be necessary for the commanding General to furnish guards, and I cannot impose upon him that necessity.

"If a lady has male relatives living in Manila, in whose family she will live and who will furnish her protection in the absence of the officer on whose account she asks for transportation, the Quartermaster General is authorized to give her passage on a transport."

Director Merriam's salary will be increased from $6,000 to $7,500 if a bill introduced today by Representative Hopkins becomes a law. This measure also authorizes the chief clerk of the census office to act as superintendent and have general charge of all buildings occupied for the purpose of taking the census. For this service he will get a salary of $300 each year in addition to what he now receives. Another provision of the bill authorizes the Director of the Census to appoint, as the necessity may arise, one Superintendent of Printing at $2,500 annually, and such number of skilled mechanics and other persons in the census printing office as may be necessary to carry into effect the printing and binding provided for in the act authorizing the taking of the twelfth census, at the same compensation as is paid for similar work in the government printing office.

More Money for the Census Director.

From an official source in south Africa the War department today received a denial of the story that Captain Carl Reichmann, Seventeenth Infantry, who was sent to observe the operations of the Boer forces, had directed a movement of the Boer column which captured seven guns of Colonel Loughborough's battery near the Bloemfontein water works. When the story was first received in this country the War department officials did not believe it was true and could not see how an army officer representing a neutral power could so far forget himself as to take sides in a war, thus subjecting himself to the liability of a dishonorable discharge from the army and a term in the penitentiary.

The naval ship Mayflower, which was, before the war, a yacht owned by Ogden Goelet, will be used as the official craft of the new Porto Rican civil government when the present Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Mr. C. H. Allen, assumes the duties of that office. The Mayflower is one of the prettiest ships of the service, and is admirably adapted to the service upon which it will be engaged. The ship will be overhauled, and within thirty days will sail for San Juan. Mr. Allen will go to Porto Rico in the Texas, probably. That ship will arrive at Hampton Roads from Bermuda next Saturday.

Mayflower to Do Porto Rican Service.

Woman Dies in Evanston Street.

Mrs. Sophia Scheibe of Appleton, Wis., died suddenly on the street at Evanston yesterday at noon. She was walking south on Chicago avenue, near Main street, when she was seen to stagger and fall. J. C. Borri hastened to her assistance, but she was unconscious. Dr. D. R. Stockley was summoned, but life was extinct when he arrived. The remains were taken to the residence of her daughter, Mrs. John Westretcher, 725 Chicago avenue, and the Coroner will hold an inquest today. Mrs. Scheibe was 61 years old. Death is attributed to heart failure.

TENEMENT WAR TO GO ON

Will Examine Decrepit Structures on North, South, and West Sides—Unsafe or Insanitary Ones Must Go—Mayor Approves of the Crusade—Buildings at Morgan and Lake and in Desplaines Street Are Razed by Fire Department.

Beginning on Monday the Building department will carry on its warfare against insanitary tenements and unsafe buildings simultaneously in all divisions of the city. The full force of inspectors will be assigned to various districts and every bad structure found will be slated for demolition. On the North Side a squad of inspectors will work in the district lying between the river, Division street, Wells street, and the North Branch. On the South Side the inspection of the levee district will continue, particular attention being paid to Clark, State, and Dearborn streets, in the neighborhood of Twelfth, and to Fifth and Armour avenues. On the West Side buildings in Canal, Jefferson, Desplaines, and Clinton streets will be investigated.

"If buildings are unsafe or insanitary they should come down," said the Mayor. "If owners will not comply with the orders of the department, the usual method of having the Fire department perform the work of destruction should be followed."

"Will you sue the city for damages to the building at Morgan and West Lake streets?" was asked.

"Why, certainly not," was the reply, "but that belongs to my sister."

More Buildings Are Razed.

Half a dozen more unsanitary or unsafe tenement-houses were converted into kindling wood by Chicago firemen yesterday. One group of decrepit dwellings was at Morgan and Lake streets. The houses which fronted in Lake street included a number of lean-to's that held each other up, but threatened to come down in a heap. The buildings were all frame and the larger two stories high. In the rear was the abode of George Reams, naval veteran and ragpicker. This was not as big as a fair-sized coal shed.

The other buildings torn down were at 172 North Desplaines street, running back to the alley. The damage was estimated at 80 per cent. This collection comprised a number of fire traps, squatter's shacks, and huts whose owners either would not take the trouble to wreck them or had forgotten they had ever owned them, for the Building Commissioner, after waiting in vain for some one to comply with his orders, had to send a truck company to do the work.

The firemen began the attack with vigor. They had the roof off the front house almost before "Shorty, the rag picker," who was one of the inhabitants, had time to escape. "Shorty" had said he would not move and that the firemen would have to tear him out with the floors and the wall, but when the roof came off "Shorty" disappeared. In the middle house, a small two-story frame affair, reside a Norwegian and his wife. They have found a new dwelling but have not had time to move yet, so their house was spared until they have time to get out of it.

In the row of shacks at Morgan and Lake streets was one inhabited by Rosa Bovar, who said she had been paying $5 a month for the place. This the bystanders unanimously decided was $5 too much.

Many Claim the Rent.

It developed, however, that acting on the counsel of her neighbor, Mr. Ream, she had refused to pay the rent of late until she could have some assurance that she was paying it to the rightful owner. Ream declares that the ways of the owners of the property were beyond comprehension. He asserted that some half a dozen people had a habit of calling around every month for the rent. Sometimes a woman would come and demand the rental. Two days later a man would appear and say that no one else had authority to collect the rent but he, and a day or two later somebody else would call around and say he was the landlord and wanted the rent at once. Ream cut the Gordian knot by refusing to pay anybody. Ream said he was well satisfied with this arrangement, but when the firemen commenced cutting away his roof he decided that moving day had come. He thought he could find a new home before night. His neighbor also took her eviction cheerfully, so the old shacks came down without regret from anybody.

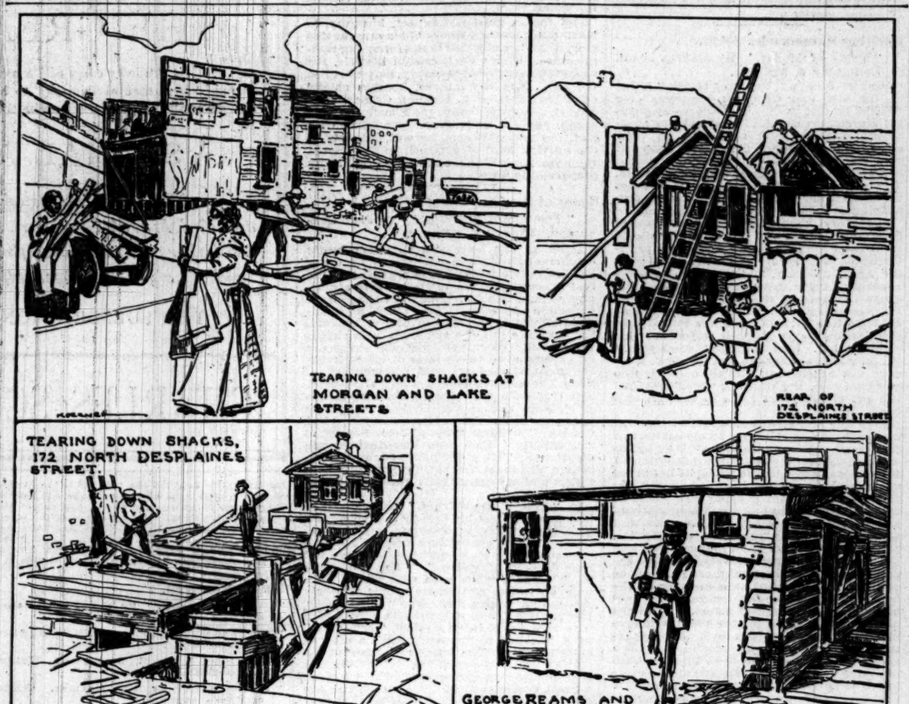

The Building Commissioner staid the hands of the firemen in other parts of the city, including the condemned houses in South Clark street, until next Monday, so that the inhabitants of the places to be razed might have time to move their effects.

More Owners Are Notified.

The building at 383 to 389 West Lake street, it has been found, is owned by Former Chief of Police Badenoch. Peremptory notice to tear down the house was sent him. The same action was taken with regard to the building at 2002 West Lake street, owned by the Lake Street Elevated railroad company. Inspectors are examining the row of frame buildings at the southeast corner of Quincy and Jefferson streets, and condemnation proceedings are expected.

Union Lutheran Service on Monday.

Three English Lutheran churches, Grace, Ravenswood, and Immanuel, will unite in Easter services on Monday night at Grace Church, Belden avenue and Larrabee street. President S. A. Ort of Wittenberg College will deliver an address, and a concert and reception will be given also.

TALKS BACK TO "WILLIE BOYS."

Mayor Harrison Claims Merit of Quitting Cigarets, at Least, and Says He Fears No Trouble.

"Well, I at least quit smoking cigarets when I became Mayor. I had some appreciation of the dignity of the position."

This statement was made by Mayor Harrison on his return to Chicago yesterday in reply to criticisms leveled at him by Alderman William Hale Thompson and other members of the Council whom the Executive classed as "Willie boys" in his campaign speeches. The Mayor had little to say in direct reply to Alderman Thompson's recent address before an assemblage of South Side business-men, at which the Alderman called the Mayor a "fake."

"So they class me as a 'Willie,' too, do they," said the Mayor. "I cut off the cigarets, just the same, when I took this office. They can beat me at any game I try, can they? Well, I thought I was pretty clever at some things, and I presume they are to be congratulated. O, I don't think they will cause a great deal of trouble. I guess we will get along all right."

HENRY RAID CASES DISMISSED.

Nearly 100 Defendants Go Without Prosecution Because No Witnesses Appear Against Them.

Cases against nearly 100 defendants were stricken from the calendar of the Criminal Court by Judge Gary yesterday, with leave to reinstate. The cases on the call were the final roundup of the raids of the Rev. John Q. A. Henry in 1898. The cases were stricken off because no witnesses were present to give evidence. Mr. Henry is living in New York. The first case dismissed was that of Fred Kammerer and fifty-two others, accused of setting up a lottery to dispose of $100. Some of the other charges were keeping a gaming-house, selling liquor without a license, and violating the primary election laws. The bucket shop cases, involving John and Joseph Vallely, W. H. Adams, F. H. White, William Baldwin, and others, were dismissed, as was the case of Alderman John Powers, ex-Alderman William O'Brien, James McDermott, and John Dorigan, accused of keeping gambling-houses.

ARREST BOYS WITHOUT CAUSE.

William Mackey and Edward Ostich Start for Church and Are Taken in Custody—Both Released.

William Mackey, 1247 West Twelfth street, and Edward Ostich, 1448 Harvard street, well dressed boys and neighbors of Justice Dooley, left their homes on Thursday evening to attend church services. Instead they were carried off to the Lawndale Police Station in a patrol wagon and held prisoners until released on bail furnished by their parents. When they appeared before Justice Dooley the evidence did not show they had committed any wrong, and the magistrate allowed both to go. The parents are indignant over their arrest. The policemen who arrested them finally admitted that the boys had committed no offense.

DINES INSTEAD OF HANGING.

Steiner Calls for an Extra Allowance of Food to Celebrate His Renewed Lease of Life.

Instead of making final preparations for the march to the gallows yesterday, Frank Steiner was enjoying the freedom of the exercise corridor outside of murderers' row in the County Jail. He called for an extra allowance of dinner at the hour he would have stood upon the scaffold had not the Supreme Court granted him a supersedeas on Thursday. "I now hope for a new trial, and if I get it I expect a different result at the next presentation of the evidence," said Steiner.

ACQUITTED OF MURDER CHARGE

Jury Exonerates William E. Cole for Killing Mrs. Clara Wolfe on Plea Shooting Was Accidental.

A verdict of acquittal was returned in Judge Gary's court yesterday morning by the jury in the case of William E. Cole, who was charged with murder. Cole shot and killed Mrs. Clara Wolfe in the latter's house, 3129 Cottage Grove avenue, on the night of July 22, 1899. Cole's plea was that he drew his revolver to strike John Wolfe, the woman's husband, with whom he was struggling, and that the shooting was accidental.

CHARGES AGAINST PREACHERS.

Bishop Handy of the African M. E. Church Causes Sensation in Virginia Conference.

Norfolk, Va., April 13.—Bishop Handy, the venerable presiding officer of the Virginia conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, created somewhat of a sensation today by announcing that he had received letters making charges of drinking, dishonesty, and immorality against some of the preachers then on the conference floor. He said that he would place the entire matter in the hands of an investigating committee and that the guilty preachers need expect no quarter.

DECRY ANTI-CAPITAL FAD

MANUFACTURERS TALK OF HOSTILITY SHOWN TO CORPORATIONS.

This Makes Possible Plans in Aurora and Other Cities to Attract Manufacturing Plants from Chicago—All Urge Return to Policy of Few Years Ago—Labor Difficulties Only One Element in Situation—Mayor Harrison Says 'It's All Bosh."

The inducements held out by the smaller cities surrounding Chicago for the location of manufacturing plants prove alluring. A prominent business-man predicted yesterday that unless there was a radical change in the treatment of local industries many would move beyond the city limits during the next year. The condition is due not entirely to the labor difficulties, but partly to what he termed "a fad for the persecution of corporations in the city."

"The time was when efforts were made to attract capital to the city for investment," he said, "but, deplorable as it may appear, just the reverse of that policy is followed now. In a thousand and one ways the manufacturer is subjected to petty annoyances. Politicians see in an attack on them a way to gain the support of the unthinking classes. Public officials are lax in extending the proper protection of the law, hoping thereby to further their political ambitions. On top of it all occupants of the City Hall denounce them as 'tax dodgers and violators of law,' and apply all sorts of derogatory terms to the most reputable firms in the city."

Discouraging, Says W. J. Chalmers.

"Conditions in this city are discouraging," said William J. Chalmers. "We are told that sufficient police protection cannot be given us because the city has not the money to pay for it. Would it not be a better policy to go in debt if necessary to secure the proper protection? I have read of the efforts being made by some of our neighboring cities to attract Chicago firms. Public sentiment should be aroused to bring about a more liberal policy on the part of the city. There is no way of estimating the injury being done to us daily. I presume that all we can do is to wait and hope that an era of good feeling will follow this unsettled condition."

M. B. Madden Hopes for a Change.

"I was talking with a director of a large Chicago manufacturing plant today and he told me that he knew of one firm that intended moving to Aurora and of another which would move," said Martin B. Madden of the Western Stone company. "There is no desire upon my part to injure Chicago by speaking of the present conditions. I only mention them in the hope that public sentiment will be aroused. For the last three years there has been a concerted attack carried on against large firms of this city. The labor trouble is only one of the evils. The hope of the future lies in enterprise and liberality as it existed five years ago."

C. A. Plamondon Urges Reform.

"Our association realizes that there are some discriminations against manufacturers in this city," said Charles A. Plamondon, President of the Illinois Manufacturers' association. "The bad condition of the streets causes a loss to large firms in cartage. We are willing to be taxed for improvements, but we want the improvements carried out as planned. Chicago is naturally the best manufacturing point in the United States. There should be a concerted movement looking to a correction of the existing evils. I do not believe that any number of firms will move out, but the mere suggestion of such a possibility is unfortunate. An attack on the industries of the city is indirectly an attack on every man who earns a dollar in the city."

Mayor Harrison Is Blamed.

"Mayor Harrison, more than any other one man, is responsible for the conditions which give rise to the efforts to induce Chicago concerns to leave here," said the manager of a large local firm. "His 'sympathetic strike policy' administration is working injury to our city every day. He is losing the support of an element that heretofore has been friendly towards him."

"What of the efforts of citizens of Aurora and other cities to get Chicago's factories?" Mayor Harrison was asked.

"O, that's bosh," he replied. "If Sam Alschuler at Aurora doesn't quit that sort of agitation I won't be with him when he wants the Democratic nomination for Governor."

"It's nonsense," was Corporation Counsel Walker's opinion on this matter.

"Why, the factories couldn't be pulled out of here with engines," said Chief Kipley.

LEAGUE AND POLICE COMBINE.

Plan Is to Start Vigorous War Against South Side "Blind Pig" and Gambling Places.

The police and the Englewood Law and Order league will work together to suppress illegal liquor traffic and gambling resorts on the South Side. This was determined yesterday at a conference between C. W. Jones, Secretary of the league, and Jesse W. Gilman, who has charge of this department in Inspector Hunt's district. The league has already started active operations. It is understood that the league will invade Hyde Park, where its agents are unknown, while Detective Gilman will send his men to Englewood, where they are comparative strangers. In this manner they hope to circumvent the "blind pig" keepers.

URGES ALL TO HIDE JEWELRY.

Chief Kipley Gives Advice to Householders for Preventing Successful Raids by Porch-Climbers.

Chief of Police Kipley, aroused by the failure of the police to find the porch-climbers who robbed the residence of Orrin W. Potter, 130 Lake Shore drive, of $16,000 worth of jewels, has called on householders to coöperate with the authorities. In a long article in the Police Bulletin he points out the methods of operation followed by porch-climbers, and asserts that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and outlines rules by which citizens may keep out these thieves.

The Chief urges on householders "extra care and precaution in the matter of locking doors and windows. The same rule applies to the women of the house, who are in the habit of leaving their jewelry lying around on top of stands or in unlocked drawers. They should at all times endeavor to have these articles, when not in use, in some secret place.

"Porch-climbers or 'supper-workers,'" the statement continues, "almost invariably enter through the second-story windows, which they reach by climbing up pillars of porches. The professional porch-climber familiarizes himself with the habits and customs of his intended victims, watches the women of the house, notices what jewelry they wear, and if possible where they place it when they take it off."

Timothy McQuaid was armed with all the utensils used by porchclimbers when he was arrested late Thursday night by Detective Sergeants Fitzgerald and Burke after a chase through a down-town alley. He is held pending an investigation.

LAW TO APPLY TO GAYNORS.

Case of the Indicted Contractors Suggests Change by Which Prisoners May Be Removed.

Washington, D. C., April 13.—A new law is suggested, growing out of the proceedings instituted by the Department of Justice to secure the removal to Savannah, Ga., of Benjamin D. Green, John F., William T., and Edward H. Gaynor, and Michael A. Connolly, who were indicted by the grand jury of the United States District Court of Georgia for conspiring to defraud the United States in connection with Captain Carter. The United States Commissioner at New York held that the certified copy of the Georgia indictment, followed by the identification of the defendants, was sufficient to justify their removal.

District Judge Addison Brown, however, held to the contrary, and further that the government was required, by affirmative proof, to make out a case of probable guilt, and that the defendants were entitled to go fully into their defense and to produce evidence on their part to rebutt the presumption of guilt raised by the proofs of the government.

The Attorney General takes issue with Judge Brown as to the correctness of his ruling, but with a view to a final settlement of the question has sent to the chairman of the Judiciary committees of both Houses of Congress a draft of a bill which, if it becomes a law, will have the effect of compelling the removal of persons indicted for offenses against the United States from the place of arrest to the district where the offense is committed.

VOLKMAR FOR PORTO RICO.

Assistant Adjutant General at Chicago May Be Assigned to Island Duty.

Washington, D. C., April 13.—Colonel William J. Volkmar, Assistant Adjutant General at Chicago, has been ordered before an Army Retiring board for examination as to his fitness for active service. In case the board reports that Colonel Volkmar is not incapaciated for active duty he probably will be assigned to duty as Adjutant General of the Department of Porto Rico, to relieve Colonel William P. Hall, who has been transferred to duty at Chicago.

BUYS THE HOLLAND BOAT.

Navy Department Signs a Contract for the Purchase of Submarine Craft.

Washington, D. C., April 13.—The Navy department has signed a contract with the Holland Submarine Torpedo Boat company by the terms of which the government pays $150,000 for the Holland. It also agrees to pay $175,000 each for any boats of the Holland type it may purchase hereafter, provided that the boats shall be similar in dimensions to the new Holland, which will be larger than the old one.

JOHN ADDISON PORTER RESIGNS

President McKinley's Secretary Forced by Ill-Health to Give Up His Position.

Washington, D. C., April 13.—Owing to continued ill-health John Addison Porter, secretary to the President, has offered his resignation and the President has accepted it, to take effect on May 1. George B. Cortelyou of New York, the present assistant secretary to the President, has been appointed to the office. Mr. Porter's physicians enjoin complete rest and change.

GRAB IN LAKE TOWN ENJOINED.

Justice Restrains New Supervisor from Paying $10,000 in Salaries Voted Illegally, It Is Alleged.

An injunction has headed off a salary grab by town officers in the Town of Lake. On the petition of J. E. McDermott, Justice Gibbons has restrained the recently elected Supervisor, Albert F. Gorman, from paying Collector Murphy $5,000, Clerk Smolke $2,000, and himself $3,000 for the coming year. The petition declares that the annual town meeting on April 3, when increases were voted, was illegal, as notice had not been given according to law. Vigorous action by retiring Supervisor Healy was all that prevented a "grab" of $4,200 by retiring town officers at a meeting of the Town Auditors on Wednesday afternoon.

COURTROOMS FOR REUNIONS.

Sheriff Places Those in County Building at the Disposal of the G. A. R. Managers.

Sheriff Magerstadt yesterday notified Executive Director Harper of the Grand Army encampment that the eighteen courtrooms of the County Building may be used for the regimental and brigade reunions. This brings all these reunions in the same vicinity and gives them ample room. The Committee on Invitations for the encampment met in General John C. Black's office, adopted a design, and decided to issue nearly 10,000 invitations.

Retail Druggists Elect Officers.

The following officers were elected yesterday by the Retail Druggists' association: President, George W. Graves; Vice Presidents, John I. Strow, Herman Fry, S. C. Youman; Secretary, T. V. Wooten; Treasurer, Walter Gale; Board of Trustees, Bruno Batt, George E. Malone, George R. Baker, B. S. Gooban, J. S. Stiles, and Charles Lange.

House Cuts Capron Pensions.

Washington, D. C., April 13.—The House today favorably acted on fifty-three pension bills, among which were two Senate bills to increase the pensions of the widows of Captain Allyn Capron and Captain Allyn K. Capron, father and son, who fell during the Spanish war. The Senate fixed the rate of each of these widows at $40. The House reduced the amount to $25 in the case of the former and $30 in the case of the latter.

WILL OF SILAS B. COBB FILED.

Estate Estimated at $3,500,000 Bequeathed Chiefly to Relatives.

TO CHARITIES, $87,500.

Large Residuary Property to Be Held in Trust for a Term of Years.

GREATER PART IS REALTY.

The will of Silas B. Cobb, disposing of property estimated in value at $3,500,000, but likely to run to a much higher figure, was filed in the Probate Court yesterday. After disposing of property to various heirs named as relatives the will bequeaths $85,000 to four Chicago charitable institutions.

Provision is made that the residuary estate, after the payment of specific bequests, shall be divided into three parts, one-third of the personal property to be given, two years after the death of the testator, to his daughter, Mrs. William B. Walker, the remaining two-thirds to be held in trust until the youngest grandchild of the testator is 25 years old. At the end of that time one-third is to be given to the testator's other living daughter, Mrs. Walter Denegre of New Orleans, and the remaining one-third to the three children of a daughter now dead. These three grandchildren are Silas C. Coleman, Joseph G. Coleman, and Mrs. Jarvis Hunt.

All of the real property in the estate is to be held in trust until the final distribution of the personal property, and then divided among the persons who receive the residuary personal estate and in the same proportions.

Specific Bequests in the Will.

The specific bequests made in the will are as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Home for the Friendless | $50,000 |
| Chicago Orphan Asylum | 25,000 |
| Old People's Home | 5,000 |
| Young Men's Christian association | 5,000 |
| American Sunday School union, Philadelphia | 2,500 |
| William B. Walker | 25,000 |

The sum of $2,500 to each of the following, a nephew and nieces:

| | |
|---|---|
| Marie Launders, | Mary Cobb, |
| Edwin Cobb. | |

The sum of $1,000 to each of the following nephews and nieces:

| | |
|---|---|
| Charles Stiles, | William M. Gleason, |
| Orpha Montgomery, | Julia Sheppard, |
| Walter F. Cobb, | Robert B. Dodson, |
| Adaline M. Gleason, | Benjamin W. Dodson, |
| Mary Dodson, | Eva Hollister, |
| Charles Dodson, | Ellen Woodworth, |
| Sarah J. Walker, | Marion Bird, |
| William Carpenter, | Byron Bird, |
| Julia Talbot, | Frances McKee, |
| Edwin Bird, | Anstis C. Gary, |
| William Stiles, | Ellen Manning. |
| George D. Cobb. | |

Estate to Be Held in Trust.

All of the property is given in trust to William B. Walker, a son-in-law, and Clarence Buckingham, who are made executors of the will. The will does not estimate the value of the estate. It first directs that $500,000 in notes and bonds be set aside as a building fund until the youngest of the grandchildren of the testator reaches the age of twenty-five years.

The bequest of $25,000 to Mr. Walker is given "as a recognition of faithful and efficient services in the management of the estate."

It is provided that William B. Walker shall have the principal charge of the estate and that his pay for the services to be rendered shall be $7,500 a year. The salary of Clarence Buckingham is fixed at $2,000 a year. These salaries shall continue at these amounts up to the date of the distribution of the estate, according to the directions of the testator. After that date, and until the final report and the closing of the estate, the salary of Mr. Walker is to be $2,500 and of Mr. Buckingham $1,000.

In connection with the bequests to charitable institutions, which were made in a codicil dated Nov. 4, 1896, it is provided that any sums given to the beneficiaries by the testator prior to his death shall be accounted as advance payments on the bequests.

Will Made in 1895.

The will was made on Feb. 4, 1895, James L. High and Josiah L. Lombard being witnesses. No petition was filed with the will, and the actual value of the estate will not be known to the heirs until the itemized statement is given in the petition yet to be filed. It is believed, however, that it will reach a much higher figure than the estimate of $3,500,000.

The greater part of the estate of Silas B. Cobb consists of Chicago real estate. His personal property holdings, however, were large, including chiefly stocks and bonds of the Chicago City railway company and of the People's Gaslight and Coke company.

COLORADO WILL GET $50,000.

President Slocum Notifies Dr. D. K. Pearsons His Conditions Have Been Complied With.

President William F. Slocum of Colorado College, Colorado Springs, came to Chicago yesterday to notify Dr. D. K. Pearsons that the terms of the $50,000 gift which Dr. Pearsons made to the college some time ago have been complied with, and that a $60,000 laboratory building has been erected. Dr. Pearsons' gift will be used as an endowment for the building. The college, which has over 600 students, is the only institution of the kind in the Rocky Mountains.

SAYS LIBERTY IS IN DANGER.

John F. Finerty Tells Single Taxers That Political Machines and British Influence Threaten It.

In an address delivered last night before the Single Tax club at Handel Hall John F. Finerty declared that unless a determined effort was made to overthrow the political machines American liberty soon would be a thing of the past. "Our conventions have become mere caucuses and our primaries are a mere matter of form," he said. The growing influence of England also was a danger, he thought.

COMPLAIN OF ASHPALT PAVING.

Brookdale Property-Owners Want Assyrian Company's Bondsmen Held Liable for Work Done.

Property-owners of Brookdale last night organized a campaign against the asphalt streets laid by the Assyrian Asphalt company in 18[illegible] and guaranteed for five years. The first move will be to urge the Department of Public Works to hold the company's bondsmen liable. Failing in this, they will employ an attorney and fight the remaining assessments in court. The property-owners say both the base and the surfacing are of inferior quality, and that the streets are already in a bad condition.

BOOKS OF THE WEEK.

Southern Life Since the War.

"The Voice of the People." By Ellen Glasgow. Doubleday, Page & Co.

MISS ELLEN GLASGOW'S latest novel does not quite fulfill the promise of "The Descendant," but it shows the same marks of more than average ability. Its vital defect is its lack of unity and dramatic sequence. Its redeeming merits are its humor and pathos, its vivid vignettes of Southern character, and its excellent portrayal of social and political life in the South since the war. Miss Glasgow is a Virginian, with a keen eye for every foible and every noble trait of her people, and her characters have life, but she has not yet succeeded in combining them into a logical and powerful story. She has the talent for portrayal, but not for sustained dramatic construction.

In its atmosphere and characters "The Voice of the People" reminds one of Thomas Nelson Page's "Red Rock." Its main scenes are laid in a small but intensely proud old town called Kingsborough, not many miles from Richmond. The time is chiefly since the reconstruction era. The characters include types both of the old régime and of the modern South that knows the trolley car. Both types are depicted with a skill and sympathy that lend the book a distinction which it could never have merely as a story.

The author's purpose is to describe the rise of Nicholas Burr, a poor boy of the "common" class. Nick's struggles against class prejudice, against the stigma of a shiftless parentage, and against all the forces that tend to keep him down, constitute the thread upon which the author's snap shots of Southern life are hung. Nicholas' love for Eugénia Battle, the daughter of an aristocratic confederate General, furnishes the romantic and tragic element.

Probably it is no mere coincidence that Miss Glasgow's hero, with his sandy hair, large hands, and uncouth aspect as a boy, is strongly suggestive of the descriptions of Jefferson in his youth. Nick's first break for liberty occurs when the awkward barefoot boy begs a book from Judge Bassett, and one of the first books he reads is a life of Jefferson. The inspiration of that book stays with him from that hour to the days when he becomes Governor of Virginia. One of its first effects is to send him to the rector.

"I want to join the church," he said, bluntly.

"You are young, my child," the rector replied, "to be so zealous a Christian."

"'Tain't that, sir," said the boy, slowly. "I don't set much store by that. But I've got to go to heaven—because I can't see Thomas Jefferson no other way."

Nick's father is a dull ne'er-do-well, whose only bright saying is, "When you raise peanuts you're raisin' trouble." The boy's stepmother, Marthy, is an unlettered, kindly soul, who comforts him on the score of his red hair by saying that the Lord is the only dyer who could make hair of that color, adding: "An' I ain't one to deny that the Lord has got good taste in his own line." Then there are the negro characters to furnish dialect humor. Delphy, a large mulatto woman with enormous hands that "looked as if they had been parboiled into a livid blue tint," holds forth thus on the subject of "no 'count niggers" in general and on her worthless son-in-law in particular:

'Tain' no use fer to hoe groun' dat ain' got no richness, en' 'tain' no use preachin' ter a nigger dat ain' got no gumption. Es de tree fall, so hit gwine ter lay, en es a fool's done been born, so he gwine ter die. 'Tain' no use a-tryin' fer to do over a job dat de Lawd done slighted. Dar ain' no use er my frettin' an' perfumin' over dat ar nigger. He wuz born a' syndicate an' he'll die a syndicate. De debbil he ain' gwine tu'n 'm, en de Lawd he can't.

Some of the minor characters are fully as interesting as Nicholas and Eugénia, whom the reader watches growing up, playing, loving, and quarreling betimes. In Eugénia's house, for instance, one gets a glimpse of Aunt Griselda, acrid and fault-finding, who had come as a guest to stay over night and had staid twenty years, but was still treated as a guest. Sixty years ago Aunt Griselda had had her romance, and she still kept her love letters tied up with discolored ribbons and laid away in the cedar chest. Sometimes she sat in her stiff bombazine skirt and read them through her spectacles, with bleared, watery eyes, and would think herself again a high-spirited girl, parting from her lover in a sudden quarrel: "Those subtle sentimentalities which linger like aromas in a heart too aged for passion were liberated by the bundle of yellow scrawls written by hands that were dust." Then she would put them tenderly away and go down-stairs to flinch before kindly eyes and make embittered speeches in her high, shrill voice.

There is a loud-talking old General Battle, always saying alarming things and doing generous deeds, and there is proud and unbending Mrs. Webb, the typical confederate widow, who keeps boarding-house in a condescending manner, and is the awe and admiration of all the men of the old school. Her pride has never been lowered and her crêpe has never been laid aside. She breathes the atmosphere of Kingsborough itself, the ancient town whose proudest boast is that it has been and is not—whose greatness has passed as a trumpet that is blown.

But from these sad hued and lavender-scented portions of the book it is refreshing to turn to the types of the new South, and to follow Miss Glasgow in her remarkably realistic portrayal of modern politics. For Nick's early struggles to get an education bring success after many setbacks. But on the verge of this success there occur two stirring love scenes between him and Eugénia, for they are now engaged. One ends in this fashion:

"I do not wish the man I love to—to speak to that Pollard girl," gasped Eugénia.

"Since you wish it, I will avoid her in future. She is nothing to me; but I can't refuse to speak to her. You are unreasonable."

The figure of Amos Burr loomed large in her mind's eye, and she hated herself for the discovery that she was tracing his sinister likeness in his son.

"If you think me so unreasonable," she returned, "we may as well——"

He reached her side by a single step and flung his arm about her. Then he looked into her face and laughed softly.

"May as well what—dearest?" he asked.

She shook an obstinate head.

"You don't love me," was her inevitable feminine challenge.

He laughed again. "Do I love you?" he demanded as he looked at her.

She did not answer, but the shade of Amos Burr melted afar.

"Do I love you—now?" he asked.

"Yes—yes—yes." She freed herself with a laugh that dispelled the lingering cloud. "You may convince me next time without violence," she affirmed, radiantly.

As he watched her his large nostrils twitched whimsically. "You were saying that we might as well——"

"Go home to supper," she finished triumphantly. "The sun has set."

The author's touch in that scene is both light and sure, and there is nothing mawkish in it either. It leaves an idyllic impression that is suddenly and dramatically shattered in the next scene, where the same whispered scandal about the "Pollard girl" again intervenes between the lovers, and they part forever. The injustice of Eugénia's suspicions goads Nicholas to blurt out the fact that her own brother is the guilty man, and then his rage becomes uncontrollable, and he curses the brother and tells Eugénia she is nothing to him. The parting is really the climax of the story, though it occurs in the middle of the book.

From that time forth Nicholas is a stern, just, upright, ambitious man. The love tragedy of his life hardens him, but does not change the fiber of his character. Eugénia marries his rival, Dudley Webb, and the story hastens on to middle life. The later chapters portray the scenes and methods of a political convention in which Nicholas Burr and Dudley Webb are running neck and neck for the nomination for Governor. Nicholas wins, and there follows a detailed description of the routine of a Governor's life. The only dramatic incident here is that in which Eugénia comes and begs her former lover to pardon her brother—the one whose sins shattered their love. The Governor's stern refusal and his subsequent struggle with himself are not without force.

The further account of the contest for the United States Senatorship serves to bring out Nicholas Burr's stubborn honesty, as does also his resistance of the lynching evil, but the final episode in which he meets his death, while it is characteristic of the man, is not satisfactory because it has no dramatic or logical connection with the rest of the story. This is the chief defect of Miss Glasgow's work—that its characters and scenes change so rapidly and so often as to leave only the impression of a series of cinematograph views rather than of one great and harmonious painting.

For Lovers of Wild Flowers.

"Nature's Garden: An Aid to Knowledge of Our Wild Flowers and Their Insect Visitors." By Neltje Blanchan. Illustrated. Doubleday & McClure.

Neltje Blanchan, the author of two excellent popular books on birds, has rendered a similar service on behalf of American wild flowers in "Nature's Garden." It is a handsome volume of 400 large pages, with fifty-six superb illustrations of familiar wild flowers in their natural colors—the product of the ever-wonderful three-color process. There are also over sixty excellent half-tone illustrations of flowers. The pictures alone are an excellent help in identifying flowers.

The author has described over 500 species of wild flowers, arranging their brief and spirited life histories on a simple scheme of five color groups. The result is an admirable popular handbook for the easy identification and study of wild flowers. But the special raison d'être for the volume lies in the fact that it is the first to treat the subject at length from the view point of the interesting and vital relationship between the flowers and the insects to which each is adapted. Scientists have estimated that if all bees should perish more than half the flowers in the world would be exterminated with them for lack of any agency to carry their fertilizing pollen. Neltje Blanchan has treated the bees and flowers together, and has done it with an originality and charm of literary style which may be inferred from this brief extract:

Is it enough to know the name of the flower you meet in the meadow? The blossom has its inner meaning, hopes, and fears that inspire its brief existence, a scheme of salvation for its species in the struggle for survival that it has been slowly perfecting with some insect's help through ages. It is not a passive thing to be admired by human eyes, nor does it waste its sweetness on the desert air. It is a sentient being, impelled to act intelligently through the same strong desires that animate us, and endowed with certain powers differing only in degree, but not in kind, from those of the animal creation. Desire ever creates form.

Do vice and virtue exist side by side in the vegetable world also? Yes, and every sinner is branded as surely as was Cain. The dodder, Indian pipe, broom rape, and beech drops wear the floral equivalent of the striped suit and the shaved head. Although claiming most exalted and respectable kinsfolk, they are degenerates not far above the fungi.

One does not need to accept literally the author's fanciful, but evidently earnest, theories about the sentiency and intelligence of plants in order to feel the charm of this book or to acknowledge its practical value. It is a work with distinction in its style and both beauty and accuracy in its illustrations.

A Beautiful Spanish Story.

It was of Señor Valdés that Mr. Howells was thinking when he wrote: "We Americans are apt to think because we have banged the Spanish warships to pieces that we are superior to the Spaniards, but here in the field where there is always peace they shine our masters. If we have any novelists to compare with theirs at their best, I should be puzzled to think of them, and I should like to have some one else try." This sounds like strong praise to unfamiliar American ears, but it inspires interest. And this interest is augmented by Sylvester Baxter's introductory statement that Señor Valdés has declared this story to be a protest against the eternal theme of the French novel.

When we first meet Captain Ribot he is getting his joy out of his favorite dish of tripe in a certain shop situated on the Spanish wharf at Gijon. From this pleasure he is snatched by fate, which calls upon him to rescue a drowning woman. He saves the lady, but loses his heart to her daughter; or, as he expresses it: "If I was not on fire, at least I had on board all the materials for the fire." But cold water is thrown upon these flames, and some of the drops reach the reader, when, later, the beautiful Cristina casually refers to the coming of her husband. Yet this knowledge does not put out the fire, and the reader is prepared to cry impatiently: "Señor Valdés, you are no better than the French authors," but he is far better.

The scene of action, or inaction—for the Spanish writer is a realist—now changes to Valencia, the beautiful city where flowers are so general that "the sending of them is like saying good morning." It is here that Marti and his lovely wife, Doña Cristina, have their luxurious home, and it is here that their friend, Captain Ribot, comes to visit them. The husband and wife are devotedly in love, and the former is the most engaging and genial of men. Yet at first the Captain allows his own love to feed upon glances, upon the touch of a dress, or the stealing of a handkerchief; but Doña Cristina frowns upon any other feeling than that of friendliness. At last the better self of the Captain awakes—it is never altogether asleep—so that when discussing a Spanish writer who had killed himself out of love for a married woman he is able to say:

"If capricious fortune should ever drag me, like Larra, into being enamored of a woman who belonged to another I should not perfidiously attempt to gain her affection away from her husband, to win pleasure or joy. At least I should not hesitate to strike down my own joy pitilessly. I should rather try to make use of my poor imagination, as great Petrarch made use of his divine one, to love her, to keep her image sacred in the depths of my heart, to give her unselfish adoration; and my life, by contact with this pure love, would gain elevation and nobility."

The Captain is true to his convictions and he rises to supreme moral heights at the end of the book. This ending is exquisitely touching and leaves the reader in a glow of enthusiasm and gratitude, which certainly cannot be said for the French novels.

The character of Doña Cristina is deliciously drawn, and some of the other characters are not far behind her. And there are some charming touches of humor in the old mother, "with a heart that spread itself like butter over the first comer," and in the selfish and sensual Sabas, the brother of Cristina, who was so intolerant towards his wife on that old subject of unsewed buttons. In Castell, the treacherous partner of Marti and the would-be lover of his wife, we have a picture of the typical French hero that the author so abhors.

It has been truly called a book of manners, the modern manners of provincial Spain, and it is only by dipping into it that one can extract its charm. And if the story presents the old moral, that virtue brings its own reward, of which Stevenson said there is nothing less proved or less probable, we can think no less of it for that, especially when this moral is revealed by means of a consummate art.

Exciting Romance by Jokai.

"Debts of Honor." By Maurus Jokai. Doubleday & McClure.

Maurus Jokai's "Debts of Honor" is one of the best and strongest romances ever written by that prolific and deservedly popular Hungarian author. It shows his characteristic traits and tendencies in their most favorable light. The plot is good and well calculated to support the wild rioting in which he always indulges his imagination. The introduction of the gypsy element gives the story color and motion, and makes possible some exciting dramatic situations.

The story begins with several widely diverging strands and moves rather slowly until these come together and begin to intertwine. The reader is first introduced to the Aronffy family, and told how, for three generations, the curse of suicide has hung above the head of the family. Lorand and Desiderius Aronffy, before starting off as students to a German town, are told of this, and Desiderius is to keep watch over his elder brother. Lorand commits some youthful folly and is obliged to flee. He first, however, has a reckoning with the comrade who betrayed him, the result of which is that at the end of ten years he is to take his own life.

Here this first strand is dropped to present a godless man who lives in an old castle, and shocks all men and outrages all laws by his ways of living. He has surrounded himself with a lot of servants, to whom he has given pagan names, and has installed as mistress of his establishment a gypsy girl, whom he dresses in silks, and to whom he gives control of his whole estate. Here it is that Lorand, after many interesting experiences, comes as a fugitive from justice. The fact that he is a fugitive commends him to the master, and he is straightway hired as steward and installed as a member of the house. For the allotted ten years he lives here under an assumed name, and in the meantime the gypsy mistress learns to love him as only a gypsy can love. Another interesting character in the neighborhood is a mysterious gypsy, who lives in a deserted haystack in the midst of a swamp, to cross which is perilous and well nigh impossible Still another is an old man who calls himself a saint, but the depth of whose iniquity is past all finding out, as later events prove.

At the end of ten years Lorand's old comrade, who had betrayed him, turns up to remind him that he is to die, but at the farewell banquet which he gives his younger brother appears with startling information regarding the unfair means by which the lot of death fell to his brother, and Lorand is free to live. Shortly after this he and the godless old man burn the mysterious hayrick, which is their own property. As a result the castle is straightway attacked by a band of robbers, and then tragic events follow thick and fast. There are discoveries of undreamed of crimes, with consequent retribution. Secret and wicked associations and relations are all brought to light, and every one standing in the way of a happy ending in some way meets a convenient death.

The story is complex with diversions and details too numerous to mention. It is highly romantic, and with every page the interest increases, until at the last it grows wildly exciting and leaves nothing to be desired.

More Irish Folk Tales.

"The Bewitched Fiddle." By Seumas MacManus. Doubleday & McClure.

Seumas MacManus prefaces his little volume of short stories entitled "The Bewitched Fiddle" with an apology in which he says that at the present moment, when the world is painfully intent on the hunt for happiness, he feels it inopportune for a vagrant to set up his merry-go-round by the way and with amazing impudence invite it (the world) to halt for an hour's frivolity. But it is to be feared the frivolities of Mr. MacManus' merry-go-round in this case are not enticing enough to draw many aside from their pursuit of happiness, so he need not let his qualms of consciousness trouble him seriously.

"The Bewitched Fiddle" is in the Irish dialect, as are a number of the other tales, and it tells of Solomon Cassidy's fiddle, from which nothing but hymns had emanated since its master "had turned over a new laif 'an' begun lookin' on the other side of the picther." Solomon with his fiddle, on the way to prayer-meeting, stopped at the cabin of the fairy-man, Higgarty, to light his pipe. Higgarty succeeded in making three surreptitious passes over the fiddle, and when Solomon arrived at the prayer-meeting and got up to play the first hymn the tune that came from his bow was "Go to the Devil and Shake Yourself." By degrees the shocked and prayerful congregation began shuffling its feet, and the first thing it knew it had danced out in the moonlight and all the way to the graveyard, where it might have been pirouetting to this day if Higgarty hadn't appeared to remove the spell. Aside from one or two other such fairy tales the stories depict various phases of peasant life in Ireland. "When Myles McGuire Melted" is an interesting account of a St. Patrick's day in New York City. The stories are of the kind one might enjoy hearing read aloud, but to sit down alone with them would be tiresome.

Good Romance of Navarre.

"A Man of His Age." By Hamilton Drummond. Illustrated. Harper & Bros.

Notwithstanding the constant assurance of some critics of high standing that the historical romance has had its day, and that the tide has turned again in the direction of realism, the novel of adventure based upon history continues to appear with a regularity that must be disturbing to said critics. Whatever the latter may say, it is evident that novelists are still writing and a considerable portion of the reading public at least is encouraging them to write stories of "sad, far-off things," instead of chronicling the happenings of the life around them today. As there are many tastes besides those of the critics, this is well. As a kind of complement to history and as supplying a larger field for invention and idealization the historical romance has a field and lovers of its own, and has had ever since the author of "Waverley" showed the possibilities in this kind of narrative.

Mr. Drummond's "A Man of His Age" deals with an interesting country and time. Navarre has had a unique history, and to it has fallen greater fame than, as it seems to moderns, properly belongs to such a small territory. The present story deals with events immediately leading up to the reign of Henry the Great, whose courage and abilities gave Navarre a place in history beside that of France. Nevertheless, the story tells but little of the young Prince, though its interest circles around him and its tragedies all have him as their chief reason. Blaise de Bernauld, one of the great soldiers of Navarre, is supposed to tell the story in his old age. In describing how the Prince of Béarn set out on the expedition which brings on the final tragedy of the book, the veteran has this to say of young Henry:

If hitherto I have said nothing of the Prince of Béarn, it has been through fear lest little would run into more, more to much, and much to everything, and so, to you, to whom he is no more than a dead King, the telling would grow wearisome. To me he is Henry the Great, the man of Ivry, of Arques, and of Nantes; the maker of France, and the freer of the faith; the one true man in a line of sensualists and sots, and as much alive as the day before Ravaillac's knife struck him down in the Rue de la Ferroniere. He found religion shackled, and gave it liberty; he found the nation a rotting carcass, and gave it life, and health, and power. He held Spain in check in the south, and baffled Germany in the east. He raised the poor from the mire where the nobles had trodden them, and thrust back the Lorraines from the steps of the throne.

The reader must not expect, however, to learn much more of Henry of Navarre in this story than is contained in the foregoing reminiscence. Blaise de Bernauld himself, the supposed narrator of the story, may be called the hero, and the interest centers chiefly upon his adventures, through Catherine de Medici, Jeanne d'Albert, the Sieuer de Crussenay, and La Hake share this honor with him. As to the Prince, he will probably be the stirring hero of a sequel to the present romance, for which the author has skillfully prepared the way.

Tales of the Far North.

"The Son of the Wolf." By Jack London. Houghton, Mifflin & Co.

Much as has been written about arctic countries and Alaskan experiences, no writer has been more successful in reproducing the real atmosphere—the 74° below zero atmosphere—than has Mr. London in the present collection of stories. These reveal no ambitious efforts in the way of plot or incident, but they are full of a suggestiveness that is wonderfully effective. The characters are all getting down to the bone of life by living the most elementary and rudimentary of lives. The men are usually weary and frozen, and they gain their Indian wives by means of strategy and spoils. If these sojourners happen to be like the two heroes in "In a Far Country," without "the protean faculty of adaptability," then the consequences are disastrous. This story tells with almost repellent vividness the hideous drop into brutalism and savagery that these two men experienced.

In "The White Silence" we are told of how one man met his fate by the falling of a pine tree. "For generations it had stood there, and for generations destiny had had this one end in view—perhaps the same had been decreed of Mason." "The Son of the Wolf" was a white man who sought for a wife an Indian girl whose people violently opposed her taking away, and "The Priestly Prerogative" was exercised in behalf of a wife who would leave a selfish "cry-baby" of a husband to run away with a man of more stamina. The last and longest of the stories, "An Odyssey of the North," is a tale of primitive love and revenge, which is given a most poetic setting. All the stories are touched with idealism, but for all that they are intensely realistic. By merely giving the outlines of the plots one can furnish no adequate idea of the repressed vigor and strength of the style.

About an Artist's Love.

"Marcelle of The Quarter." By Clive Holland. Frederick A. Stokes company.

Mr. Holland's title alone reveals something of the story. We know at once that the heroine will have some Trilby attributes, and will be a model, or at least the daughter of a model. She is the latter in this case, and is left by the dying and abandoned mother to the artist who had befriended her and who had immortalized her waning beauty by making it the model for his great picture, "Une Madeleine." The little Marcelle proves to be a veritable bit of sunshine in the artist's life, and helps him to forget a regrettable episode in his past. Moreover, the disparity in their ages is not so great as to exclude the wary reader's hope of a closer union, and so of course he expects that the artist will turn pale when later another man asks for the hand of Marcelle. We should be disappointed, too, if Marcelle did not dispel this paleness and permit the reader to rejoice at his own acuteness. The story is told with some feeling and spirit, and if the reader will not look too closely at its psychological side he may find much to entertain him.

Brief Mention.

"The Woman Beautiful," by Ella Adelia Fletcher, is a book of such size as to contain a recipe purporting to be a sovereign remedy for each and every ill that besets feminine charms. The suggestions on the whole are sensible, and there will be no greater harm done than a waste of time, even if a few of the formulas should fail to give all the expected results. Still, it is possible for women to be beautiful without relying upon "The Woman Beautiful." (New York: W. M. Young & Co.)

"In Praise Thereof and Other Pieces in Rhyme" (Boston: A. J. Ochs) is a small book of verses by Henry J. White, exhibiting a certain knowledge of rhythm and rhyme without penetrating far into the real secret of poetry. There are one or two numbers that show something more than a mere turning of commonplace thoughts into language hardly more than commonplace, and these will redeem the volume without adding to the poet's reputation for self-criticism. Generally speaking, the work is amateurish and immature.

"The Hungarian Exiles," by Benjamin Cowell, is a sort of reincarnation of the deservedly extinct Sunday school book of former days. Its leading characters are three good little boys who lived a thousand years ago in Poland, because their noble father was exiled from his native Hungary. Strangely enough, the good little boys did not die young, but probably things were different a thousand years ago. They were wonderful boys, speaking in the purest Shakspearean language, plentifully sprinkled with "methinks" and "yestereens" and dabbled all over with "thees" and "thous." Their parents were models of virtue and piety, and one of the boys finally becomes King of Hungary. (Milwaukee: Young Churchman company).

It was hardly to be expected that anything important of Goethe's remained without being done into English, and the two little vaudevilles of his youth, "The Fisher Maiden" and "The Lover's Caprice," now published for Miss Martha Ridgway Bannon under the title of "Some New Translations from Goethe," do not remove that impression. These two slight pieces, cast in dramatic form, were written, "The Lover's Caprice," when Goethe was 18 years old, and "The Fisher Maiden" fifteen years later. Both bear marks of hasty composition, and, though it is hardly possible that anything from his hand could be worthless, these certainly add nothing to his reputation. The book is well illustrated and published by the Yorston company of Philadelphia.

"The Boys and Girls of Brantham," by Evelyn Raymond (Little-Brown), is a good story of a boys' military school. Finding that the discipline, drill, and ideas of manly honor here inculcated worked so well for boys, the principal determined to open the school on the same terms to girls. The experiment proved a success, "for the boys were not less manly for being gentle and considerate, nor the girls less womanly for having wider opportunities. But half the boys at first protested and got themselves expelled; then they repented. The girls proved to be fully as smart as the boys and not less fond of honest fun, and their fine behavior presently won the day. But this did not come about without some stirring incidents and several sensational scenes. The whole story is brightly and pleasantly told, and withal quite convincingly. It is equally good for boys or girls.

A third volume of Miss Anna Alice Chapin's pleasant interpretations of Wagner's genius bears the rather ponderous name of "Wotan, Siegfried, and Brünhilde" (Harper). Working in the double medium of literature and music, which made up Wagner's art, Miss Chapin seeks to elucidate both the literary and musical aspects in respect of the three principal characters of the "Ring der Nibelungen" as they came from the master's hand. The work is done with the utmost skill and sympathy, and will undoubtedly interpret to the most sluggish mind many of the elemental wonders of Wagner's work. In this aspect and as tending to a popularization of the great operatic cycle with which it deals, the book is to be commended. But, like all its kind, it has another side, as affording an easy road to learning and a foundation for the dangerous and misleading half-knowledge which is so hateful to the true Wagnerian devotee.

Striking railroad statistics have been presented by Jesse Hardesty in "The Mother of Trusts" (Kansas City: Hudson-Kimberly company) to show the importance of the rail transportation industry of the United States. He claims that the railroads, instead of being, as is claimed by the corporations, of the aggregate value of nearly $12,000,000,000 did not, in fact, cost more than $5,185,735,203 and could now be duplicated for less than $4,000,000,000, and hence at the present time the face value of the overissue of railroad stocks and bonds is more than $7,000,000,000 in excess of the total value of all railroads in the United States. The author's purpose is shown by his title. He believes the railroad is the mother of trusts, and finds evidence in the concessions they grant to monopolies at the expense of the individual producer. His remedy is state ownership. The book is badly printed and there are flaws in the details of the argument, but it is one of the best that have ever been written in favor of government operation of American railways.

A NOTE ABOUT J. M. BARRIE'S NEW STORY "TOMMY AND GRIZEL."

The effect of a serial story upon the circulation of a magazine is a matter not easy to determine and one about which there is considerable difference of opinion. Some of the most successful stories selling in book form, upwards of 100,000, have produced no very marked effect upon circulation during their serial publication. It is a matter of interest, therefore, when a real and almost immediate effect on circulation can be traced to a single story—an effect that shows itself not only on the regular edition, but on the English edition as well. And this is notably the fact in the case of J. M. Barrie's new serial story "Tommy and Grizel," now running in Scribner's Magazine. It is possible that some of the recent marked increase (particularly in the English Edition) might be due to the illustrated Boer war articles that have been appearing in the same numbers with Barrie's story, for these articles have naturally attracted a very special attention at this time. But inasmuch as new subscribers and purchasers at the newsstands ask for the earlier numbers containing Barrie's story, it is evident that the gain in circulation can be accredited chiefly to the growing interest in "Tommy and Grizel"—an interest that extends to Mr. Barrie's former story, "Sentimental Tommy," which is in its hundredth thousand, and of which the publishers are now issuing a special new paper-covered edition of 50,000 copies.

With every installment of "Tommy and Grizel," the circle of readers grows larger, and it is now referred to as

ROBERT TOURNAY

A Romance of the French Revolution. By WILLIAM SAGE. With illustrations by Eric Pape and Mary Ayer. Crown 8vo, $1.50.

This story has an interest quite like that of Dickens' French Revolution story, "A Tale of Two Cities." The spirit and atmosphere of that tremendous time pervade it; and the dramatic situations and movements are absorbing. Tournay is a fascinating character—patriotic, well-nigh omnipresent, fertile in resource, chivalrous, especially to the aristocratic lady he loves. This story ought to be one of the most popular books of the season.

THE SON OF THE WOLF

Tales of the Far North. By JACK LONDON. With a frontispiece illustration. Crown 8vo, $1.50.

Mr. London, a born story-teller, here makes the first contribution from Alaska to the literature of fiction. The stories are based on his experience and observations in that region, and contain vivid pictures of life in the vicinity of the Yukon, with its privations, hardships, heroisms, and romance, and they are uncommonly readable.

NOTES ON THE BACON-SHAKESPEARE QUESTION

By CHARLES ALLEN, late Judge of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts. 12mo, $1.50.

Judge Allen's legal habit has led him to make a digest of all the direct and all the indirect evidence he could find on the Bacon-Shakespeare question in the writings of the leading editors, commentators, and students of Shakespeare. He makes a careful study of legal terms used by Shakespeare, and gives a chapter to Shakespeare's early life and education. The breadth of Judge Allen's survey and his judicial review of all available evidence lend distinct value to his book.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD.

MISTAKEN INFERENCE IN CONNECTION WITH IRON TRADE.

Stocks Held by the Consuming Concerns Not Necessarily Running Down—Condition of the Various Industries of the Country and Clearings of the Week in the Leading Cities of the United States and Canada—Movement of the Cereals.

New York, April 13.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade tomorrow will say:

Iron furnaces in blast April 1 produced 289,482 tons weekly, against 292,643 March 1, but unsold stocks increased 2,280 tons. A mistaken inference, possibly fatal to many in its consequences, is that stocks held by consuming concerns must be running down. As they contract for their supplies months ahead and as such supplies whether delivered and not consumed or waiting their orders at furnaces would not be reckoned in unsold stocks, the surplus owned by consumers may be heavy.

New business in finished products is reported to the Iron Age from Pittsburg as "frightfully small," owing to belief that high prices cannot be maintained, and no better report comes from Philadelphia.

With No. 1 anthracite $2 lower, refined bars $4, and steel plates $11 a ton lower than in December, it can hardly be called impossible for prices to yield, though many are so far firmly held. Pittsburg reports a number of the plate mills shut down, and five Pennsylvania and Ohio furnaces have stopped, perhaps for repairs, more than balancing five which started in March, two in Tennessee adding 2,500 tons weekly.

The boot and shoe industry also falls behind in output, and is closing some works and running many others part time, because prices are higher than retailers yet seem ready to pay.

A heavy wholesale business has been done in dry goods, but the question now is whether retail distribution will justify it. As yet returns are not satisfactory; there is increase, but not enough to warrant the buying from mills. Woolens and worsteds are dull, with concessions in fancies, though staples are well sold up and firm. The material declines further, averaging nearly half a cent lower than on April 1.

Uncertainty in Cotton Goods.

There is the same uncertainty in cotton goods as to retail distribution, with quite as much doubt whether prices will be maintained, though the material has again been advanced a sixteenth in speculation. But exports in March were in value $33,096,758, a gain over last year of $21,826,895, so rapidly has Europe supplied its needs.

This enormous gain made exports of the chief staples $18,631,833 greater in value than in March of last year, though decrease occurred in other items. Yet only a fraction of the gain was in cotton shipments from New York, leaving the other great increase here to be explained by manufactured exports mainly.

In spite of the heavy balance due on merchandise account there has been talk of gold exports, and a small amount has gone to Buenos Ayres on European account. Supplies of money are abundant here, the banks have again gained largely, rates are low and commercial demands narrow, and the interior is better prepared than ever to do without aid.

The exports of wheat from both coasts continue larger than last year, though much of the gain is at Pacific ports, not directly affecting Atlantic supplies. Flour included, Pacific exports in two weeks have been 1,518,254 bushels, against 564,562 bushels last year, but Atlantic exports have been 3,912,837 bushels, against 3,960,380 last year.

In spite of all reports of exhaustion of supply and injury to growing wheat, Western receipts continue larger than last year, in two weeks 6,764,640 bushels, against 5,863,665 last year. Corn receipts also continue heavy, 8,917,267 bushels, against 4,637,613 last year.

Failures for the week have been 193 in the United States, against 188 last year, and 41 in Canada, against 22 last year.

As Viewed by Bradstreet.

Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Backward spring weather conditions have figured considerably in distributive trade reports this week, and, in connection with some weakness in prices of leading staples, have imparted an appearance of irregularity to the general situation.

Another one of those downward swings in the prices of agricultural staples is exhibited this week in slightly lower prices for the cereals, partly because of the bearish position of immediate supplies and partly because of the better than expected government crop report, which is taken to indicate a possible winter wheat yield in excess of all records. The crop outlook as a whole favors the expectation of large yields of wheat, corn, and cotton.

Corn and oats have sympathized with the reaction in pork products, which reaction, however, has not been universal, as shown by the fact that lard is at the highest point reached on the present boom.

Cotton exports in March were three times those of a year ago in value, and for seven months are 7 per cent greater in value, while 23 per cent smaller in quantity.

Evidences accumulate that active missionary work in favor of lower prices for iron and steel is at last bearing fruit. Pig iron is no lower and stocks as a whole are claimed to be no larger than a month ago, but steel products have weakened noticeably during the week, billets noting the sharpest decline, with corresponding decreases in some other products.

The other metals show little change on the week, copper being in continued good demand and firm, while tin is speculatively weaker, and lead is strong at previous prices.

A slight upward swing in cotton is to be noted this week, and Southern mills have officially advanced prices. On the other hand, while the mills are active on old orders new business is reported of smaller volume.

The strength of raw sugar is a reflection chiefly of the fact that a considerable shortage is looked for in the supplies of cane sugar not only in Cuba, but in the far East. The margin between raw and refined allows of no profit at present quotations.

Wheat, including flour, shipments for the week aggregate 2,896,653 bushels, against 3,836,963 bushels last week, 1,983,619 bushels in the corresponding week of 1899, 4,425,302 bushels in 1898, 1,344,012 bushels in 1897, and 2,017,579 bushels in 1896.

Since July 1 this season the exports of wheat aggregate 153,906,296 bushels, against 190,329,159 bushels last year and 188,271,580 bushels in 1897-'98.

Corn exports for the week aggregated 2,799,443 bushels, against 4,361,591 bushels last week, 2,666,125 bushels in this week a year ago, 4,661,194 bushels in 1898, 2,328,485 bushels in 1897, and 1,074,542 bushels in 1896.

Since July 1 this season corn exports aggregate 162,922,649 bushels, against 133,955,504 bushels during the same period a year ago, and 143,769,843 bushels in 1897-'98.

Business failures for the week number 152, as compared with 182 in the United States last week, 243 in this week a year ago, 215 in 1898, 195 in 1897, and 244 in 1896.

Failures in the Dominion of Canada for the week number thirty-five, as compared with twenty-five last week, and in this week a year ago, twenty-seven in 1898, thirty-nine in 1897, and thirty-four in 1896.

Bradstreet's Financial Review.

Bradstreet's financial review tomorrow will say:

Last week developed a tendency on the part of the railroad stock list and leading industrial stocks to move with more or less independence of each other. In the present week this has become much more pronounced, decided buying strength in certain active railroad stocks failing to check the heavy liquidation in the steel stocks, while the latter movement seems to have little relation to developments in other parts of the market. The local traction group also contributed to the irregularity of the situation by developing a measure of strength on their own account.

When the Stock Exchange adjourned on Thursday it did so not to resume business until next Monday, Saturday of this week being added to the usual holiday on Good Friday.

The quotations for some of the more active railroad stocks end the week higher than they were on last Saturday, while many industrials are decidedly lower. The week has been marked by a further falling off in the amount of outside orders and business, and by increased evidences of manipulation, while London, which was inclined to be dull, in view of the nearness of the holidays, and was also affected by the less promising aspect of the British operations in Africa and by the increasing firmness of money, showed an inclination at times to sell the stocks it recently bought here. Americans, however, continued to be a leading feature in London, and European buying was again somewhat in excess of the sales ascribed to foreign interests.

Our market has, however, begun to notice the strength of exchange rates, though sterling rates are still about 1¼ cents below the level at which gold exports found circulation. In fact, $500,000 gold is going from New York to Buenos Ayres on a London order.

It is realized that the relatively firm money market at London and the prospect of further ease here in regard to loans and interest rates may well result in the transfer of considerable amounts of capital from New York to Europe. Here the financial situation is certainly not adverse to the stock market.

The decrease shown in last Saturday's bank statement had no effect, and the gains of the New York banks from the Treasury and the interior promise to result in a favorable statement today, in spite of a presumable increase in Wall street's borrowings. Offerings of funds on call and time are more freely made, and the confidence in the financial position, which asserted itself after the currency bill was passed and the government refunding plan put in operation, is unimpaired.

Continued increases in railroad earnings and fair, if not favorable, crop prospects have aided in giving railway shares their strong tone. On the other hand, the fact that the iron and other trades still enjoy uninterrupted prosperity did not seem to bring support to the industrial group, the steel stocks, as already mentioned, being the specially weak feature.

Clearings of the Week.

The following table, compiled by Bradstreet, shows the bank clearings at the principal cities of the United States and Canada for the week ended April 12, with the percentage of increase and decrease as compared with the corresponding week last year:

INSURANCE AFFAIRS.

March fire losses in the United States and Canada exceed all previous records for the same month in past years, and April bids fair to make an equally bad showing. The New York Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin, speaking of the subject, says editorially:

"During March there were 242 fires of a greater destructiveness than $10,000. A detailed list of these losses follows:

|---|---|
| $10,000 to $20,000 | 91 |
| 20,000 to 30,000 | 39 |
| 30,000 to 50,000 | 30 |
| 50,000 to 75,000 | 34 |
| 75,000 to 100,000 | 18 |
| 100,000 to 200,000 | 22 |
| 200,000 to 700,000 | 8 |
| Total | 242 |

| | |
|---|---|
| Philadelphia, Pa., several departm't stores | $700,000 |
| Chicago, church and theater | 300,000 |
| Lead City, S. D., various | 500,000 |
| Pentwater, Mich., furniture factory | 225,000 |
| Flint, Mich., wagon works | 200,000 |
| Philadelphia, Pa., insulated wire factory | 200,000 |
| Baltimore, Md., clothing store and others | 200,000 |
| San Francisco, Cal., flour mill and others | 200,000 |

"March losses exceeded those of the same month in 1899 by nearly $2,000,000. The total for the first quarter of 1900 closely approximates the figures for the corresponding period of 1899, $40,680,000, which was the worst year since fire loss statistics have been recorded. The current year will probably witness the withdrawal of quite a number of fire insurance companies, as some are already commencing to stagger under the combination of heavy losses and inadequate rates.

|---|---|---|---|
| January | $9,472,500 | $10,718,000 | $11,755,300 |
| February | 12,629,300 | 18,469,000 | 15,427,000 |
| Totals | $29,747,000 | $40,680,000 | $40,531,500 |

The Hunt stamping works in Cleveland, which were badly damaged by fire on last Tuesday, were equipped with automatic sprinklers. The risk was four and six stories high, open area, and located on a narrow street. It was equipped with manufacturers' pendant heads, and wood valves, and was installed by a steamfitter in 1892. The apparatus was supplied with a gravity tank of 5,000 gallons pressure, and city water with thirty-five-pound pressure on the first floor. The pressure was so light that it could not be depended on to keep the tank full of water.

The loss in the burning of the building occupied by the Sterns Clothing company, at North avenue and Larrabee street, has been settled through Samuel Goldsmith, the adjuster for the assured. The total insurance was $104,000, and the amount paid to the clothing firm 95 per cent or $98,800. The loss was scattered among a number of companies.

R. W. Hosmer, President of the Illinois Association of Local Fire Agents, left yesterday for a three weeks' vacation trip to New York City and Boston. J. W. Hosmer has returned from a trip to the City of Mexico. Both are members of the firm of R. W. Hosmer & Co.

The Individual Underwriters, a mutual organization, carried risks amounting to $217,000 on the Horne stock at Pittsburg, which was badly damaged by fire several days ago. This is one of the largest single risks recently reported and will fall upon the shareholders.

The Manhattan Fire of New York is about to establish a marine general agency in Chicago in connection with its other business. The company has a marine department at Cleveland. Other companies are likely to write this class of risks this year.

EXPECT TIN CAN COMBINE

MOORES ARE CREDITED WITH PLANNING THE CONSOLIDATION.

Likely to Be on Lines of Their Other Steel Properties—Purchase of Consolidated Traction by Union Interests to Be Closed Today—Papers to Be Signed Here—Ogden Gas Files Certificate of Increase of Stock to $10,000,000.

A new combination to include the principal tin can manufacturers is expected to be brought out soon by W. H. and J. H. Moore. As soon as the new American Sheet Steel company is in working order it is expected the organization of the tin can manufacturers will be undertaken on much the same lines of the other Moore steel properties. The company would be managed similarly to the other iron and steel companies which have been organized by the Moores. They include now four companies, which have close business alliances—the National Steel, American Steel Hoop, American Tinplate, and American Sheet Steel companies.

Close Traction Deal Today.

Arrangements have been made for closing finally the purchase of the Consolidated Traction company by the Union Traction interests today. While the details were settled in New York a short time ago, the papers will be signed here. Walter S. Johnston, R. A. C. Smith, and H. B. Hollins, New York directors of the Union Traction company, have come for the purpose of attending to the matter. The deal will go through on the lines originally planned. President Jesse Spalding has returned, making the necessary quorum of Union Traction directors to transact the business.

Money Rates and Bonds.

Conditions in the local money market seem to indicate a slightly easier tendency in rates. In New York money rates are working lower, and reductions there often foreshadow similar action on the part of the large banks in this city. Rates are still quoted at 5 to 6 per cent, but some of the banks are making loans at 5 per cent. Others maintain 5½ and 6 per cent rates.

The receipts of government bonds at Washington for conversion into the new 2s aggregate $231,408,900, of which all but $31,347,950 came from the national banks.

Ogden Gas Increase.

The Ogden Gas company filed yesterday with the County Recorder a certificate of its increase in stock from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000. The additional stock will be in $100 shares. The certificate is attested by President Thomas Byrne and Secretary Francis J. Sullivan.

Both the New York and the local Stock Exchange were closed yesterday and will not be open till Monday.

POOR DEMAND FOR STRAWBERRIES.

Cold Weather Retarding the Sale of All Small Fruits.

Demand for strawberries, since the inauguration of colder weather, has fallen off in a marked degree and prices have become easier in consequence. Receipts continue fairly liberal and with supplies inclined to accumulate holders are by no means as stiff in their views. Yesterday there were sales around $1.50 for Louisianas. At the falling prices interior points are using berries more freely, nearly all shippers having larger orders. The general vegetable list is dull and about steady.

NEW YORK LOOKS TO BANKS.

Traders Expect a Favorable Showing to Be Made in Today's Statement.

[BY E. W. HARDEN.]

New York, April 13.—[Special.]—The Stock Exchange was closed today and practically no business was transacted in Wall street. The probable figures of the bank statement tomorrow were the one subject of discussion among those who were down in the street during the day. The unfavorable bank statement of last week was due to an unexpected expansion in the loan item. Unless there is a similar expansion shown in tomorrow's bank figures there is every reason to believe the statement will be favorable. The Subtreasury has lost to the banks in New York in the neighborhood of $5,000,000 during the week. Unless this is overcome by an expansion in loans there should be shown an increase in cash holdings. During the week the banks of New York deposited with the Subtreasury $900,000 for telegraphic transfer to Chicago. The loss to the banks, however, was in addition to the $900,000 deposited for Chicago.

While there was a little doing in the foreign exchange market today's rates continued firm. During the week sterling rates have advanced sharply and on the highest rate posted there was only a difference of ½c between that figure and the minimum figure at which gold could be exported.

The announcement that the Chicago Traction deal had been closed was received in New York with a good deal of interest today. The holding of Chicago Union Traction stock in New York is large. According to the report in circulation here today the Chicago Union Traction company has secured control of the consolidated traction lines. Mr. Yerkes is supposed to have received guaranteed bonds for his holdings of Traction stock.

Combined receipts at Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, and St. Louis:

| | Cattle. | Hogs. | Sheep. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Thus far this week | 109,000 | 263,000 | 115,000 |
| Same period last week | 97,000 | 243,000 | 101,000 |
| Same period 1899 | 90,000 | 245,000 | 124,000 |

Cattle—The market was steady at Thursday's prices. Native steers averaging 940@1,507 lbs sold at $4.10@5.45, bulk $4.80@5.10. Twenty-two head of 1,122-lb steers and heifers, mixed, sold at $3.45, the top of the market. Present prices are about the same as a week ago. Two loads of 1,358-lb straight Texas steers sold at $5.10. During the week best natives sold at $5.85 and best Texas steers at $5.40. Receipts for the week were among the largest of the year, being nearly 7,000 larger than a year ago. It is expected receipts will continue liberal the balance of this month. Feeding cattle met with a good demand, selling largely at $4.45@4.75, with some averaging only 736 lbs at $4.95. Canning cows sold largely at $2.40@2.70; fat cows, $3.30@4.15; good to choice heifers, $3.60@4.65; bulls, $3.00@4.25; and veal calves, $5.00@7.25.

Hogs—Trade was active at 5@10c advance in prices. The quality showed some improvement, there being a smaller proportion of lightweights and more 300-lb averages among the arrivals. A load of 484-lb "fat backs" sold at $5.70, and three loads averaging 369@307 lbs went at that figure. The shipping demand was good. The English packers bought sparingly, the Continental being out of the market entirely. Packers talk how high prices are, and yet they don't expect hogs to go much, if any, lower in the near future. Both hogs and pork sold this month at the highest prices since 1894. Hogs are at the highest point of the year, while May pork closed last Thursday 82½c below the high point less than two weeks ago, which was $13.45. Friday's hog market closed strong at the following quotations:

|---|---|
| Bulk of sales | $5.50 @5.60 |
| Selected butchers', 220@270 lbs | 5.60 @5.70 |
| Selected bacon, 150@190 lbs | 5.45 @5.57½ |
| Heavy shipping, 250@350 lbs | 5.60 @5.70 |
| Heavy packing, 280@400 lbs | 5.50 @5.62½ |
| Rough heavy grades | 5.35 @5.45 |
| Poor to choice pigs | 4.60 @5.40 |

Sheep—The run was fair and the demand good. Prices were generally steady, and an early clearance was made. About 1,500 Colorado-fed lambs averaging 80@87 lbs sold at $7.40@7.50, with 92-lb Westerns at $7.30. About 1,000 shorn Western sheep averaging 118@129 lbs sold at $5.80@5.85. Shorn lambs sold at $6.00@6.50. The quality of the offerings was good.

Condition of the Treasury.

Washington, D. C., April 13.—Today's statement of the Treasury balances in the general fund, exclusive of the $150,000,000 gold reserve in the division of redemption, shows: Available cash balance, $148,414,317; gold, $90,762,965.

BUYS DELICACIES FOR MINERS.

Alaska Company Ships 300 Tons of Armour Products to the Northern Gold Fields.

Six hundred thousand pounds of assorted canned meats were shipped to Alaska from Chicago yesterday by Armour & Co. The shipment, twenty-two carloads, represents a sale to the Alaska Exploration company, and is the first large consignment of Armour products to go into the arctic regions. Twelve carloads will go to Dawson City by way of Seattle, and the balance to the Cape Nome region by way of San Francisco.

L. A. Phillips, general manager of the Alaska Exploration company, made the purchase, which includes chicken à la Marengo, Macedoine stew, beef tenderloin, veal cutlets, pork cutlets, sliced ham, and bacon. He expects to sell them at prices which would stagger a rich man in any place outside of the Alaskan mining districts.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Objects to Good Friday Closing.

Chicago, April 13.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—As a native of Illinois, a taxpayer, and patron of our public schools, I earnestly protest against their being closed on Good Friday. J. B. BEATTIE.

Keep the Aisles Clear.

Chicago, April 12.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I have just been reading an article on "Making the Theater Safe." It would seem to me a wise plan to enforce the law (as I believe there is one) in regard to keeping the aisles clear, so that in case of fire or panic one would have a chance to save one's self. I have been in two theater buildings in Chicago in the last year where the law was grossly violated, and it certainly detracts from one's pleasure to be thinking of those things while at a play. I paid $2 for a seat in the "first balcony" last spring to see a play that drew crowded houses in one of the leading theaters, and was quite near an aisle, but to a casual observer there was no aisle. It was literally crowded full of people, seated on the steps, and it seemed to me that human life was valued little. I did not enjoy the play just on this account, and have not visited that theater since. Seems to me if there is a law against such things it should be strictly enforced. A WOMAN.

Stands by the Bicycle.

Chicago, April 13.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The editorial entitled, "The Decline of the Bicycle," in your esteemed paper of Tuesday contains a good deal of misinformation. It may be partly true that bicycling as a fad has died. The novelty and excitement of learning to ride the bicycle has passed just as the novelty of the telephone has passed, but the bicycle and the telephone remain. Neither is it true that people in the "social swim" have given up the wheel to take to the automobile. Some have given up one and some are trying the other. Bicycling in England may be a fad, but it is a fad that has come to stay. A great many people who have large country places use their wheels so much that their horses are much of the time idle in the stables. As the spring comes on, in Chicago, in Washington, in Boston, where the country clubs are popular, the same numbers of young people join in parties of two and more and go out on their wheels to dine, and these young people are in the social swim. The bicycle is an easy means of getting about, and a decidedly pleasant one, and will last even if the railways and street cars cry it down. READER.

Danger from Automobiles.

Chicago, April 12.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The accident whereby Richard W. Kenny lost his life last Tuesday night will become common unless the City Council passes an ordinance prohibiting automobiles or horseless wagons after dark from trying to pass cable or electric cars while the cars are in motion and going in the same direction. In fact, they should be prohibited from going on streets where the cable or electric cars are being operated, or, if they are so allowed, the conditions should be such as to compel them to limit their speed to four miles per hour and to stop behind the cars until passengers are safely off or on the same. If the automobile which killed Mr. Kenny had kept behind the Seventy-first street Cottage Grove car instead of trying to pass it, and especially on that part of Cottage Grove south of Thirty-fourth street, which is narrow, and in which street drivers of wagons have to use the utmost care—not to mention automobiles—Mr. Kenny would be alive today.

The operator of the automobile states that his bell was ringing. Supposing it was. The bell on the cable car and the noise of a cable train will readily account for Mr. Kenny not hearing the bell of the automobile, and there is no doubt of the fact that his attention was concentrated on the cable train. I doubt if there is two feet between a cable car and an automobile standing close to the curb, where the accident happened. The asphalt pavement on Cottage Grove avenue seems to invite the automobile and the bicyclist, which makes that street now dangerous for pedestrians.

It was indeed sad to see this man lying on the ground between the sidewalk and the curb waiting for an ambulance, with nothing at hand to help him, although a doctor was present. It seems to me it would be an easy matter for the various railway companies to equip each grip and electric car with a stretcher and a few blankets and things necessary in case of accidents. The injured one could immediately be placed under shelter and some relief given at once. This would perhaps save many, or at least give temporary relief. The arrival of an ambulance now takes from thirty-five to sixty minutes, taking into consideration the places where accidents occur. C. M. MOORE.

Diversey Boulevard to Be Lighted.

Judge Chytraus after hearing arguments yesterday overruled objections of property-owners to a special assessment proposed to be levied by the Lincoln Park board for $19,000 to install electric lights in Diversey boulevard west of North Clark street. At the same time he set for a hearing on Tuesday, April 17, objections to repaving and otherwise improving the same boulevard east of North Clark st—.

NEWS OF THE RAILWAYS.

RUMOR OF A CHANGE IN COLORADO MIDLAND CONTROL.

Rio Grande Western and the Southern Reported to Have Bought It—Three Roads Will Be Compelled to Seek New Connections if the Statement Is True—Terminal Transfer to Operate the West Pullman Switch Tracks.

Persistent rumors are in circulation here that the Rio Grande Western railway company and the Colorado Southern railway company, formerly the Union Pacific, Denver and Gulf road, had obtained control of the Colorado Midland railway, each road having secured four-ninths of the latter's stock.

If the report should turn out to be true it will be one of the most important and far-reaching railway deals effected for some time. It would compel the Burlington, Rock Island, and Missouri Pacific railways to rearrange their route from Denver to the Pacific coast. These roads at present use the Denver and Rio Grande from Denver to Grand Junction, Colo., and the Rio Grande Western to Salt Lake City and Ogden. The acquirement of the Colorado Midlend by the Rio Grande Western would result in the latter's using the Colorado Midland between Denver and Grand Junction instead of the Denver and Rio Grande as at present, and the Eastern connections of the latter would be compelled to run over the Midland line, unless the Denver and Rio Grande should succeed in making a traffic agreement with the Rio Grande Western or sell out to the latter.

The consummation of the Rio Grande Western and Colorado Southern deal in absorbing the Midland would prove a serious matter for the Denver and Rio Grande, because those two roads parallel it in nearly all directions. Besides, it would be deprived of a connection west of Grand Junction, Colo.

Takes West Pullman Switch Tracks.

Attorney Barton of the Chicago Terminal Transfer railroad company says it is not true that his company has absorbed the Chicago, West Pullman and Southern railway. The latter has no road to be absorbed. It simply controls some switch tracks from the various industries at West Pullman which connect with the Terminal company's lines and other roads at or near West Pullman. These switch tracks hereafter will be operated by the Chicago Terminal Transfer railroad, a contract to that effect having been entered into by the managers of these properties. The Chicago Terminal Transfer railroad issued the following circular yesterday:

"Commencing on Monday, April 16, this company will be prepared to handle promptly carload shipments between West Pullman, Ill., and all connecting lines."

The Chicago, West Pullman and Southern railway company was incorporated a few months ago, with a capital stock of $50,000, to build a railroad from Chicago, via West Pullman, to the South, but beyond constructing three switch tracks no work has been done. The switch tracks about exhausted the $50,000 capital stock.

History of the Atchison.

E. Wilder, Secretary and Treasurer of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé railway, has issued a circular to employés and ex-employés of the road requesting them to collect everything now available bearing upon the inception, organization, and development of the system, to be used in the preparation of a history of the company now under contemplation. The Michigan Central has issued a similar circular.

Transportation Notes.

Central Passenger association lines have agreed to make a rate of one fare for the round trip for the meeting of the Imperial Council, Order of the Mystic Shrine, in Washington, May 22 to 24.

Arrangements have been completed for the operation of a new line from St. Louis via the Chicago and Alton to Peoria, the Rock Island and Peoria from Peoria to Rock Island, and the Milwaukee and St. Paul from Rock Island to St. Paul. Through train service between St. Louis and St. Paul will begin Sunday, April 29.

Stockholders of the New York Central will hold their annual meeting in Albany next Wednesday. There is some talk of admitting a representative of the Pennsylvania into the board, in consequence of the close relationship now existing between the New York Central and the Pennsylvania.

One of the Vice Presidents of the Pennsylvania railroad company characterized as untrue the report from Baltimore that the Pennsylvania was in a deal with the Baltimore and Ohio to acquire the Philadelphia and Reading and New Jersey Central railway companies. He further stated that the question of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad running its trains over the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad to Jersey City had not been discussed.

Elect College President.

Lemars, Ia., April 13.—[Special.]—The Board of Trustees of Western Union College of the United Evangelical Church today elected as President of the college and faculty the Rev. Norman Henry Thoren, pastor of Salem Church, Naperville, Ill. A special committee of the board consisting of Bishop W. M. Stanford, the Rev. S. F. Entorf, and the Rev. S. Dillow waited on Mr. Thoren, and he accepted the position on conditions to which the board agreed. The Rev. B. N. Hiebel of Des Moines was elected college traveling agent, and will collect endowments.

Notice Telephone Exchange Removal.

Telephone subscribers whose lines are operated at "North Office" are hereby notified that at 8 o'clock tonight service will be discontinued through the old switchboard and transferred to the relay multiple switchboard in the new Telephone Building at No. 275 Chicago avenue.

It is hoped that the transfer will be made without a moment's interruption of service, but should temporary disturbance occur this notice will sufficiently explain it.

The work of installing the new operating appliances has been in progress for many months. Final tests of the underground wires have been made and they are now being tested out through the new operating apparatus.

The operating force of the office has been given practice at Central and Harrison offices, where switchboards of the same type are in use, and has also for some time been drilling daily in the new exchange; and every precaution has been taken to insure that the transfer to the new office shall occasion the least possible annoyance to subscribers.

About 1,800 telephones are involved in the change, and 300 trunk lines leading from the North Office to Main, Central, Harrison and the other branch exchanges in the city.

The relay multiple switchboards, together with the battery and power plants involved, are of the latest designs and are the same as now in use in Central, Harrison and Monroe offices, and as are being installed in all the other Chicago exchanges as rapidly as the apparatus can be obtained.

The telephones will be operated on what is known as the automatic signaling plan. The subscriber by removing the telephone from the hook lights an electric lamp signal in front of the operator. During conversation the subscriber has control of the operator's movements by means of a special signal and can gain her attention at any time by moving the telephone hook up and down slowly three or four times. The act of hanging up the telephone gives the signal to disconnect the line.

The building and plant provided for North Office are of the type now being erected by the company for its Lake View, West, Yards and Wentworth offices, all of which will be completed late in the year.

Exports of Mules and Horses.

The war in south Africa is in evidence in the Treasury reports of the exports of domestic merchandise. During the eight months ending Feb. 28, 1899, there were exported 4,075 mules, valued at $315,668. During the eight months ending Feb. 28 of this year there went to foreign lands 25,545 mules, valued at $2,260,713. It is safe to say that fourfifths of them went to south Africa and enlisted in the British service, and that those which have not been killed or captured by the Boers, or have not died, are still working under Lord Roberts. So the south African war has provided a market for nearly two million dollars' worth of American mules. Probably the only regret of the stock raisers is that the Boers are unable to buy on an equally large scale. The horse breeders probably have profited by the war, but not so extensively. There were sent to the United Kingdom during the eight months ending February, 1899, 11,406 horses, valued at $1,790,080. During the eight months ending February last the number of horses was 17,491 and the value $2,378,000. Many of these must have gone to south Africa. There is significance in the fact that the exports of canned beef to Africa during the second period exceeded by six and one-half million pounds those for the first period. The military expenditures of the British are putting money in the pockets of many Americans.

Death of Murio-Celli.

The disgraceful scene which occurred in the death chamber of the late Mme. Adelina Murio-Celli d'Elpeux, who died in New York City on Thursday last, must have been read with a shock by more who knew this excellent artist during her residence in Chicago. The deceased was born fifty-six years ago in Breslau and was musically educated at the Paris Conservatory. After her graduation she sang with one of Arditi's opera troupes in various European countries with great success, and in Turkey was decorated by the Sultan. From Europe she came over to Mexico in the days of Maximilian and from there to the United States in the elder Grau's troupes. She retired from the operatic stage in 1870 and began teaching music in Chicago, where she married the French Consul, Ravin d'Elpeux. In 1880 they went to New York, where she had taught music ever since, among her pupils being Emma Juch, Maria Goebel, Amanda Fabris, Annie Russell, Gaston Gottschalk, and other well known concert singers. She was a painstaking artist, an excellent teacher, and a woman of many estimable qualities. It is understood that her faithfulness in nursing her invalid husband had much to do with the breaking down of her own health. The scene which occurred while she was dying, when pretended friends stole the rings from her fingers, reveals a depravity of human nature almost past belief.

Doom of the Lobster.

The extinction of the lobster is threatened. He is in too much demand as an article of food. The United States Fish Commissioner, in answer to an inquiry from Representative Fitzgerald, gives statistics which show the catch of lobsters in Massachusetts waters has decreased 70 per cent during the last eighteen years. The yield was 4,315,416 pounds, valued at $158,229 in 1880, which in 1898 fell to 1,693,741 pounds, valued at $147,702. The yield has not only decreased but with increasing scarcity the price has advanced, this in turn causing greater activity on the part of fishermen. The Fish commission has been doing its best to maintain the supply. During the last five years 387,041,705 young lobsters artificially hatched have been liberated on the Massachusetts coast. Practically all of the eggs from which these lobsters were hatched would have been destroyed had the commission not purchased the egg-bearing adults from fishermen, which is good evidence that but for the commission the supply of lobsters would be practically exhausted today. The New England States have laws against the catching of undersized lobsters, and also of brood lobsters carrying eggs, but the laws do not seem to be well enforced. The result is that in spite of the work of the commission the lobster supply is constantly shrinking, and the time may come when the lobster will be as much of a curiosity as is the buffalo, and only multi-millionaires can afford to eat them.

The Drama in Iowa.

The drama is occupying an unwonted share of public attention in Iowa. Signs increase to show that the stage never has attracted the same interest as now. The editor of nearly every country paper has read "Sapho" and given his opinion of the book to his readers, the general verdict being that of the editor of the Creston Advocate, who found it much less wicked than he expected. The play is being produced by barnstormers and is meeting with a cold reception. When given in Cedar Rapids a few days ago the theater was nearly empty and the Cedar Rapids Republican says the audience did not think much of the performance, which, in the opinion of that newspaper's critic, was a badly acted version of a poor play. The theater habit has, however, become widespread in every part of the State, although nowhere to such an extent as in Fort Dodge, where a justice of the peace has been obliged to send two girls to the reform school because they have insisted upon attending every dramatic performance, both those in the evenings and the matinées, regardless of what may be the play produced. Conditions must be somewhat similar in Des Moines, judging from the sermon of a minister there last Sunday. In denouncing the stage he not only declared it immoral, basing his assertion on the frequently quoted remarks of Clement Scott, and gave as his belief that Shakspeare was intended to be read rather than acted, but, he asserted, that the stage was demoralizing to those who witnessed the performances. The clergyman declared that hundreds of people attend every theatrical performance that is given in Des Moines, spending about three hours every night in "an atmosphere of moral corruption," and these same people, he asserted, spent hundreds of dollars, many men and women depriving their family of food and other necessities in order to buy theater tickets. These same persons, he declared, would not contribute fifty cents a year to the support of the church. Judging from these signs the theatrical craze has struck Iowa harder than it has any other State.

THE SHIPPING SUBSIDY BILL.

According to a Washington dispatch the announcement was made in the Senate Committee on Commerce day before yesterday that it is the intention of the friends of the shipping subsidy bill to try to pass it at the present session. If they make that attempt there will be no early adjournment of Congress. Probably wiser counsels will prevail and the effort to jam through an objectionable measure, which becomes more unpopular the better known are its provisions, will not be seriously made.

The subsidy bill has been modified in many of its details, but with all the changes that have been made it remains a bill for the enrichment of the American line, instead of the encouragement and expansion of American trade and commerce. The bill has been drafted to aid passenger boats, which are used by Americans who can afford to travel back and forth across the Atlantic in fine style, rather than the freight boats which carry to foreign shores the grain, flour, pork, etc., which make up so large a share of American exports.

Those exports are carried mainly in steamers of eleven knots speed. Such a steamer, with a cargo of 7,500 tons, would receive for a round trip between New York and Liverpool a subsidy payment of $4,740. The St. Louis, one of the American line boats, with a cargo capacity of 3,500 tons, would receive for the round trip $26,000, because the bill makes a far greater allowance to vessels of twenty-one knots' speed or over than to those of eleven knots' speed. In proportion to American exports carried, the swift passenger steamer would receive more than eleven times the subsidy of the freighter.

This method of distributing subsidy funds may be beneficial to foreign immigrants. Last year the boats of the International Navigation company brought from Europe 32,000 steerage passengers, mainly immigrants. This year it will bring more. Were it to receive for the comparatively small amount of freight carried the heavy subsidies it is proposed it shall have, that company would be in a position where it could reduce its steerage rates and thus swell the number of immigrants seeking these shores. But the volume of immigration is large enough now. Bounties should not be voted to add to it.

This subsidy bill is not designed to help the American farmer or cattle-raiser. It will not make new markets for their products. It will not give them over competitors any advantages they have not now. But the bill certainly will aid the American line and corporations affiliated with it, like the Pennsylvania company. The steamboat company will be enabled to give cheaper rates to Poles, Hungarians, and Russians coming to this country. Why should Americans be taxed to assist immigration which is not always desirable?

WHAT ILL WINDS DO.

Chicago is demonstrating the truth of that old proverb which assures us that "It is an ill wind that blows nobody any good." The ill wind that Mr. Riis raised in the slum districts has razed some of the worst of the tenement-houses. The fire that destroyed the Columbia Theater has resulted in more consideration of the people and their exits and their entrances. The street fire on Wabash avenue has brought about a closer inspection of streets and alleys, and, while there is as yet no evidence that the frequent becalming of passengers in street cars will have a beneficial effect, no doubt such a fact will be proved in the future. Then, too, the sympathetic flutter that has been awakened by the knowledge that some women have never been asked to minister to man has aroused in manly bosoms a dormant chivalry that has expressed itself in the most touching manner.

It was not an ill wind that brought the French poet, M. Henri de Régnier, to this country, but if that gentleman would tell us what he thinks of American art and Chicago poets no doubt a few vicious breezes would be awakened. Yet even these would be beneficent in their final results, and would fan the growth of a set of symbolists whose obscurity of meaning and invisibility of thought would be as great as those of their French counterparts. Truly, our strength is our weakness, and, though we may be inclined to fall asleep upon the "cushion of advantages," there is always some person or circumstance to goad us on to higher achievements.

GIVING UP GRADUATION ESSAYS.

The Lake View High School pupils are probably acting for the best in following Superintendent Nightingale's suggestion and voting to do away with all formal graduating exercises. Such action is in accord with a general tendency that has been noticeable in school circles for a decade or more. Apparently the old and time-honored graduation day is gradually passing away. It is already a fairly established custom to have some public speaker make an address in place of the former exercises by the students. The salutatory, the valedictory, and the dozen or score of intervening essays or orations appear to be going out of style. It will be only one further step to do away with the speech and the formal exercises altogether, and then the ancient glories of commencement day will have passed into the limbo of the good things that are no more.

No doubt there are practical reasons why the august functions should be blotted out in a public school. The expense seems to be a hardship on the poorer pupils, especially on the girls. We seem to have drifted into a state of mind in which it is necessary that all the girls of a class must be dressed alike in order to be graduated from any school. A commencement day trousseau of white is as indispensable as a wedding trousseau. These dresses and all the other accessories of hothouse flowers, hired decorations, expensive music, and the rest of it must be forthcoming or our esthetic sensibilities will be violated. These things cost a good deal of money, which fact results in hardship upon those who cannot afford it. The solution of the difficulty is now sought in abolishing the exercises entirely.

If this must be so, one may be permitted at least to voice some mild regrets for the future generations of children who are never to stand on the proud eminence of a graduation program. It would not be hard to make a strong sentimental plea for the good old way. The public exercises of the real sort, in which the graduates hold the center of the stage and do the talking, mark the highest emidence in the humdrum life of many a graduate. Many a boy never again rises so high in the public gaze as he feels when he reads his commencement essay. A girl's commencement day and her wedding day are the two brightest of her life. One might as well recommend that all women be inexpensively married before a justice of the peace. The result would be similar as far as the sacrifice of wholesome and inspiring sentiment is concerned. Probably if people had to be married in groups as large as our city high school classes this would be the necessary result, but it would be none the less a matter for genuine regret. The life of the average individual, especially in the city, is already prosaic and materialistic enough. It is a pity to have to sacrifice the brief but inspiring sentiment that invests our high school graduation exercises.

DELEGATES TO CONGRESS.

Last week the question of Delegate vs. Commissioner came up in both branches of Congress. In the House an unsuccessful attempt was made to amend the Hawaiian bill by striking out the provision for the election of a Delegate by the qualified voters and substituting for him a Commissioner, to be appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate of Hawaii. In the Senate the Porto Rican bill was amended by striking out the provision for a Delegate to be elected by the qualified voters, and substituting a Resident Commissioner, to be elected by them. That Commissioner will not have a seat in the House, but "will be entitled to official recognition as such by all departments."

This Delegate question was first discussed in 1794. In that year James White, who had been appointed by the Legislature of the territory south of the Ohio, asked to be admitted to a seat in the House. The ordinance of 1787 for the government of the Northwest Territory provided that when it had 5,000 inhabitants it should have a Legislature which might elect in joint session a Congressional Delegate. When the territory south of the Ohio, being what is now Tennessee, was given a temporary government in 1790, it was provided that that government should be similar to that in the Northwest Territory. So the Territorial Legislature concluded it had a right to elect a Delegate, and chose Mr. White.

The House was at first at a loss as to what to do with him. It was argued that the constitution had made no provision for Territorial Delegates, and that if the House admitted Mr. White it could with equal propriety admit a stranger from any part of the world. One Representative, on the other hand, was of opinion that the House had a right to consult or admit to the privilege of debating any person it thought proper. Then the question was raised whether Mr. White's place was not in the Senate rather than the House, because he had been elected by a Legislature as Senators were and not by the popular vote.

Finally Mr. White was given a seat and pay and the right to debate any question, but not to vote, and was not made to take an oath. This was done in the absence of any constitutional provision, solely because the deed of cession of the territory south of the Ohio stipulated that the inhabitants should have all the rights and privileges of those of the Northwest Territory. Congress having accepted the cession it was bound to admit a Delegate if one was elected.

When the Mississippi Territory was organized in 1798 and the Indiana Territory in 1800, no other provision was made for the election of Delegates than the declaration that their inhabitants should have all the rights and privileges granted those of the Northwest Territory. Thus the Legislatures of those new Territories were enabled to elect Delegates. Not until 1812, when the Missouri Territory was organized, did Congress make provision for the election of a Delegate by popular vote. That soon became the sole mode of electing those persons.

There is a law on the statute books which declares that every Territory shall have the right to elect a Delegate. Porto Rico is not a Territory and hence is not entitled to one under that law. Nor has it a constitutional right to one. Under the broad grant of power to Congress to "make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory of the United States" it could have refused to make provision for Delegates except where bound to do so by agreements with States which had ceded territory to the general government.

WHERE HONOR IS DUE.

The announcement is made that the nurses of the Visiting Nurses' association cared for 669 patients during the month of March and made 2,710 visits during that time. These are figures that mean something, and the facts must mean much more to those 669 sufferers. Whatever qualms one may have about relieving penury the duty of relieving pain is always clear. People may pretend to be poor and receive unmerited aid, but no one, unless it is a schoolboy, assumes a pain that is not his own. To relieve physical suffering is surely one of the highest offices to which human kind may be called, and Chicago ought to be proud of its standing army of nurses.

ELECTION OF SENATORS.

Yesterday the House of Representatives rejected, almost by common consent, a joint resolution for a constitutional amendment to leave it optional with State Legislatures to elect Senators or have them elected by the people, and adopted, by a vote of 240 to 15, one providing that Senators shall be elected by a direct vote of the people. It is easy to read the opinion of Representatives concerning the present method of election. The unsavory Montana case has removed any doubts they may have had as to the unwisdom of leaving the election of Senators to the Legislatures. If the people had done the electing directly in 1898 there would have been no Montana scandal. It would not be necessary for Senators to disregard precedents and repudiate their own past votes in order to seat Mr. Quay.

But there will be no such unanimity of opinion in the Senate regarding this question as in the House. There are members of the former body who have on different occasions declared themselves in favor of the election of Senators by the popular vote, and constitutional amendments to that effect have been introduced and debated learnedly, but then have been shelved. That fate, no doubt, awaits the joint resolution which the House has just sent to the Senate.

It is probable that if such a constitutional amendment as the one mentioned were submitted to the States, three-fourths of them would ratify it. While the Legislatures in many instances would be reluctant to deprive themselves of the power they enjoy now, a power which numbers of them have not misused, the pressure of public opinion would force them to ratify the amendment. Where voters have given the subject any thought, especially in States where Legislatures have misbehaved, they generally prefer the direct election method.

There are many Senators, however, who prefer the present method. They understand it. It has put them where they are. With it they believe they can stay where they are. They have doubts as to their ability to be reelected if they had to appeal directly to the people for votes. Their control of the "machine" would insure them convention nominations, but nothing more. Hence the improbability of the necessary two-thirds vote being cast for the House joint resolution, if a vote on it is ever reached.

STARTLING NEWS FROM PARIS.

Startling news comes from Paris. International complications of a serious nature are threatened. Not since Paul Deroulede organized a mob of three hackmen and a bootblack to overthrow the republic has there been an occurrence of such significance in the gay capital. Charles Harries Simms of Chicago has been challenged to mortal combat by a French journalist.

Under ordinary circumstances or if both parties to the prospective duel were Frenchmen the challenge might pass without notice. It would be understood, in that case, that neither of the duelists was in any more danger than if about to play a game of tiddle-de-winks. The attendance of a surgeon would not be necessary and a bottle of Florida water and a few inches of pink court plaster would repair all possible damage to either party. In the way of publicity the affair would hardly call for more than a three line item in the column devoted to amateur sports.

But the circumstances which surround the present appeal to the code of honor are such as to call for more extended comment. In the first place, Mr. Simms is a son-in-law of Commissioner General Peck, the official representative of the United States at the exposition. This fact at once establishes the international character of the proposed duel and may make diplomatic interference or even an appeal to arbitration necessary.

In the second place, the warlike Frenchman was probably deceived by the fact that Mr. Simms is acting as Assistant Director of the Department of Fine Arts into thinking that he is unused to martial exercises and likely to tremble at the thought of bloodshed. Nothing would be further from the facts. Mr. Simms is somewhat noted as an athlete and has even played center rush on a college football team. If as the challenged party he should choose a meeting with footballs as the weapons the possibilities are too terrible to contemplate.

As to the cause of the impending conflict it is understood that Mr. Simms remarked in the hearing of the French journalist that "procrastination is the thief of time." This was understood by the latter as a reflection on the exposition authorities, who have been somewhat dilatory in their preparations for the opening day, and the challenge promptly followed.

It is hoped in the interest of international amity that the trouble may be settled or at least that the duel may be postponed until after the Lafayette Monument has been dedicated and the exposition safely opened.

THE TRANSITION IN HAVANA.

The latest issue of the New York Independent contains a timely article by General Ludlow, commanding the Department of Havana, upon the transition in that city. The article in question, which has been condensed from official reports and personal interviews, and revised and approved by the General, throws an interesting and altogether encouraging light upon the situation in Havana since the American occupation. General Ludlow dwells with special emphasis upon the capacity of the Cubans for self-control, and in this respect his statements will be found the exact reverse of what has been generally expected. He illustrates this point by two events which have occurred since the occupation. One of these was the evacuation by the Spanish army and the advent of the Cuban forces. Upon such an occasion it was entirely natural that the Cubans in Havana should wish to make a demonstration, and they had prepared a program for a week's festivities to celebrate their emancipation from Spanish misrule and oppression. General Ludlow himself doubted the expediency of such a celebration in the transition state, and called some of the Cuban representatives into a council. They agreed with him, and the people, though disappointed, accepted the decision in such a manner as to confirm the belief that they will exercise self-control "when appeal is made to their reason and judgment with sympathy and firmness." The second event occurred in the establishment of the local civil government and the organization of the native police force. Both the police themselves and the people had to be educated in the meaning of what the police stand for. There were a few conflicts at first between the people and the police, and some of them were incited by raw, undisciplined American soldiers. As soon, however, as the people found that the police represented law and order, and were the public servants, there was an end of all trouble, and the system now gives excellent promise.

General Ludlow dwells with natural pride upon the results which have already been accomplished during the comparatively brief period of American occupation. The people not only have had an object lesson in local civil government but also an exceedingly important one in sanitation. He points to the significant fact that in one year the United States has demonstrated what Spain had failed to do in 400 years—namely: that Havana is not necessarily an unhealthy city. The enormous task of renovating the city by the installment of a sewerage system and a more perfect distribution of the water supply has been richly rewarded. The decrease in the death rate has been so marked, especially in relation to contagious diseases, that it is now substantially that of the normal point of large cities in the United States, and the mortality from yellow fever has not been so low in a century. Proper sanitation, General Ludlow declares, will make "the island, with its great resources, as safe to inhabit as any part of the United States."

The future happiness and prosperity of Cuba, General Ludlow believes, lie in the removal of illiteracy, the complete reorganization of the educational system, and improvement in legal procedure and the administration of laws, which must be accomplished by the substitution of American in place of the Spanish methods now in practice. To do this will require time and patience, but he believes it can be effected, for the Cuban children are quick, bright, and docile, and "there is enough latent intelligence in Cuba to meet any of the problems of self-government, provided this intelligence can have proper authority and expression." So far as the legal establishment is concerned, he is of opinion that the necessary modifications of the Spanish law can be made without any shock and in a manner which will be entirely acceptable to the people.

These are the main points of General Ludlow's presentation of a subject upon which he is in every way qualified to speak with authority. Without any regard to the question of annexation, which he says would be voted down at present by an overwhelming majority, his statements are of a distinctly encouraging character and foreshadow a prosperous future for the island when the conditions of law and order become permanent and a responsible administration can be maintained.

PRESS COMMENT—THE WEST.

KANSAS CITY.

The administration newspapers say the President says "Otis has earned a rest." He has. The opinion of the country is, he ought to have taken it before he went to the Philippines.—Times.

Our Democratic friends are weeping copiously over the woes of Porto Rico. But these are crocodile tears, wrung from unwilling eyes, in order to create a dramatic situation. And it will take more than forced sobs to convince the American people that the Democratic party has feelings of true humanity toward the black man of the sunny South.—Journal.

It would appear that the Cubans do not lack for political parties, which, thanks to the American occupation, are free to carry on their conflicts with each other. If the Autonomists continue to take part in politics, it will be under the protection the United States at present guarantees to peaceable people in the island. With the withdrawal of that rule ends political freedom in Cuba.—Star.

TOPEKA.

Having changed his own opinion about Porto Rico, the President has hopes, it is said, that public opinion would change too, but he now sees that there is no chance for such an outcome.—State Journal.

By the purchase of that ten-mile wide strip of land through Nicaragua and Costa Rica our government will get around all the international difficulties and own its own canal, which is just what the American people want.—Capital.

SIOUX CITY.

There ought to be some reduction in taxation. It would be practicable if Congress would be economical. The customs and internal revenue have increased largely recently, the former because of a heavy increase of foreign imports and the latter as a result of the prosperous condition of the country. The surplus thus obtained is kept in the Treasury when the country could profitably use it, and if it is remitted to the people it would be more satisfactory than to appropriate it for the benefit of a few.—Tribune.

General Otis should be greeted upon his return as one who has done a great work well. There is nothing of a spectacular nature in the service he has rendered his country during the long months of warfare in Luzon. But if one looks at results as the test of success General Otis has been remarkably successful. There is no reason to believe that he will return expecting to pose as a great hero, but the American people will be ungrateful if they do not greet him with due acknowledgment of the faithful and effective service he has rendered in suppressing the Philippine rebellion.—Journal.

OMAHA.

If Porto Rico had had any votes in the Electoral college the result might have been different.—News.

The Markeese de Hay's silence indicates that he is working overtime trying to think thoughts that will do justice to the base treachery of Web Davis.—World-Herald.

The evident worry of the Popocrats over the evidences of harmony in the Republican party, not only in Omaha but all over the State, is the best evidence of the fact that it reduces materially their slim chances of carrying Nebraska. To stir up strife in the Republican party is vastly more important to the Popocrats at present than any other campaign work in sight and they are putting in overtime at it.—Bee.

DENVER.

Although there have been some criticisms upon his administration, General Otis may justly claim that on the whole he has discharged his difficult duties well and that he is entitled to the thanks and appreciation of his countrymen.—Republican.

"THEY put the thing in to please me," said the young man with the prosperous look. "I like to take a bath when I come in at night after the folks have gone to bed and the water in the tank has got cold. So they got the machine that finally started me on the high road to fortune.

"The old man showed it to me when I came home one night. 'There,' he said, pointing to it as it stood in one corner of the kitchen, 'now you'll be able to get hot water at any hour of the day or night. It's a patent, compound, duplex, quadruple heater. You simply light it here and that starts all this big row of burners blazing. In half a minute you can get all the boiling water you want. Of course it'll be expensive, but we want to make you perfectly satisfied, no matter what it costs.'

"I suppose they were afraid I'd give up my room and go somewhere else to live, but they needn't have worried about that. Any Indiana man would give a couple of dollars a week extra to be allowed to eat breakfast in his shirt sleeves, and that's only one of the privileges they give me. I've occupied their front hall bedroom for the last five years, and they couldn't pry me out of it with a writ of injunction. But I thought I ought to show my appreciation of the new hot water heater, so I decided to take a bath every night, at least 'till the novelty wore off.'

"The first evening after the duplex compound machine was put in I spent at the athletic club. I sparred a round or two with the featherweight champion and accumulated a first-class black eye. When I got home at 10 o'clock I was just in the humor for a nice hot bath.

"The family had retired, but I had no trouble at all in getting the heater going. It made a tremendous blaze and boiling water was pouring from the spout before I was ready for it. The bath made me sleepy and I dropped off in a minute after I struck my bed.

"About 6 o'clock the next morning I was awakened by a yell from the head of the house. The noise seemed to come from the kitchen and I rushed out there to see what was the matter. There he was with a rug wrapped around his hand and arm trying to turn off the burner which I had forgotten to turn off the night before. It had been running at full blast for eight hours and it was a miracle that the house hadn't burned down. As it was, the stove was red hot, the lead pipes had been partially melted, and the woodwork was smoking. In one place the tank had sprung a leak and the water dripping down into the flames made a noise which had awakened Mr. Macgruder from a sound sleep. He had thought the noise was made by burglars and had crept out in his night gown, carrying his revolver at present.

"When he finally got the burners turned off he turned to me. It wasn't what he said but the way he looked that affected me. He didn't seem to care so much about the scorched woodwork and the damaged plumbing. It was the great waste of gas which seemed to hurt his feelings.

"'I told you this thing was expensive,' he said, 'and here you've gone and let it burn all night.'

"I went back to my room and dressed and made up my mind I'd have to do something to square myself with the old man. At breakfast I noticed that both Macgruder and his wife seemed almost overwhelmed by a sense of approaching disaster and I concluded I'd better make my proposition good and generous.

"'It was thoughtless and careless of me to leave that burner turned on all night,'

"IN HIS NIGHT GOWN, CARRYING HIS REVOLVER."

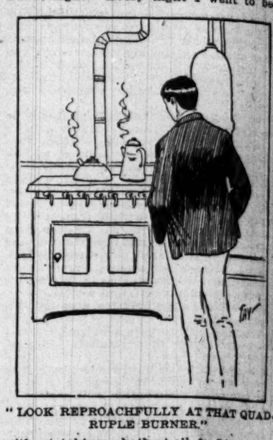

I said, 'and I want to make it right. I don't want my carelessness to cost you a cent and I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll pay the difference between your last month's gas bill and the one you get this month out of my own pocket. That ought to make us square, don't you think?'

"Mr. and Mrs. Macgruder both agreed that my proposal showed the right spirit.

"'I wouldn't care a thing about it,' said 'Mac,' 'if that confounded heater didn't burn such an enormous amount of gas. The whole thing was turned on full for eight hours and I supposed it burned more gas in that time than our whole bill would amount to. If you want to pay the difference we'll call it square and think you are a good fellow in the bargain.'

"I've lived in Chicago for nearly ten years and I've never saved anything out of my salary, but with the prospect of that gas bill at the end of the month before me I made the effort of my life. I knew it would eat up my wages for at least a week and I didn't want to be flat broke for that length of time, so I cut off on cigars, walked downtown every morning, and ate lunch at a 'kill-'em-quick-grab-what-you-see lunch counter.' At the end of the first week I had $6 laid away as a start on the gas fund.

"Every morning when I got up I used to go out to the kitchen and look reproachfully at that quadruple burner, and wonder whether there was any probability that it had burned more than $25 worth of gas that awful night. Every night I went to bed without taking a bath at all, for I knew the bill would be big enough already, without letting it burn any more.

"At the end of the second week I had $13 saved up, and the long walks I was taking daily were having a perceptible effect on my health. My appetite was better, and I was no longer troubled by dyspepsia in spite of the lunch counters.

"The gas bill for each month usually came in about the 20th, and at that date I began to get nervous. I had succeeded in saving $22, and had strong hopes that I would not be called upon for a larger amount, though 'Mac' kept me in hot water by referring now and then to the terrible capacity of that ring of big burners about the heater. I even went down to the cellar with a candle and tried to study out the figures of the gas meter. As near as I could make out, they showed that 5,384,229 cubic feet of gas had been consumed, and that didn't seem at all reassuring.

"Finally the 20th of the month went by,

and not a word was said about the bill. It even seemed to me that 'Mac' was avoiding me. He slipped away to work before I got up in the morning, and had always gone to bed when I got home at night. Finally the suspense became more than I could bear. One morning at breakfast I asked Mrs. 'Mac' about it.

"'I should think the gas bill ought to be here by this time,' I said. 'I want to know how much it is, and how much your last month's bill was. I shall insist on paying the difference, for, of course, the extra amount is due to my carelessness in letting that big hot water burner run full blast all night.'

"Mrs. 'Mac' looked at me and smiled. '"Mac" told me not to say anything about it,' she said. 'This month's bill is $10 less than last month's. We don't know how to account for it all, but, of course, there is nothing for you to pay.'

"There I was with $25 saved up, and a lot of economical habits on my hands. I went right down-town and opened an account at a savings bank, and now I've got several hundred dollars laid away.

"Every night I use that patent hot water heater, and 'Mac' has never said another word about how expensive it is. And I'm free to confess that I've got the gas trust to thank for making me a potential millionaire. The fear of that gas bill, which I never had to pay, forced me to learn how to save money, and taught me that economical habits were as good for my health as for my pocketbook."

The British soldiers when they passed through Port Elizabeth on their way to Cape Colony were handed cards by a committee from the Queen Street Baptist Church of Port Elizabeth, on which was printed Sir George Colley's prayer, written by him twenty-seven years before his death at Majuba Hill. The prayer reads as follows:

"Lord, ere I join the deadly strife.
First would I render soul and life
To thine almighty care.
And when grim death in smokewreaths robed
Comes thundering o'er the scene,
What fear can reach the soldier's heart
Whose trust in thee has been?"

SHORE LAND IS UNTAXED.

ILLINOIS STEEL COMPANY OCCUPIES TRACT ESTIMATED AT $480,000.

Failure of County Clerk to List the Property Leaves Assessors Powerless to Appraise It—Extends from Eighty-fifth to Ninety-first Street and Approximates 320,000 Square Feet—Other Large Areas Made by Wave Action Pay No Revenue.

Thousands of square feet of land occupied by the Illinois Steel company remain unassessed as a result of the failure of the County Clerk to list the property. The tract lies along the shore of Lake Michigan, between Eighty-fifth and Ninety-first streets, outside of the original shore line. It is estimated that 320,000 square feet of land are contained in the strip, on which several buildings have been erected by the Steel company. On a basis of $1.50 a square foot, an average of sale prices in that section of the city, the tract is estimated to be worth $480,000.

The failure of the Assessors to put a valuation on the property is due to the fact that they have no official knowledge of its existence. Acccording to State and county records, the property of the Illinois Steel company extends only 905 feet east from Mackinac avenue, its western boundary. The government survey shows, however, that the distance of the shore line from Mackinac avenue in some places is over 2,000 feet. All of this territory has been fenced in by the company, and there is no access to the shore except through the company's works.

Its Existence Not Recorded.

When the assessments were spread on the real property in Cook County by the Board of Assessors last year, each assistant Assessor was assigned to a section of land to appraise it. These sections covered all property listed by the County Clerk, and the Board of Assessors has no official right to list property and no official knowledge of the existence of property not shown in the County Clerk's records.

Accordingly, blocks 1, 2, 3, 30, 31, 32, 33, 62, and 63 were assessed, the valuation of this property and the buildings on it being placed at $3,000,000, giving an assessed valuation of $600,000, which afterwards was decreased by the Board of Review to $408,000; but no record of an assessment on property lying east of the boundaries of these blocks is shown on the Assessors' books.

The property on which no assessment was placed is land that has accumulated since the boundaries of Cook County were originally specified. Some of it is made land. The greater part is the result of accretion through the action of water.

Holds Ownership Is in Doubt.

Assessor Adam Wolff said yesterday that the Board of Assessors was powerless to levy an assessment on this land unless it should be listed by the County Clerk. "Even then there would be some doubt as to our right to assess it," he said, "as there would be a question of ownership. The land might belong to the company and might belong to the city. I should think that it would belong to the municipal government."

W. D. Haynie of the Law department of the Illinois Steel company said: "I never heard of the question of the ownership of the land being discussed before, and did not know that it wa not assessed. The company has not filled in the lake or made any land. Any accretions naturally would become the property of the company, as it would exercise its riparian rights."

At the Assessors' office it is said that there are hundreds of acres of land along the lake shore that are unassessed because they are not shown to exist by the records of the county. Instances of men paying taxes on lots 100 feet long and one foot broad, so that they may become owners of the land that will be built up by the action of the waves, are said to be frequent. In many cases land has been built up and divided into lots, which are not recorded and remain untaxed.

On the other hand, it is said that taxes have been levied on blocks of land on the lake shore, the valuation having been based on the area shown in the records, and on complaints being made it has been found that the lots had been washed away by the action of the waves.

SEEK MORE LAND ALONG RIVER.

Drainage Trustees Negotiating for Additional Realty—Decide on Bigger Bridges—Hennepin Compromise.

At a joint meeting of the Drainage board Finance and Engineering committees yesterday negotiations were begun for the purchase of certain strips of land for use in widening the river. Engineer Johnston presented plans for straightening and widening a number of the narrowest bends in the South Branch, and the trustees decided to do the work, providing the land can be bought for a reasonable figure.

South of the Chicago Terminal railroad bridge the board is anxious to acquire 1,000 square feet of property from the Rock Island railroad to widen the stream ten feet. The cost will be $10,000. The river is so narrow at this point the largest boats cannot pass the coffer dams where the bridge is being built. The river at Canal street will be widened to 200 feet and the new bridge there will have a 140-foot draw. Between Eighteenth and Stewart avenue it is proposed to make a channel 200 feet wide at a cost of $110,000.

The board decided that all bridges shall have openings 140 feet wide between abutments. City Engineer Ericson informed the committee that the three bascule bridges recently ordered were most needed at Randolph, Harrison, and Eighteenth streets. This plan contemplates the removal of the Washington street structure and the closing of that thoroughfare at the river until the tunnel is lowered. The location of these bridges will come before the Engineering committee as a special order on Monday. A delegation of West Side business-men will be present to urge the necessity of placing one of the bridges at Madison street.

Trustee Jones declared that the Drainage board will not be allowed to go to the Legislature for funds to make the river thirty feet deep and 200 feet wide. The method of procedure he suggests is for the board to admit that its river plans are inadequate in an affidavit to the Attorney General and request him to present the facts to the Supreme Court. The court, under authority granted in the sanitary act, it is asserted, could direct the Drainage board to extend a tax of 1½ per cent until sufficient funds were available to provide an adequate channel.

If the government decides to accept an offer of settlement made by the defendants in the case of the United States against Jeremiah H. Rickel and others, the last step will have been taken in the long-pending condemnation proceedings against land owners in the right of way of the Hennepin Canal. There still remains the formality of submitting the case to a jury, and when this is done at Peoria on April 16 it is thought the matter will be ended. The government officials now see their way clear to an early completion of the canal.

PREDICTS RISE OF CARTHAGE.

The restoration of Carthage to something of its ancient glory and splendor was predicted by Professor Nathaniel Schmidt of Cornell University in a lecture at Haskell Museum, University of Chicago, yesterday. Professor Schmidt traced the history of the rise of Carthage to one of the most powerful cities of the ancient world, and its utter humiliation by Rome. He said that the chief cause of its destruction, however, was internal disorders and the concentration of power in the hands of the judges. He prophesied that the city would regain much of its original prestige owing to the development of northern Africa by the French.

DR. TORREY EXPOSES DOWIE.

Says the "Overseer of Zion" Is Guilty of Deliberate Untruth—Former's Letter Explained.

For some time John Alexander Dowie, the head of the Zionists, has used in his campaign a letter from the Rev. R. A. Torrey of the Chicago Avenue Church, with several testimonials, also purporting to be from Dr. Torrey. The letter referred to purported to be a request of Dr. Torrey to Dowie to pray for the recovery of the writer's child. The testimonials purported to be quasi indorsements of Dowie and his power as a healer. The matter caused considerable surprise in local church circles, and the Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage used the incident as the text of one of his sermons and asked Dr. Torrey to repudiate his belief, not in the power of prayer, but in Dowie and Dowieism.

In answer to that request the Rev. Dr. Torrey has made the following positive statement:

"I never heard or saw Mr. Dowie but once in my life. That was a few months after his first coming to Chicago, years ago. I did not take any stock in him then, although he made no such outrageous claims then as he does now. At the time of the sickness of one of my children a member of my family, in great anxiety of mind as to the issue, did desire Mr. Dowie's prayers, but I declined to request them. At last I was prevailed upon to ask them to quiet the heart of this member of my family. The letter, however, was delayed in transmission until the next day. A postscript was added to it at 9:20 a. m. of that day, so it must have been mailed later. The first collection at the box where it was mailed, North State and Chestnut streets, was at 10:30 a. m., and the letter was due at the Postoffice at 11:30 a. m. It could not, therefore, have been received by Mr. Dowie or his elders before 12 o'clock. When I reached home at noon the child was up and around as usual. So Mr. Dowie's prayers had nothing to do with the child's cure. Mr. Dowie deliberately altered this letter, changing some words, omitting others and adding others, and used it as a campaign document, saying: 'I reached home in time to pray for Dr. Torrey's child and she recovered.' This is a deliberate untruth.

"He has also published two testimonials purporting to come from me. One is said to have been given Sept. 29 or 30, 1899, here in Chicago. Now, the fact is, I was not in Chicago on Sept. 29 or 30, 1899, and had not been for three months. Since he has found out this blunder he has tried to make it appear that it was Oct. 6, 1899, when the testimonial was given. But the document, as printed in his own paper distinctly says that it was given three days before Dr. Talmage's attack on Dowie, which, every one knows, was Oct. 1, 1899. The other testimonial I am said to have given in Dayton, O., in the spring of 1899. I was not in Dayton, O., at any time during 1898 or 1899. In fact I was never in Dayton, O., but once in my life, many years ago. I know that Mr. Dowie slanders, outrageously and deliberately, faithful servants of God, and that he does not take those slanders back when their falsity is clearly proven to him. I know that he makes claims for himself of the most daringly presumptuous character. I cannot see how any conscientious student of the Bible can remain longer under his influence."

GOSSIP OF STAGE AND PLAYERS

May Irwin's Real Debut.

This is history. It is the chronicle of the way May Irwin came to be May Irwin. One November night a good many years ago—no need to say how many—a woman and two little girls stepped from a train at Rochester, N. Y. All three were clad in black. At the hotel the mother registered "Mrs. Thomas Campbell, Georgie Campbell, Ada Campbell." To the landlord Mrs. Campbell explained that she was a widow, and that she had brought her children from the Canadian lumber village which had been their home to get them a theater engagement in the United States.

"I've just got $100," she said, "and they must have a chance. They can both play on the piano and sing like angels. Please help us."

The landlord promised and he kept his word. He took the trio to the manager of a local variety theater, and before that important individual Georgie and Addy sang "Genevieve," "Under the Daisies," and "O, Ye Tears and Wings." The manager recognized talent, but it was buried under so much crudeness that he was doubtful. In the end, after two weeks of rehearsals, he "flunked," but told Mrs. Campbell he had secured a trial engagement for her children at Buffalo, and that if they succeeded there he would engage them himself. He gave her advice and a bottle of pink dye with which to change white stockings to pink fleshings.

In Buffalo the wardroom mistress fitted the children out with hideous costumes. The dresses were so short that the home made pantalettes fell far below the skirts. The pink stockings completed the ghastly effect. In the greenroom mother and children sobbed together until the curl came. Then the children controlled themselves and went bravely forth—to unexpected triumph. In response to the first encore they essayed a duet, but Georgie fainted.

"Never mind," called out Ada, "I'll sing both parts." And she did.

Georgie recovered in a few minutes and came back upon the stage. The plucky pair were cheered to the echo. They remained in Buffalo six weeks and then, at the urgent request of the Rochester management, they returned to that city. They found themselves announced as the little Irwin sisters, Flora and May. Without consulting them the Rochester manager had rechristened them. Georgie Campbell became May Irwin.

Honeymoon Late in Rising.

William H. Thompson thinks he has cause for sadness. By the cruel fate of theatrical bookings he will have to spend the first month and a half of his summer vacation as an unhappy bachelor. For that same period his wife, Miss Isabel Irving, will be a slave of toil. John Drew does not close the season of "The Tyranny of Tears," in which Miss Irving has the rôle of the weeping Mrs. Parbury, until late in June. "The Little Minister" closes on May 5.

The worst of it is that Mr. and Mrs. Thompson never have had a honeymoon. They were married quietly, almost secretly, last November, while "The Little Minister" was being played in the vicinity of New York and while Mr. Drew's New York engagement was in progress. From that day to this they scarcely have been in the same place together. When Miss Adams and her company went into New York Mr. Drew and his company had departed, and since both organizations have been on the road their routes have not brought them together.

When Mr. Thompson expresses sorrow at the state of affairs he takes care that the moment is one in which he is wearing the makeup of Thomas Whamond, chief elder of the Gavin Dishart's Kirk. He says that the solemnity of the elder's looks best befits melancholy.

"The horrible part of the situation is," he explains, "that my wife ends her season in a town they call Spokane, up in the northwest corner of the country somewhere. That will be about June 17, and I will be in New York, across the continent. It will be another week before she can join me. If the luck which began with our marriage continues I don't know whether we ever will have a honeymoon. You see we planned to have the marriage kept secret, because we knew we would be separated until the end of the season. Some one betrayed us, however, and the news was out next day. When the first reporter tackled me I tried to 'bluff him out.' I looked at him severely and said, 'Young man, I have been married once, and that is enough for me.' I thought he would assume I was speaking of a distant past. He knew more than I supposed. He named the hour I was married, and then quoted my remark, adding something about the brevity of bliss. I forget how long it took me to convince my wife I had been maligned."

David Harum as a Drama.

The dramatization of "David Harum," which William Crane produced at Rochester the first of the week, is divided into three acts. The first shows the exterior of David Harum's house, with its verandas, and Aunt Polly's potted plants, the bank building close by, and in the background the barn. Chet Timson starts the telling of the story, explaining to the new cashier from New York, John Lenox, how Dave Harum wants his business conducted. Dick Larrabee and Dug Robinson come out of the barn. Billy P.'s widow, Mrs. Cullom, makes her appearance, and later Deacon Perkins and the usurer Zeke Swinney come along. Mr. Harum makes his entrance behind the bay mare. Before the curtain drops Aunt Polly, Mary Blake, Amos Elliright, Bill Montaig, and Peleg Hopkins have been introduced.

The second act is laid in the room adjoining the main office of the bank, and its chief incidents are those of John Lenox's experience with the counterfeit bills and of Mr. Harum's efforts to get possession of the mortgages on the widow Cullom's home.

The third act takes place on Christmas morning in Aunt Polly's sitting-room. John's things are being surreptitiously removed from the Eagle tavern to Aunt Polly's spare room. There is John's surprise, there is the visit of the Widow Cullom, who expects to have her mortgages foreclosed by the "hard hearted" David, and who receives instead the canceled documents, there is the recital by Mr. Harum of his visit to the circus with Billy P., and finally the engagement of John Lenox and Mary Blake. The curtain falls on the Christmas dinner, and the opening of the bottle of champagne, for which David must have paid at least "four shillings."

Plan of a Home-Made Drama.

If Otis Skinner were willing, a rare treat would be in store for Chicago. The following is a copy of the explanatory letter which Mr. Skinner received shortly after his arrival in the city early in the week:

"Mr. Otis Skinner: As a friend of a good Drama, and a regular patron of the Theater, I have decided to try my luck in writing a Good Drama. I have had success having rigged up a thrilling Drama of Chicago's life. It contains a case of Bigame, also a kidnapping case, a murder case, as also a real picture of the levee life. This play is mingled with sorrow and fun, it also represents some thrilling combats with noted criminals. The vilain, a most cowardly but threaterous scoundrel, who after losing his right arm becomes more desperate than ever, his assistent, another coward, with a little more mercy, give the play a most thrilling effect. The Hero an Outcast brave and daring newsboy with his jolly way and honest manners, is always in the thick of the trouble as well as his friend another Outcast. This play will be a success from start to finish with natural scenes and daring deeds. It consists of Four Acts and Eleven Scenes. I not being able to run it myself owing to the lack of money I concluded to try to sell it if I can get a reasonable price. Having seen a number of Plays under your direction I have concluded to offer you the oppertunity to make an offer, if you desire a good play representing a true life of Our great city."

Mansfield on Jefferson.

Says Mr. Jefferson: "I think that Mr. Mansfield's intensity of temperament leads him to overact. The fault jars my nerves, but I have faith he will outgrow it in time."

Says Mr. Mansfield: "I am sorry to learn that my acting has continued to trouble Mr. Jefferson through these many years. I believe it is fifteen years since he attended one of my performances."

Further instance of the mutual admiration of great players is afforded by an anecdote with which Mr. Mansfield often has credited Mr. Jefferson.

"You know how actors love one another," is the cynical way in which Mr. Mansfield usually begins it. "Well, during one of Sir Henry Irving's earlier tours Jefferson, who never had seen the English actor, stepped one night into a theater where Irving was playing 'The Merchant of Venice.' Jefferson watched and listened for a few minutes. Then he turned to a friend. 'Is that fellow on the stage this man Irving?' he asked. His companion nodded. Jefferson grunted out, 'My man Bob could play Shylock better than that,' and stalked from the theater.

"I always think of that incident," Mr. Mansfield is accustomed to add with fond emphasis, "when I read the nice things Jefferson says in print about Irving."

Bills for Sunday.

At this time in the season theatrical affairs rarely converge on a Sunday to the extent they will here in Chicago tomorrow. Possibly it is the reaction from Holy Week. Here is the schedule: The Dearborn stock company will attempt the most ambitious feat of its existence, the presentation of "As You Like It," with Julia Stuart as Rosalind and Howell Hansel as Orlando. May Irwin, who has been resting during Holy Week and who reached Chicago last night, will begin an engagement at the Grand Opera-House in "Sister Mary." Melbourne MacDowell and Blanche Walsh will appear in Fanny Davenport's former play, "Cleopatra," at McVicker's. A new farce, "Hello, Bill," with George Ober and John Hyams in the cast, comes to the Great Northern.

May Hosmer's Memory.

In her career as a stock company actress Miss May Hosmer of the Hopkins company has played 200 parts and memorized 1,200,000 words.

"I have no fear of impaired health," she says. "I have set down two rules. The first is that I forget all about my work when I am not actually engaged in studying or acting. I take street car rides and walks and talk to my friends. The second is that I make my work a business, and let nothing interfere with it. The doctors tell me I am a bundle of nerves and that the nerves are what keep me up. Probably that is so, but at any rate the nerves do not worry me. I have been on the stage since I was a child, and I expect to be on it for many years to come."

Chicago Orchestra Concert.

The public rehearsal of the Chicago Orchestra's twentieth program took place at the Auditorium yesterday afternoon, under the direction of Mr. Theodore Thomas. The attendance was somewhat smaller than usual, but this loss falls to the share of those who were so unfortunate as to remain away, inasmuch as the orchestra played with a finish which has been rarely if ever equaled during all the years of its history. The program was as follows:

Overture, "Anacreon".....Cherubini
Siegfried Idyl.....Wagner
Concerto for Pianoforte, opus 16.....Grieg
Allegro Molto Moderato. Adagio. Allegro Moderato Molto e Marcato.
INTERMISSION.
Symphony No. 6, Pathetic.....Tschaikowsky
Adagio—Allegro—Andante—Allegro Vivo.
Allegro con Grazia.
Allegro Molto Vivace.
Adagio Lamentoso.
Soloist—Mr. George Proctor.

Cherubini's "Anacreon" overtures is a brilliant and spirited composition, and one which is exceedingly difficult to play in adequate fashion. But yesterday's reading of this fine work left little to be desired from any standpoint. This may also be said with equal truth of the performance of Wagner's "Siegfried Idyl," which followed, and which was given with exceptional beauty of tone and elegance of expression. This piece has been played here many times in past years and always beautifully, but it is doubtful whether Mr. Thomas has ever surpassed the interpretation he presented yesterday afternoon.

The great "Pathétique" symphony of Tschaikowsky, with which the concert concluded, was performed in a manner quite in keeping with the standard established in the first half of the program. The wondrous last movement was made to reveal its marvelous contents in a most affecting manner, being invested throughout with extraordinary breadth and intensity.

The soloist was Mr. George Proctor of Boston, who essayed Grieg's A minor pianoforte concerto with considerable success. Mr. Proctor's performance was of an academic and somewhat mechanical nature, however, rather than marked with the subtle poesy and beauties of tone color which bring this interesting work to its highest expression. His rhythms are inclined to be stiff and unyielding, rather than poetically plastic, although it should be said, on the other hand, and to the player's credit, that he at no time forced his instrument to unmusical lengths.

Mr. Proctor's technique is a good one, generally clean, and capable of great rapidity of execution, but his performance of yesterday was hardly of sufficient general worth to entitle it to a place among the best which have been heard at the symphony concerts! For an encore he gave Rubinstein's G minor Barcarolle.

OPERA STARS EARN FORTUNES.

Chicagoans Say Mme. Sembrich's $100,000 a Year Is Hardly Out of the Ordinary.

Chicagoans having knowledge of the large earnings of some operatic stars declared that the $100,000 received by Mme. Sembrich in a year is nothing unusual, and that in fact this amount has been exceeded by several singers, with fewer engagements than Mme. Sembrich filled. Mme. Melba, Mme. Calvé, and Jean de Reszke are credited with having made at least $125,000 in six months, while Mme. Patti is said to have set the high water mark with earnings of over $400,000 for a season's work.

These statements were apropos of the New York dispatch in yesterday's TRIBUNE to the effect that Mme. Sembrich received during her recent six months' engagements in this country about $66,000, and would receive for engagements abroad in the same year several thousands more.

"It is extremely difficult to make any comparisons in this matter," said a man who is thoroughly familiar with the earnings and ways of these stars, "for the reason their total earnings depend entirely on the number of engagements they fill. Now, Mme. Sembrich is an unusually energetic woman, and withal has a capacity for work which many of those who are quite her equal as artists have not. She has been a busy woman during the last season. I happen to know that Mme. Melba and Mme. Calvé, also Jean de Reszke, have earned over $125,000 during a season. This includes five months in this country and from one month to two months in London and on the continent. Mme. Patti, during her tour of South America, is credited with having made over $400,000. She used to receive $5,000 in gold for each performance, and she has received as high as $8,000 for a night's engagement. Mme. Melba and Mme. Calvé have also received some fancy sums, on some occasions report placing their earnings as high as $6,000 a night. But of course these are exceptions. Sometimes they have been content with $2,000, and in general they seldom have received over $4,000.

"Jean de Reszke also has been a great money maker and has received some fancy prices for his work. Van Dyke is another who has earned big money. But their yearly earnings depend on how many engagements they fill. Some of the stars are not inclined to sing in concert, and in general do not seem actuated by any great desire to make a record in the amount of their earnings. They are keen enough with regard to the sums they ask whenever they sing, but some of them seem to think that by singing frequently they make themselves common, and in this way cheapen their drawing qualities. They had rather sing fewer times and receive larger sums for each performance. But, of course, none of them are receiving now what they formerly did in the flush times of opera."

SHORT STORY OF THE DAY.

"This House For Rent."

JUST the thing!" ejaculated David Gregory.

He stood looking at the little Queen Anne dovecote on Jackson boulevard with eyes of critical commendation.

"Style—neighborhood—apparent size—all satisfactory!" he murmured. "Now, I'll hunt up the key and take a look at it. Let me see!"

He moved nearer—went up a few steps. There was penciling in one corner of the notice. "Key at cottage directly opposite," he read. As fate would have it the door of the cottage across the street opened just then. An old man appeared. The sight of a stranger scrutinizing the placard in the domicile to which he possessed the key straightway interested him. He hobbled over in an energetic manner.

"Beg pardon, sir. Lookin' for a house? Like to go through this one?"

The stranger, who looked prosperous and businesslike, turned at once.

"Yes, I fancy it is about what I require. I will see it now if you have the key."

"No time like the present, sir," returned the old chap cheerfully. He made a dive in his pocket and brought up a bunch of string, half a dozen matches, some silver change, and a corpulent rubber doll. "This here's my grandchild's," he explained, "but I don't know how it got in my pocket." A second swoop brought to light the fugitive key. "Now, if you'll go right in, sir, I'll wait here a spell. I judge folks can make up their minds better when they ain't hampered by company. I'll wait here."

"There was two keys hanging here," she remarked in bewilderment. "I suppose he's got one in his pocket. Pa's memory ain't what it used to be. Yes—$50. And a deposit down, sir, if it suits."

"It suits," he decided twenty minutes later. He handed her in the key. "I can have possession, I suppose, before the 1st of May?"

"Any time, sir. Ten? That's all right, thank you. Yes, I'll take the placard down."

Now, Isaac Harvey, while engaged in transferring his audacious small granddaughter to the home of her parents, was foolish enough to fling his overcoat back and stand enjoying the lake breezes on the platform of the car as the Illinois Central train rushed southward. In the meantime Miss Armandra flattened her nose against the window pane, which looked out upon the pulsing blue-green waters, just freeing themselves from winter bondage. This rashness on the part of Mr. Harvey was promptly paid for by his going to bed with a chill on his arrival at Parkside. Pneumonia supervened before he could return home. It is really unnecessary to say more of Mr. Harvey.

But during his enforced absence from home fate was playing tricks behind his back. Who would have supposed that the mother of David Gregory would be called East on business and the three interesting cherubs of William Hazleton's sister succumb to mumps on the same day?

"Don't worry," David advised his mother as he saw her on board the Pennsylvania limited. "I'll get the furniture into the new place if you're not back in time. One can

"Good!" he said to himself. "Electric light—wood grates—stationary refrigerator—gas range. All quite as it should be. I'll take it."

"You are the owner, I suppose?"

"Yes, sir. To speak rightly it's in the old lady's name, but what's her's is mine, you know." His senile old laugh cackled out on the blue air. "Fifty dollars a month—that's it. A deposit? Well, it's customary. Thank you, sir. And this is your card—and office address. I'll bring the contract around one of these days."

"You'll see that the placard is taken down?"

"I'll attend to that—yes, sir. And—what's that?"

"That" was a piercing yell from the cottage across the street.

"It's my grandchild!" the explanatory wail drifted back to Gregory. "I was showing you her rubber doll. I'm coming, ma—I'm coming!"

The frantic female on the threshold sent him running for a physician. By the time the doctor had come and removed the obstruction in the child's throat the minor matter of having rented the residence across the way had quite escaped the memory of old Isaac Harvey. "Now you get good and ready," his wife advised, "and take this child straight out to Parkside to Sarah. Tell her we'd like to keep Armadora with us right along, but that, what with her scalding herself the day before yesterday trying to give the cat a bath, and getting out on the roof to ling down the chimney bricks—that was yesterday—and swallowing all kind of things today, that to keep her longer here will give me nervous prostration. Tell our daughter that. And tell her, too, that Armadora ain't much different from what she was at the same age. Now you go, pa!"

PROBLEM IN HOW TO LIVE.

Quest of the Single Woman for a Suitable Abode Pictured as Almost Hopeless.

Chicago, April 9.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Where and how to live is a problem that confronts a large mass of people as each spring arrives, if not more frequently. To scan the advertisements appearing in the daily papers, and more particularly the Sunday issues, this problem might seem to the uninitiated easy of solution. But alas, as experience proves, it becomes more difficult each year.

The task is much greater for a single woman than for a single man or for the married contingent, if perchance she possess the attribute of fastidiousness and a not unlimited income. Untidy, dark-smelling places there are in plenty, but anything attractive to one accustomed to the refinements of life seems to exist solely in the imagination and the flowery advertisements. The term "first-class" seems to convey absolutely no meaning when used in this connection.

We are, perhaps to a greater degree than we like to admit, dependent upon our stomachs. An engine must have fuel to make steam. Poorly nourished systems are largely responsible for chronic irritability. A wit once said that if the soul was ever discovered it would be found embodied in the gastric juice.

It is safe to say that at least three-quarters of the private, or in any desirable, accommodations offered, specify "gentlemen only." The only rooms in regular boarding-houses given to the use of a single person are the rear hall bedrooms, for which a price altogether disproportionate as a shed, even if a self-respecting person could be content in such quarters. Modern hygiene, as well as innate fastidiousness, bars the thought of roommates for many.

Hotel life, while it is in many respects the pleasantest for a busy, independent woman, is expensive, and oftentimes lonely. And, too, while many a self-supporting woman draws a salary sufficient to enable her to live at a hotel, unless she is willing to advertise the amount she earns, she is subjected to the whispered suspicions of malicious persons (usually of her own sex), who wonder "how she can afford to live at a hotel and dress well." Having had experience, the writer knows whereof she speaks.

There are some few families who take a boarder or two to eke out their income. They ask a price altogether higher than a hotel, when the accommodations given are considered. Being "one of the family" is sometimes pleasant—more often not. Hash for breakfast once a week can be tolerated, provided the components are known, but to have it served five mornings a week is, to say the least, monotonous. In fact, the sole aim seems to be to give as little as possible, and ask a high price for it. If any protest is made the result is offense.

Several experiments in the housekeeping line have been tried, but it is not only unsatisfactory but extremely difficult for a woman to have the care of even a small home and attend to business, if her tastes lead her to anything above the grind of humdrum existence during the few leisure hours at her disposal. No man could or would attempt it, and no woman ought to.

Given a salary of $75 or $100 a month, which many single women have, one should be able to find agreeable environment without being confronted by an empty purse at the end of each month. But where?

Three dollars a week should obtain a well-furnished, good-sized sleeping room for one person, and insure its being kept in order. Four to five dollars a week should give nice board—two meals a day—well served, but the writer has found it in but two places during ten years of boarding. At present she pays $9 a week for a badly lighted, sparsely furnished room, with so plain a table that she feels certain $6 a week buys all that is served upon it to a family of three.

There ought to be many gentle people living well who would take into their homes a refined, educated, lonely woman at a reasonable price; but it seems that those who "take boarders" have no idea of the comforts of a home, or the meaning of "value received." Housekeeping and homemaking are, or should be, a business, and, in proportion to the standard maintained should the compensation therefor be expected.

Arguments on the subject, "Is Life Worth Living?" have grown threadbare, without satisfactory conclusions, but after boarding for ten years the writer is tempted to decide most emphatically in the negative.

ONE OF THE UNFORTUNATES.

EASTER FLOWER SHOW AT PARK

Washington Greenhouse to Be Filled with Bloom Tomorrow—Will Be Open All Day.

A special Easter floral display has been arranged in the conservatory at Washington Park by Gardener Fred Kanst. For two months Kanst and his assistants have been forcing flowers for the exhibit, and the three domes of the conservatory are filled with palms, ferns, cacti, and other tropical growths, while the north and south curtains are devoted to an exhibition of flowers and foliage. Among the many varieties shown are the Easter, calla, and Amarilla lilies, azaleas, the calceolaria, the cinerala, the spiræa, rhododendrons, hyacinths; the cit-lasus, and the cobsea vine.

With pleasant weather it is expected in a month to have an outdoor display of tulips which in variety of coloring and richness of shades will outdo any previous exhibition.

The conservatory will be open from 7:30 o'clock tomorrow morning until night.

FLEE 3,000 MILES TO ELUDE WEALTHY SUITOR.

MRS. SERAFYN STEFANOWIC.

SERAFYN STEFANOWIC.

An exciting 3,000 mile race between young elopers and a rejected but persistent suitor was terminated in Chicago on Tuesday, when the young runaways were married by a justice. After Easter they will have a church ceremony. Serafyn Stefanowic, aged 23, and Annie Prulgowski, a pretty brunette of 21, are the chief figures in the romance. They were born in Telchus, a village in the Austrian Province of Galicia. Annie was the belle of the village, and had many admirers, of whom the most persistent was Michael Satenski, the village magistrate. Annie loved Serafyn, although he was poor, and scorned Satenski, who was considered a wealthy man. Satenski was determined to win Annie, however, and had everything arrang with her parents, who looked with favor upon the rich suitor. Preparations were completed for the wedding, which was to take place immediately after Easter.

Things began to look desperate for the young lovers, when their friends came to their assistance and furnished them with sufficient funds to carry out a plan which they had secretly concocted. One morning Annie and Serafyn were gone. They made their way to a seaport, and a few days later were on board of a steamer, which carried them to New York. Satenski soon discovered that his fiancée had flown, and took the next steamer for America. The young people hurried on to Chicago in the hope of escaping the pursuer, and for three weeks kept in hiding on the West Side. They were in constant fear of the appearance of Satenski. On Tuesday morning they appeared before Justice Dooley, and after they had explained the situation to him through an interpreter they were married, with the clerk acting as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Stefanowic live in a little flat in the rear of 77 West Twenty-third place. He is a tailor by trade, and hopes to be able to find work. Satenski has not appeared upon the scene yet, and the young couple no longer fear him.

MARQUISE DE FONTENOY'S LETTER.

[Copyright, 1900, by the Marquise de Fontenoy.]

The imperial government at Berlin has just taken a step which may be said to affect every American citizen of German birth in this country, by expelling as objectionable foreigners the Barons Dietrich and Wolfgang Böselager, owners of an immense amount of landed property in Westphalia, and members of one of the oldest families of the Prussian nobility.

Until now there has always been a difficulty about the status of American citizens of foreign birth when they happened to return to their native land.

The English government does not, as a rule, take cognizance of the action of any Briton who secures foreign naturalization, regarding his renunciation of his English birthright as a piece of mental aberration for which he cannot be held legally responsible. To such an extent is this the case that there have been several instances of British citizens emigrating to this country, securing letters of naturalization here, and then, after acquiring a fortune, returning to the United Kingdom to enter Parliament and even accept office without any demand being made upon them to renounce their American allegiance.

Continental nations, however, are far less lenient, and time and again has the assistance of the State department at Washington been invoked in behalf of people of foreign birth, who, after acquiring American citizenship, had returned to their native land, either as visitors or as residents, and had been treated by the authorities, not as bona fide United States citizens, but as still subjects of the government of the country of their birth, being in many instances arrested for failure to fulfill their military and civil obligations as citizens of their native land.

In one word, there has always been a disposition on the part of foreign governments to decline to recognize the foreign citizenship of those of their subjects who have expatriated themselves, and I do not believe that there is a single European power that would consent to receive as Envoy of the United States one of its former subjects who had acquired American citizenship.

The expulsion from Germany of the two Barons Böselager seems to indicate that the Kaiser, at any rate, has modified his attitude in connection with this particular question. The noblemen concerned are the sons of the late Baron Böselager, who, a devout Roman Catholic and a prominent member of the so-called Center party in German politics, was rendered so indignant by the late Prince Bismarck's warfare on the Roman Catholic Church and persecution of its clergy, including the imprisonment of Cardinal Ledochowski and other prelates, that he went to England and there secured letters of naturalization as an English citizen. He remained, however, one of the great landowners of Germany, and when, soon after the accession of the present Pontiff to the throne, peace between the Prussian government and the Vatican was restored, he returned to Germany and died on his estates.

His two sons, the eldest about 30 and the other slightly younger, have spent most of their lives in Germany, and apparently no attention was paid to the fact that, from an English point of view, they were British citizens. It is only recently that they have taken to politics, and, inasmuch as they joined the political opposition against the provincial authorities of Westphalia and gave promise of becoming, by reason of their wealth and landed property, important factors in provincial affairs, the government raked up the almost totally forgotten episode of their dead father's naturalization as an English citizen in the '70s, and has expelled them as objectionable foreigners who had violated the rights of German hospitality by unwarrantable interference in German political questions. Neither of the two Barons, I may add, talks a word of English, and they are not merely Germans but Prussians to the core.

The chain which the Lord Mayor of Dublin wore around his neck the other day as the principal insignia of his office when welcoming the Queen to the Irish metropolis was a gift from King William III. to the Chief Magistrate of Dublin of the day. It was valued at the time of its presentation at $8,000, its worth having increased more than tenfold since. To the chain is appended a gold medal with the portrait of King William and Latin inscriptions. It is regarded as the masterpiece of James Roettier, the Dutch artist, who is ranked by connoisseurs as the greatest medallist that has ever been known. The chain and medal were presented by King William III. in order to take the place of the one present by King Charles I., which was carried off by King James and his satellites after the battle of the Boyne, on which account, perhaps, this last of Stuart Kings is still known at Dublin by the name of "Dirty James."

I am sorry to spoil a romantic story. But there is no truth whatsoever in the so extensively printed tale describing the elopement of the Sultan's favorite daughter, Princess Nadeshda, with the Turkish poet Niedjar, being accompanied in her flight by an unmarried daughter of the late Field Marshal, Osman Pasha, the illustrious hero of Plevna.

Now, in the first place, the Sultan has no daughter of the name of Nadeshda, as may be seen by a reference to the Almanach de Gotha. There is no Turkish poet of the name of Niedjar known at Constantinople, or, for the matter of that, anywhere else, while as for the late Osman Pasha he never had a daughter, his family being composed of boys, two of which are married to the eldest daughters of the Sultan. The names of these two Princesses are Zelkie and Naime.

It is a pity to spoil so pretty a story, to which one of the most important and widely circulated London newspapers devotes two columns and a half of its space, the article being interlarded with poetry. But there is so much that is strange in the truth, as recorded in these letters, that it is totally unnecessary to resort to fiction.

Possibly some imaginative newspaper correspondent in search of a topic has invested with Oriental garb and coloring the old and perfectly authentic story of the Infanta Josepha of Spain (now over 73 years old) and sister-in-law of Queen Isabella), who, when 20 years of age, eloped from the Royal Palace at Madrid with the Cuban born reporter of a Madrid newspaper, Guell y Rente, whom she married at Valladolid, subsequently making her home with him in France, until she had been pardoned and restored to favor by good-natured Queen Isabella. She is not the only Spanish Princess who has eloped in this way. For her sister, the late Infanta Isabella, eloped from her father's house with the Polish Count Gurowski, who carried her down from her balcony by a rope ladder in most romantic style. Finally, there is Princess Elvira of Spain, daughter of Don Carlos, who eloped with a married man, the Roman painter Folchi.

DEACONESSES FAVOR BICYCLE.

Members of Chicago Society Regard Ban Placed on Wheel by Cincinnati Branch as Unreasonable.

Chicago Deaconesses are not disturbed by reports from Cincinnati, O., where the board of the Bethesda Deaconess and Hospital association has refused its members permission to ride the bicycle. The Chicago Deaconesses say they have always ridden the wheel and do so now whenever they choose to in making their calls or for pleasure.

"I use the wheel myself," said Miss Isabella Horton, superintendent of the Chicago Deaconess Home, 227 E. Ohio street, "and all the members of our society do. The Bethesda is a German organization, and I understand has always objected to the bicycle."

Objections to the wheel are regarded by Miss Horton as based on prejudices that are not reasonable.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN.

The Boston Transcript is of the opinion that the new and hopeful thing about the negro problem in the South is that white women are taking hold of the schooling and moral training of the colored children.

The largest legacy Paris has ever received comes from a woman, Mlle. Tanies, in the shape of 5,000,000 francs for an orphanage and a school of architectural design under the direction of the Municipal Council.

A bequest of $2,000,000, by Astrachow, a Russian merchant, for the establishment of a university for women at Moscow, has been accepted by the government. It is proposed to establish faculties of medicine and science at once.

Miss Cora A. Wellman has been appointed by the New Hampshire Supreme Court as assignee to wind up the affairs of the Hinsdale Savings Bank. She had been acting as treasurer of the bank, and was recommended for the present appointment by the incorporators.

Mrs. Henry N. Couden is the only person, outside of the members of Congress, who is allowed in the Speaker's lobby while the House is in session. Her husband, the Rev. Mr. Couden, chaplain of the House, is blind, and it is necessary for Mrs. Couden to accompany him.

The Woman's Journal calls attention to the fact that Corydon, Wayne County, Ia., will have a system of electric lights, largely due to the way the women turned out to vote on that question at the recent election. It is often said that if women had the ballot they would not use it; but in Corydon almost half the votes were cast by women, and this without any canvass being made to urge them to vote. The report says: "The ladies were treated with the utmost respect at the polls, and were usually accompanied by husbands, fathers, or sons."

The Laggard.

Fate's Whirligig.
